Code 17874 HIGH TIDE - By Hal E. Roach

The comedy opens showing Professor Pepper and his companion, "Sunshine Sammy", arriving on this island in their oddly constructed submarine. Leaving the under-sea craft on the beach, they strike for inland on their exploring expedition. While they are both hunting, two castaways on a raft arrive on the mysterious island. The four adventurers join forces, but are separated when a huge bear suddenly appears. The castaways are captured by the cannibals and brought to the King's headquarters, where they are both placed in a large pot under the care of the King's chef. Meanwhile, the Professor has found the footprint of a strange animal, and, following it, he arrives at the cannibal's headquarters where he is also seized and placed in a pot to boil. "Sunshine Sammy", who was also separated, encounters the son of the King, a small negro, and the two indulge in a wrestling match in which "Sammy" is the victor, succeeding in getting the Prince's clothes away from him. Sammy appears at the camp where he is mistaken for the Prince. He orders that his friends be set free and the orders are about to be carried out when the real Prince arrives. The height of comedy is reached when the explorers all make their escape from the cannibals and sail away in the submarine.
