©CL 17929

FRIDAY, THE 13TH

By Hal Roach.

MAY 29 1922

Our hero paul parrott is not superstitious, but he believes in signs with the result that while he is on his way to visit the darling of his heart, he nearly picks up a horse-shoe, but would have picked it up if a police officer hadnot caught a nail in his rubber heel and kept gaily on his way. Paul endeavors to grasp the omen of good-luck but all in vain. When he does do it eventually, the offieer's shoe comes with it and to make matters worse said officer steps into a mud puddle and then turning angrily to the cause of his discomfort proceeds to rout him verbally but Paul who has a cheefful fun making way pulls a few funny stunts that cause the officer to laugh and forgive him. Paul has a rival for the girl's hand and when during his visit the rival calls a number of funny incidents all having to do with superstition transpires. But the girlbeing the fondest of Paul decides to marry him on Friday, the 13th, and thus banish forever the mystic signs and omens that portend only for the evil.

This document is from the Library of Congress
"Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, 1912-1977"

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:
https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004

Class M Finding Aid:
https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress