RUSSIAN BUSINESS MEN EGLED THROUGH PLOT

KIEF, Nov. 13.—To get rid of four successful competitors, some merchants forged an order by the governor of the city condemning their rivals to banishment to Siberia. The police fell into the trap, or were bribed, with the result that the unfortunate men were arrested and sent into exile.
Later the plot was revealed through the indiscretion of some of the plotters, and the relatives of the condemned men got wind of the truth, although for three months their urgent appeals had been ignored. The men have now been released, and everybody is wondering how the authorities could have been taken in.
