

Library of Congress

C 25 Side A Original W 36 Begin M13 (1)

Sentences read aloud by the informant

I ran around the block twice.

John awoke late yesterday morning.

It will probably rain tomorrow.

We saw Steve yesterday.

I had fun this year.

The fog was very beautiful. It seems foggy today.

We dug the tree out by a large root.

Do you play the piano?

I put the roof on that house.

Who lives in that new house?

Library of Congress

Mr. Jones owns three new houses.

Mary owns a dairy.

Did you bury that post?

The baby ate his dinner with a spoon.

He doesn't have a sense of humor.

I will wash my face today.

Ida drank her bottle quietly.

Did you see the size of that keg?

The dog jumped through seven hoops.

I hit the nail with the hammer.

Frank bought a new plow.

Did you grease that car?

Library of Congress

That old tobaggan rides well.

Your hands are quite greasy.

C 25 page 2

Will you move the wheelbarrow?

That grindstone looks ancient.

I bought a brand new car.

You will look quite pretty tomorrow.

Isn't that a new dress?

Are those rubies in that bracelet?

It is only noon and the creek is rising.

Your dog is in my yard.

Clara owns that broken cow.

Library of Congress

Did you get wool from a sheep?

My hog weighed 300 pounds.

This is the best sausage I tasted.

The butcher is quite young.

The meat is spoiled.

We made maple syrup each spring.

We make maple syrup each spring.

This is genuine leather.

That apricot is ripe.

We grew that tomato.

That soot is black.

The strawberries ripen in June.

Library of Congress

My daughter is almost sixteen.

That girl is a stranger in town.

Is your aunt still living?

Are you a good student?

I taught her to be a good secretary.

Will you wait just a minute?

C 25 page 3

Do your gums hurt?

Does your city have a library?

You need a heater when it is this cold.

Do you respect the police?

Have you ever travelled to Cincinatti?

Library of Congress

New Orleans is in the south.

I went to school in Louisville.

Chicago is 390 mile south of Marquette.

Marquette plays hockey against Des Moines.

Do you believe in God?

It has been a beautiful weekend.

I would like to borrow that shirt.

It has been two weeks since I saw you.

There were four of us last year.

We kept our oats in the granary.

It is about time you dumped the garbage.

Don't move toward me.

Library of Congress

Do you have a college education?

Is he from your government?

I live at Route 2, Box 83.

I will be 27 next year.

This is just not correct.

My sister owns a horse.

Did you catch a fish?

I won 13 shirts.

The stirrups were covered with leather.

My percolator is seven years old.

C 25 page 4

I am sorry I hit you in the mouth.

Library of Congress

Are you deaf?

I would rather you didn't do that.

These ones will do nicely.

I saw forty fish yesterday.

I have a kettle like this.

My bottle is empty.

That horse has sharp hooves.

What color is that?

Chew your gum quietly.

I shall not be so angry tomorrow.

Ida will be married tomorrow.

My sister teaches English.

Library of Congress

Are you from a foreign country?

I ate one orange earlier today.

I lived on a farm for ten years.

John used 200 yards of wire.

You are on my list of guests.

Marquette is a long way from Miami.

It would pay you to be less careless.

I have a pain in my stomach.

I need a penny for the tax on my gum.

He won't do that.

Your humor is very caustic.

John was with you yesterday.

Library of Congress

Which one of you did that?

How did you miss that throw?

Mrs. Jones is very mean.

C 25 page 5

He has diptheria.

(says to herself) Where am I?

I like that, this radish.

Don't touch this flower vase.

I can't do it.

(to herself) I forgot one.

This water is hot.

I prefer coffee.

Library of Congress

You may either sit or stand.

You may neither sit nor stand.

I like raspberries.

My, our son is in Vietnam.

Nothing is wrong.

Don't do that.

Please rinse the clothes.

He goes to college.

We ate at six o'clock.

NEW READER MALE

I took a sauna last night.

I ran around the block twice.

Library of Congress

John awoke last Saturday morning.

It was probably raining tomorrow.

We saw Steve yesterday.

reads same sentences as first reader Rest of C25 side A and side B Consists of additional persons reading the same set of sentences.