Struggling Artist Saved From Poverty by Menial

"A Model Made"

One-reel Star Comedy

Featuring DOTTY WOLBERT

DOTTY is a scrubwoman in an artist's studia. She overhears his model threaten to quit work unless she is paid for all the posing she has done. The artist is broke and tells her he must first sell a canvas before he can pay what he owes.

Wanting to help the artist, Dotty puts on the model's robes and asks if she won't do. He drives her away.

A prospective customer brings in a young lady whose portrait he wants painted. Dotty's baby son paints his bald spot while the old man is asleep on a couch. While the artist is getting acquainted with his new setter, Dotty, still attired in flowing draperies, enters the studio and flirts with the old man.

He becomes infatuated with her. She puts her head through one of the canvases and the old man buys the picture with her in it. The artist is again financially solvent, Dotty has a bean, and the little boy has a new drawing book, the old man's bald spot.
