2. Mountain climbing is ordinarily done on foot you know but our experience was quite extraordinary as you will see for we motored through the heavy mountain snows to Government Camp in the "Timber Line."

3. Five minutes for refreshments.

4. And then, fortified by hot coffee and delicious bacon, we rang for "full speed ahead."

5. We crossed a little river on a bridge of snow.

6. A hearty welc me greeted us as we "drove" up to Government House - The first car up this season!

7. Mount Hood was first seen by the white man in 1792 and was named for Admiral Hood of the British Navy.

8. And early next morning when the shadows were long we began the real hike to the Summit of Mount Hood.

9. There's a gradual slope at the Timber Line that soon develops a husky climb as you journey on and up.

10. I hold above a careless land
The menace of the skies;
Within the hollow of my hand
The sleeping tempest lies;
Mine are the promise of the morn,
The triumph of the day;
And parting sunset's beams forlorn
Upon my heights delay.

11. Mountain climbing is an art. If you don't believe it try it, so watch the pecular "gait" of our Swiss guide as he "paces" us up the glacier.

12. You can walk this way all day - and not get tired!! - When you've learned how.

13. Years and Years ago when this old world of ours was in an experimental stage Mount Hood was an active volcano - and this is the core of the crater that once belched forth flame and ashes.

14. The "Hog Back" is the "Ridge Pole" of the glacier and you know how difficult it is to walk a ridge pole.

15. Now we were the first up this season so no friendly paths made our going easy, rather were we forced to cut our way up in the glacier.

16. "Over the Top."

17. And up here in this little cabin lives a Forest Ranger watching the heavily wooded valleys below for any sign of fire.

18. Going Down.

19. Touched by a light that hath no name
A glory never sung,
Aloft on sky and mountain wall
Are God's great pictures hung.
