

AFCCC-FULLE
Fuller and Warren Collection

Selected and converted. American Memory, Library of Congress. 1

1 of 2TextRobertson, Sidney [md] collectorGraham, George Vinton [md] singerAsmussen, Ella [md] transcriber of textRecorded at San Jose, CaliforniaDecember 1938UC-WPA Disk No. 5E-A2

Fuller and WarrenCome all you young, you royal rovyers rovers,Once I was as brisk as you;But all for the sake of an English lady,A gentleman of note I slew.She was young, airy and handsome,Lately from old England came.I courted her and gained her fancy,Kathrine Farrer was her name.A ring I gave, and a pledge of marriage;She the same did gladly take.But, alas, she being fickle-minded,Her solemn vow she then did break.She formed an acquaintance with former Warren.He unto this fickle dame did say,"Oh, Fuller's a rake and a rambling follow.Take my advice, send him away."The ring was returned unto me,Closely confined in a letter of Warren's writing.I swore revenged on him I'd be.Then my papers I did get ready,And unto Warren I did say,"Come, go with me unto your office;My business there I can't delay."He being in a pleasant humor,He walked alone and stepped before.I followed him so closely after,And immediately did shut the door.Then my papers I did present him,Saying, "Sir, to this you set your name,And own yourself a base deceiver;To the English lady quit all claim."He smilingly refused to sign it.Then my pistols I did present,Saying, "Take your choice:Defend yourself, for to take your life is my intent!" * 2 2 of 2Fuller and WarrenHe smiling said, "You are in romance.You could not think to break my rest."This more enraged my malicious humor;I instantly shot him through the breast.In the year one thousand eight hundred and twentyJanuary the tenth day,My pistols being close confinedWhich made a low and a solemn sound.

* This stanza was dictated to the transcriber of the text by Mr. Graham.

1

5E#2 Page 1. FULLER AND WARREN.All right. This is a real old song known as FULLER AND WARREN.Come all you young, you royal rovaurs rovyurs[.?] Once I was as brisk as you ; But all for the sake of an English lady , A gentleman of note I slew.

Rovyers

She was young, [airy?] and handsome , Lately from old England came . I courted her and gained her fancy , [Carthwright?] [Foyer?] ? Kathrine Farrer ? was her name.

I think airy is more likely -SR.

A ring I gave , and a pledge of marriage ; She the same did gladly take . But, alas, she being fickle-minded , Her solemn vow she then did break.She formed an acquaintance with farmer former Warren . He unto this fickle dame did say , " Oh, Fuller's a rake and a rambling fellow[.?]Take my advice, send him away. "

46

Her The ring was returned unto me , [Closely confined in a letter of Warren's writing.?]I swore revenge on him I'd be.

49

2 Page 2. FULLER AND WARREN.Then my papers I did get ready , And unto Warren I did say , "Come, go with me unto your office ; My business there I can't delay."He being in a pleasant humor , He walked alone and stepped before . I followed him so closely after , And immediately did shut the door.Then my papers I did present him , Saying, "Sir, to this you set your name , And own yourself a base deceiver ; To the English lady quit all claim."

Insert [?] He smilingly refused to sign it. Then my pistols I did present, Saying, "Take your choice: Defend yourself, for to take your life is my intent." [?]

He spiting smiling said, "You are in romance . You could not think to break my vest ? rest ."This more enraged my malicious humor ; I instantly shot him through the breast.

[?]

In the year one thousand eight hundred and twenty Of January the tenth day , My pistol pistols being in close confine confined. Which made a low and a solemn [(defective sound .)?]

This [?] was dictated to the transcriber of the text by Mr. [Graham?].