F535 .M62 LIBRARY OF CONGRESS RECEIVED JUN 10 1924 DOCUMENTS DIVISION

PREFACE.

The sketches in this second volume, as in Volume I, end with the date of the last appearance of their respective subjects as public officers in Michigan. Since the material in the previous and present volumes is inaccessible except in the largest libraries, it is believed that the immediate publication of the material at hand in an edition large enough to supply all libraries in the state, will be appreciated by the general public and will take care of their immediate needs. Material is being gathered for a supplementary work which will bring the sketches forward. The gathering of this material is a considerable task and involves research in newspaper files, public records, and the carrying on of voluminous correspondence. To assist in gathering material for the supplementary work that will bring the sketches as near up-to-date as possible, the Commission has appointed a “Council of Research,” consisting of about one hundred public spirited citizens in various parts of the state to serve without pay in assisting in the work. This method necessarily involves delay, but we hope the results will be satisfactory.

MICHIGAN BIOGRAPHIES

EDWARD S. LACEY

Member of Congress, 1881-3 and 1883-5. Was born in Chili, N. Y., Nov. 26, 1835. In 1842 he removed to Union City, Mich.; in 1843 to Kalamo, and in 1857 to Charlotte. Was born in Windsor, Ashtabula County, O., July 2, 1824. When twelve years of age he, with his parents, moved to Steuben County, Ind. His schooling, except three terms at the Collegiate Institute, Ontario, Ind., was obtained winters in the log schoolhouse of the period. From the age of 17 to 24 he worked at carding wool and dressing cloth. In 1848, he was nominated by the Whigs for the Indiana Legislature. His representative district, composed of DeKalb and Steuben counties, was heavily democratic, but he came within eleven votes of being elected. In 1849 he moved to this State and settled on a farm in Gilead, in Branch County. For eleven years he was Supervisor of his township. In 1854 he represented his district in the Lower House of the Legislature, and from 1864 to 1868 was State Senator. During his six legislative years he was present at every roll call, and voted upon the final passage of every bill. From 1858 to 1862 he was Treasurer or Branch County. He was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1867, and as shown by the published debates, was one of the best informed and among the most valuable of that body. In 1879 he was appointed State Oil Inspector by Gov. Croswell, and was re-appointed by Gov. Jerome. For several years he was Master of the Michigan State Grange. Jan. 15, 1885, he was appointed a member of the State Board of Agriculture. In 1886 he became the unanimous nominee of the Republican party of the State for Governor, and was elected to the office. In 1888 he was unanimously re-nominated by the Republicans for the same office and was elected. When elected Governor, contrary to custom, he took up his residence at Lansing, where he lived and devoted his whole time and energies to the duties of his office. The rural life led by Gov. Luce, his wide official experience, the evenings of many years at his farm home spent in valuable reading, his familiarity with the State, its institutions, needs and requirements were of great service to him as well as to the people, in the discharge of his duties. He died at Coldwater, Mar. 18, 1905.

The son readily followed his father's footsteps, and after graduating from the Sheffield Technical School of Yale University in 1885, he secured employment with the old Detroit, Bay City & Alpena Railroad. His first work was with the engineering force. His advancement was rapid and he was soon appointed general freight and passenger agent of the company. It was at this time that his father died and young Newberry was called home to take charge of his father's estate. For a number of years these interests occupied all his energies. For the last fifteen years he has been president of Grace Hospital, Detroit, and under his leadership, the hospital has more than doubled its capacity. In 1896 Mr. Newberry and a number of his associates organized the Michigan Naval Militia Brigade. Two years later, on the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, the entire organization enlisted in the United States regular navy, Mr. Newberry serving as Lieutenant on the U.S.S. Yosemite. In 1905 he was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Navy by President Roosevelt, and three years later was advanced to Secretary of the Navy. When, in April, 1917, President Wilson declared a state of war existing between the United States and Germany, Mr. Newberry immediately offered his services to his country. Two months later his services were accepted and, in view of his previous experience, he was given the rank of Lieutenant Commander, the highest rank ever conferred by the U. S. Navy Department.

His father was a mechanic, and died leaving a widow and four children, of which Patrick was next to the youngest. In a few years their means were exhausted, and when the subject of this sketch was but seven years old he was compelled to help make his own living. Afterwards he traveled through Ireland, Scotland and England, and finally, in 1843, sailed for America, where he learned the brass molder's trade, married and settled in Detroit, where he resided, working at his trade until 1884, when he was made sewer inspector. In politics he was a Democrat.

ROBERT STUART

State Treasurer, 1840-1. Was born at Callander, Perthshire, Scotland, in 1785. He received a fair education, and at the request of his uncle, David Stuart, then an agent of the Northwest Company, he came to Montreal, Canada, when twenty-two years of age. There he made himself master of the French language, and subsequently entered the office of the Attorney General of the province. He, with his uncle, John Jacob Astor, and others, in 1810 became partners in a scheme for establishing trading posts on the Pacific coast and its rivers. In September, 1810, the Stuarts with a crew of fifty-one sailed for the mouth of the Columbia River, where they founded Astoria, and established several trading posts on the Columbia and its tributaries. The War of 1812 compelled them to sell out to the Northwest Fur Co., and Mr. Stuart with a party of six traveled overland from Astoria to New York. In 1817 he removed to the island of Mackinac as the general agent of the American Fur Company, which he successfully managed until 1835, when the business was closed out and he removed to Detroit, investing largely in real estate. He became a director in the old bank of Michigan, and was appointed State Treasurer in 1840, which position he held nearly one year. He was a ruling elder in the Presbyterian Church. In all religious matters his place was in the front rank. He died Oct. 29, 1848.

Resided at Laingsburg in 1887, and was a farmer.

ROBERT L. TAYLOR

Senator, 1889-90 and 1891-2, from the Sixteenth District, comprising the counties of Lapeer and Sanilac. Was born at Almont, Lapeer County, Nov. 3, 1839, of Scotch parentage. His father at the time was owner of a quarter section of wild land, which he had purchased a few years before, and which he was engaged in clearing up. As a consequence the son was brought up on the farm, working at home as soon as he was able to be of any use and attending school in the winter time, thus becoming well acquainted with all the hardships of those early times. At 18 years of age he lost his father by accidental drowning, and so was charged with the oversight of the farm, being the oldest of the seven brothers of the family. Having a taste for books he succeeded in preparing himself for entering the University of Michigan, and was admitted to that institution at the age of 22. After pursuing his studies there in the classical course for three years, he severed his connection with the University to take advantage of an opening presented for engaging in the mercantile business at Almont, near his old home. After engaging in this business very successfully for three years, he sold out and began the study of law, passing one year in the law department of the University and was admitted to the bar in 1869 at Lapeer. Then engaging in the practice of law at Almont, he built up a prosperous business which he pursued until the fall of 1872, when he was elected Register of Deeds. He removed to the County seat, Lapeer city, to perform the duties of the office, and being re-elected he filled the office for four years. After the expiration of the four years as Register of Deeds he devoted his time to practice of law, and in 1880 was elected Prosecuting Attorney of the county, and served two years in that capacity. Felling a return of the old taste for country life he declined a renomination and gave more time to the home and rural affairs connected with his place in the suburbs of the city of Lapeer. He was married in 1866 to Miss Margaret I. Birrell.

THOMAS CHALMERS TAYLOR

Representative from the Second District of Lapeer County, 1889-90. Was born at Almont,

BENJAMIN F. H. WITHERELL

Delegate from Wayne County to the Second Convention of Assent, 1836; Senator from the First District, 1840-1; Representative from Wayne County, 1842; member of the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan, 1848-52; Delegate from Wayne County to the Constitutional Convention of 1850; and Justice of the Supreme Court, 1857. Was born at Fair Haven, Vt., Aug. 4, 1797. By reason of turbulence on the part of the Indians, preceding and following the War of 1812, the family of Judge James Witherell did not come permanently to reside in Michigan until 1817, the subject of this sketch up to that time pursuing his studies, which were classical if not collegiate. He was admitted to the bar in Detroit in 1819. He was Justice of the Peace, 1824; City Recorded, 1828; Judge of Probate, 1834-5, and Prosecuting Attorney, 1835 to 1839. In 1843 a district criminal court was organized, embracing the counties of Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw and Jackson, and Mr. Witherell was appointed Judge, holding the position until 1848, when the court was abolished. In the fall of 1843 Judge Witherell tried one Chorr, at Ann Arbor, for the murder of a neighbor named Dunn, with whom he had had trouble. Chorr was convicted and sentenced to death, but pending a new trial, made his escape. This was the only capital sentence ever pronounced under the law of this State, the death penalty being soon after abrogated. He was Circuit Judge 1857 to 1867, acting also a portion of the time as Judge of the Recorder's Court. He held for a time the honorary position of historiographer of Detroit, was president of the State Historical Society, and of the Soldier and Sailors’ Monument Association, and held high positions in the State militia, including that of Major General. He contributed to the press and to the public archives many papers of great literary and historical value. In politics he was a Democrat. He died in Detroit, June 26, 1867.

JAMES WITHERELL
Library of Congress

Judge of the Territorial Supreme Court, 1808-28; Secretary and Acting Governor of Michigan Territory, 1828-30. Was born in Mansfield, Mass., June 16, 1759. He served through the greater part of the War of the Revolution, entering the service as a private, and rising to the rank of Adjutant in a Massachusetts regiment. He studied medicine and law, and settled in Vermont where he held 464 many positions of trust, including that of Judge, member of the Governor’s Council, and of the Legislature. He was elected to Congress in 1807, but resigned his seat to accept an appointment by President Jefferson, as one of the Judge of the Supreme Court of the Territory of Michigan, coming here in 1808. He held a local military command during the War of 1812, especially raised for the defense of Detroit, and it is reported that on the surrender of the town by Gen. Hull, he broke his sword to escape the mortification of relinquishing it to an enemy. In January, 1828, after a service of twenty years, Judge Witherell relinquished the judgeship to become secretary of the Territory. He held this position until May, 1830, and during the first three months of 1830 was acting Governor. He raised a family of several children. The late Judge B. F. H. Witherell was his son, and a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Palmer, was the mother of Senator Thos. W. Palmer. Judge Witherell died in Detroit, Jan. 9, 1838.

SOLOMON L. WITHEY

Senator from the Twenty-ninth District, 1861-2; and Delegate from Kent County to the Constitutional Convention of 1867. Was born at St. Albans, Vt., Apr. 21, 1820. His father, Solomon Withey, known to early residents of Michigan as General Withey, emigrated to Grand Rapids in 1836 with his family. Mr. Withey received a common school and academical education, and in 1839 entered the law office of Rathbone & Martin. He was admitted to the bar in 1843, and engaged in active for nineteen years. His career at the bar was one that gave him the unlimited confidence of his clients, and he acquired a competence. His cool judgment, perfect integrity and high character as a man, and thorough knowledge of the law, made him prominent. From 1848 to 1852 he was Judge of Probate of Kent County. In 1863 he was appointed by President Lincoln, United States
Library of Congress

District Judge for the western district of Michigan, a position he filled with signal ability until his death, which occurred at San Diego, Cal., 25, 1886. He married Marian L. Hinsdill, in 1846, and left five children—four sons and one daughter. In 1869 he was tendered the position of United State Circuit Judge for the State of Ohio, Michigan, Tennessee and Kentucky, which he declined. He was director and president of the First National Bank of Grand Rapids for many years. He was Republican in politics, and a consistent member of the Congregational Church.
