THE DAILY PHŒNIX.

"Let our Just Censure Attend the True Event."

BY J. A. SELBY. COLUMBIA, S. C., SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 23, 1870. VOL. VI—NO. 186.

THE DAGGER NAPOLEON GAVE.—The story of an old French officer, coming to redeem a relic of his martial days, is thus told by a correspondent writing from Vaux:

We had just finished dinner, and were smoking the post-prandial cigar, when an orderly came in to say that a Frenchman desired to speak with the Commandant of Vaux. "Monsieur le Commandant," said he, "and Messieurs les officiers, I beg of you to be seated; and if Monsieur le Colonel will grant me a few moments, I will not detain him long." A chair was immediately handed him, when he continued: "Monsieur le Colonel, I am, as you perceive, an old soldier of France, although I am sorry to say that my years and my hard service compelled me long since to relinquish my profession and to retire to this peaceful village of Lorraine, not too far off for me to hear the reveille and retreat borne to me morning and evening from Metz, and reminding me of days gone by. My poor country is in your hands. I am too much of a soldier not to respect orders. I had the proclamation brought to me that the inhabitants of Vaux should at once bring all their arms to the guard-house. Mine consisted of a fowling-piece and a dagger. It is on the subject of this dagger that I now come to disturb you. Gentlemen, you all know how an old soldier prizes the relics of by-gone glory; or the presents of some dear comrade who has fought and died by his side. I come to claim your forbearance and kindness in such a cause. That dagger was given to my father by the Emperor Napoleon I, on the bloody field of Austerlitz. I have worn it at my side in many a hard-fought action, and now I seem to miss my old comrade from the hall where he used to hang, and I come to beg you to give the old soldier back a memento that to you is useless, but that serves to remind him of comrades dead and gone, of hard-fought fields, and lonely bivouacs. If I have asked too much, excuse the trouble I have given you in listening to my story; but if it is possible for you to grant my request, accept the thanks of an old soldier, who, like you all, has fought and bled for his country." I need hardly add what was the sequel. An orderly was immediately despatched for the much-prized dagger; the old French gentleman smoked a cigar and drank a glass of wine; and when his much prized weapon was returned to him by the Colonel, a tear glittered in his eye, as he drew up his tall figure at the door, and with a "Dieu vous benisse, Messieurs," he bowed and left us.

An eccentric but observant English traveler says that he has traveled three times round the globe, and seen but two classes of people—men and women.

Special Notices.

A TAINTED ATMOSPHERE.—Malarious fevers are most prevalent in the fall. Heavy and unwholesome exhalations then arise from the earth, and the great disparity between the temperature of day and night predisposes the system, enfeebled by the summer heats, to epidemic diseases. The secretive organs, the liver especially, are apt, at this period of the year, to become inert and sluggish, and all the bodily powers require renovation. The best, indeed the only protection against the morbid influences of the season is a wholesome medicated stimulant. Pre-eminent among the restoratives of this class, and indeed foremost among the remedial and preventive medicines of modern times, stands Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Its reputation is co-extensive with the Western Hemisphere; it has been a standard article for twenty years; its sales (as may be ascertained by the revenue returns) are far larger than those of any other proprietary preparation on this continent; and the testimony in its favor embraces letters of approval from the most distinguished members of all the learned professions and from well known residents of almost every city in the Union. These are its credentials. To state what it is doing to prevent and assuage the sufferings of the human family would require more space than can be given to the subject here. The dyspeptic, the bilious, the nervous, the weak and emaciated, the desponding, the broken down, find in its renovating and regulating properties a sure and immediate means of relief. It is a pure vegetable specific, at once safe and potent, and for which the whole materia medica affords no substitute. Oct 16 †6

PAIN KILLER—PERRY DAVIS & SON—MANUFACTURERS AND PROPRIETORS, PROVIDENCE, R. I.

[TESTIMONIALS FROM THE PRESS.]

This remedy is well known to be one of the very best ever offered to the public. It is all that it is represented to be. The testimonials in its favor, reaching back for a series of years, and the experience of a long test, incontestibly prove it to be one of the most reliable specifics of the age.—Old North State.

We cheerfully add our testimony in favor of this medicine—Roman Citizen.

DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.—We have tried this medicine, and assure our readers that it not only possesses all the virtues claimed for it, but in many instances surpasses any other remedy we have ever known.

[Herald of Gospel Liberty.

It is really a valuable medicine—it is used by many physicians.—Boston Traveler.

I have used Davis' Pain Killer, and consider it an indispensable article in the medicine box. It has effected cures in diarrhœa, and for cuts and bruises it is invaluable.

[New York Examiner.

Spoken of in terms of high commendation by both Druggist and Physician.

[Philadelphia Eagle.

There is no medicine I value so highly as the Pain Killer—have used it for years, and in every instance it has proved a sovereign remedy.—Messenger, Glens Falls, New York.

Known almost universally to be a good remedy for burns, and other pains of the body, and is valuable, not only for colds in winter, but for various summer complaints.

To the Dental Profession.

TO save natural teeth, not to destroy, must be the aim of every intelligent Dentist. The deplorable practice of extracting all teeth, sound or defective, which stand in the way of a full set, is due, in a great measure, to the impossibility of constructing, by means of clumsy, block-rubber teeth, partial cases that can be worn with any degree of comfort or usefulness.

In order to ameliorate this practice, which cannot but be repugnant to the better judgment of every conscientious and enlightened operator, the Patentee makes the following reasonable proposition:

He will dispose of the sole right of constructing dentures, according to his improved method, for any city, town or county, to an experienced practitioner residing therein; or the right for a State, or State association; giving also to the purchasers the privilege of granting licenses to such operators as will faithfully carry out the design of the improvement.

Or he will enter into an arrangement with members of the profession, by which they can have constructed at the Laboratory of Reynolds & Reynolds, under their inspection and according to his method, such cases as they may desire; especially difficult, partial cases, designed to prevent the mutilation of young subjects, and to enable those more advanced in age, to retain for many years, their remaining natural teeth, as good and useful organs.

Opportunity will thus be afforded Dentists of testing the value of this improvement, until such time as they, having become convinced of its superiority, shall desire to obtain the right to use it as proposed above.

A margin, sufficient to secure the co-operation of experienced and intelligent operators, will be cheerfully conceded, for the agency they must share in bringing this method more generally within reach of the public. Their co-operation is earnestly invoked, as by the general introduction of this improvement, the practice above referred to, so revolting to humanity and so opprobrious to the profession, may be, to a great extent, suppressed.

It may be well to add here, as demonstrating the availability of this method, that out of over 100 cases furnished by R. & R. since its introduction, not one has been returned for repair! In one or two instances, where, from careless handling, when out of the mouth, a tooth has been broken, the accident has been remedied to the great delight of the wearer, with only a few minutes detention. No other system shows such results!

"Certificates may be had for anything," it is said. We prefer a reference to duplicates retained in our office (R. & R.) of cases now in daily use, which could not have been satisfactorily worn, if constructed on any other plan. The wearers of these have, in many instances, voluntarily tendered to us the privilege of personal reference.

The proposition to construct cases according to my improvement, applies only to those who are licensees af the Goodyear Company.

Appeal to the Citizens of Columbia!

WE, the undersigned Committee appointed at a regular meeting of the Independent Fire Engine Company of this city, to solicit from the citizens of Columbia a subscription to enable the said Company to procure a Steam Fire Engine, do herewith present the said appeal, and would most respectfully set forth the urgency and necessity of said great addition to the Fire Department; and feeling assured that our possession of such a machine, as we now ask our citizens to aid us in obtaining, will redound more to the safety of property and speedy subjugation of the devouring element than any means which our city has ever possessed. Our citizens are fully concious of the terrors resulting from fire, and the very serious inconvenience resulting therefrom. We feel confident that if our efforts in this respect prove available, in but one instance, we shall be fully remunerated for our labors, which are alone for the public good.
