"THE Misfit Pair"

One-reel Star Comedy

CHARLES and Lloyd both love Cutey. Lloyd is a helper in a grocery store. A customer comes in to buy a fish so Lloyd goes out and rescues a trout from drowing in the lake nd sells it to the customer. While wrapping it up the fish escapes and hides in Lloyd's pants. He secures it finally and the customer takes it away.

As Lloyd is closing up the shop preparatory to visiting Cutey he sees his rival, Charles, hanging from a roof where he has been working. Charles has kicked the ladder away by accident and is about to "come to earth" under disastrous circumstances unless help is forthcoming.

Lloyd thinks this a fine opportunity to dispose of his rival and decides to let him fall. His conscience troubles him, however, and after a prolonged struggle his better nature asserts itself and he starts to rescue his rival.

Just as he has the ladder nearly in place he hears cries for help coming from the lake and sees a man struggling in the water. How he dashes back and forth between Charles and the drowning man in an effort to save both at once furnishes one of the most amusing parts of this hilarious comedy.
