THE MOMENTOUS LAWSUIT.

THE OPINION OF THE BROOKLYN CITY COURT REVERSED.

Preparations for a Crush in the Brooklyn Court Room this Morning. Jurors by the Thousand, Witnesses by the Score, and No Telling How Many Lawyers.

The order of the Court of Appeals was received in the City Court chambers in Brooklyn yesterday morning. It leaves the case where it was at first, except that it gives the City Court the power, which the Judges disclaimed, to grant the bill of particulars. As Judge Neilson, Chief of the city bench, in his written opinion, declared against the granting of the bill, it is probable that a new motion for it will also be denied, and this may in turn be appealed to the General Term.

The order of the Court of Appeals will not be published in full, Counsel for Mr. Tilton last evening stated that all of their witnesses had been subpœnaed, and they were anxious to get at once to the merits of the motion for a bill of particulars, which, they say, will show that the alleged crimes, particularly in the first date that they have in it, were committed at the time when, as they allege, in defence of Mr. Tilton's wishes, Mr. Beecher made his advances.

The one hundred jurors who were ordered to be in attendance at ten o'clock this morning, it is probable, will be a hundred of the number ordered. Arrangements for fifty reporters have been made, and both sides are to have a corps of stenographers to report and write out all of the arguments and testimony. Mr. Evarts is now in Washington, but is expected here to-morrow. He is to conduct Mr. Beecher's defence, and William O. Bunch will assist. Mr. Tilton's counsel, Judge Porter, Benjamin Truman, J. L. Hill, Thomas G. Shearman, and Mr. Tilton himself, are to be assisted by Mr. Fullerton, ex-Judge Fullerton, S. D. Morris, Roscoe A. Pryer, and Joseph Fearsall are to appear with Mr. Beecher for Mr. Tilton. It is thought that the case will be finished before the Judge Dwight Court, and the cross-examination of the Rev. Mr. Beecher will be resumed this morning.

The witnesses in the case are to be in the city shortly, if not now.
