Interviewee: Keith Hershberger (KH)
Interviewer: Meredith McGriff (MM)
AFC Collection Number: AFC 2018/030
Interview ID: 5060
Date: October 15, 2018
City/State: Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania
Venue: In the dining room of interviewee Keith Hershberger’s home.
Language(s): English

Photo Captions/Details

afc2018030_05060_ph01.jpg
Keith Hershberger and his infant daughter. They are sitting on the steps of their home in Highland Park, Pittsburgh, where Keith hosts a stop of the Highland Park Pottery Tour.

afc2018030_05060_ph02.jpg
Keith Hershberger and his infant daughter. They are sitting on the steps of their home in Highland Park, Pittsburgh, where Keith hosts a stop of the Highland Park Pottery Tour.

afc2018030_05060_ph03.jpg
The exterior of Union Project, a community art center in Pittsburgh with a strong ceramics program. Keith Hershberger was a member of their clay co-op for many years.

afc2018030_05060_ph04.jpg
The front of one of Keith Hershberger’s business cards, which shows a selection of the popular dinosaur mugs he has been making and selling.

afc2018030_05060_ph05.jpg
The front of one of Keith Hershberger’s business cards, which shows one of the popular dinosaur mugs he has been making and selling. The symbol to the left of the word “ceramics” is the stamp that he uses to mark his pottery.