LAW INTELLIGENCE.

An Application to Strike Your Correspondent from the Roll of Attorneys.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM—JUNE 12.—Before Justices BARNARD, SUTHERLAND and CLERKE.

It will be remembered that the facts out of which this application arises were fully reported in THE TRIBUNE. Miss Kate Busteed, a young lady of respectable connections in this city, was induced to marry one James T. Wilson, and afterward discovered that he had a wife alive at Plymouth in England. Thomas J. Stowell, a friend and intimate acquaintance of Wilson, obtained, as is alleged, fraudulently from Miss Busteed an authority to sue Wilson for a divorce, with the view of protecting Wilson from the charge of bigamy. The decree of divorce obtained by Stowell was set aside at Chambers by Judge Barnard, and he made an order directing Messrs. Edwin James and Dunphy as counselors of the Court to prepare affidavits of all the facts and submit them to the Court at General Term.

In compliance with this order Edwin James this morning handed to the Court affidavits embodying the charges against Stowell.

An affidavit was also made that Stowell had absconded from the city, and that a warrant for felony had been issued against him.

The Court took the papers.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM—JUNE 12.—Before Justices BARNARD, SUTHERLAND and CLERKE.

George D. Cragin and another agt. The New-York Central Railroad Co.

The plaintiffs shipped hogs over the defendants' road from Buffalo to Albany, in the Summer of 1862, in very hot weather. The agreement under which they were shipped was signed by the plaintiffs' agent, and agreed that the plaintiffs should take the risk of injuries which the hogs should sustain in consequence of heat, suffocation or other ill effects of being crowded. A great number of the hogs died, and for their loss on this account the plaintiffs sued the defendants.

On the trial, it was testified that to carry hogs safely in such weather, it was necessary to frequently wash them down by throwing water on them in the cars, and that arrangements to effect this were common on all the railroads of this country. Proof was further given that this was not done, in spite of the remonstrances of the plaintiffs' agent. The question submitted on the trial was whether, notwithstanding the agreement, the defendants were liable for their own negligence, and the Court deciding that they were, the Jury found for the plaintiffs. The case is now brought chiefly on the same question before the General Term for review. The Court reserved its decision.

John C. Dimnick for plaintiffs.

CHAMBERS—JUNE 12.—Before Justice INGRAHAM.

He was and is entitled to the salary. In the papers submitted to me I cannot find evidence enough to justify me in punishing them for contempt.

Before Justice J. F. BARNARD.

Charles Endus and others agt. Hudson River Railroad Company.—Motion denied.

MARINE COURT—June 12.—Before Judge GROSS.

Hannah O'Connor agt. Ernest Keyser.

This action was brought to recover damages for the violation of an agreement which the plaintiff claimed was made in February last with the defendant, through his agent, for the use and occupation of the premises belonging to the defendant, known as No. 268 Third-ave., at the annual rent of $400, that after such agreement was made the defendant rented the premises to another party at a higher rate or rent, repudiating the contract first made with the plaintiff. The plaintiff accordingly upon ascertaining these facts and upon the notice of the defendant, vacated the premises on the 1st day of May last, and brought this action to recover damages for the violation of the agreement, and it was shown that the plaintiff had occupied the premises for upward of four years, in the millinery, dre[illegible]king and fancy goods business, and that by reason of the [illegible]n of the landlord the plaintiff had lost custom to a certain extent, and had been deprived of the good will of the place. These allegations of the plaintiff were supported by the plaintiff herself and two other witnesses, but which were denied by the son of the defendant, who represented himself as the agent of the defendant. The case was then given to the jury, who brought in a verdict for the plaintiff for $120, with an extra allowance of costs.

E. W. Lodge for plaintiff. C. W. Sanford for defendant.

ROLL OF THE MISSING.

Search for Soldiers Whose Fate is Unknown.

ANOTHER CARD FROM MISS BARTON.

TO RETURNED SOLDIERS AND OTHERS!

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 1, 1866.

SOLDIERS AND FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS: This roll, No. 4, a continuation of No. 3, is composed entirely of names of soldiers who have been killed in battle, died in Southern prisons, or otherwise lost in the service, and whose fate is unknown to their friends.

Each name here enrolled is taken from the letter of some relative or friend, who has written to me asking my aid in their painful search; and in their behalf I appeal to you to give such facts relative to the fate of those men as you may recollect or can ascertain. They have been your comrades on march, picket, or raid, or in battle, hospital, or prison; and, falling there, the fact and manner of their death may be known only to you.

The thousands of letters making these inquiries are in my possession, filed and recorded, and the bereaved families and friends are anxiously waiting the information which they hope to obtain from you.

Please examine these rolls, and if you have facts relating to any one herein named, communicate them to me by letter, with your full address, that the information may be immediately forwarded to the inquiring friends.

As some may have returned since the inquiry, or a comrade whose name appears here may be known to you to be living, please inform me, that the name may be withheld from future rolls.

Letters of inquiry for missing soldiers need only to contain the names, with the regiment, company, and State, or other organization, to which they belonged, and the address of the writer plainly written.

No apology is necessary for writing me; and if a letter fails to receive an answer, please write again, as no letter will ever be intentionally neglected, and in no case will any compensation be accepted. CLARA BARTON.

Address Miss CLARA BARTON, Washington, D. C.
