CAST

ELAINE and Bruce escape from the sinking steamer as it makes its last plunge. They find a life raft and climb upon it, but are forced to take to the water again when Hunch, in his submarine, searches the wreckage. They eventually drift ashore on a desert island. There they pass a night of terror with wild animals on all sides of them.

In the palace of Myopia, Vera and Holmes plan their escape from the palace. There also Hunch gets permission from the Ameer to form a salvaging expedition to search the waters about the island with a view to finding what has become of the precious formula.

On the island, while Bruce is out seeking food, Elaine gathers firewood. A leopard steals upon her unseen. Bruce, from a tree, sees her peril. He leaps upon the animal and, after a terrific fight, kills it.

At the palace, Vera and Holmes set in operation their plans to escape. Vera gets away, but Holmes is caught.

Elaine and Bruce have kindled a signal to attract the attention of any passing ship. A boat is finally sighted bearing down upon them. It is discovered just in time, for the animals have become bolder and are creeping closer to them. Elaine and Bruce flee to the beach. The animals come after them. A boat puts out from the ship and pulls in toward them. The two operatives wade out into the water to meet it and to escape from the wild beasts behind them. The boat comes close to them. They look up at it and there they see Hunch Henderson leering at them—the man to escape whom they have gone through all this.
