VALDEZ-EAGLE WAGON ROAD WILL BE SURVEYED

Senate Committee Agrees to a Compromise By Allowing Money for Survey of Long Overland Road to Yukon

[Special Dispatch to Daily Alaskan.] Washington, April 21.—Senate committee on appropriations agreed upon a compromise on the subject of aid for the Valdez-Eagle road by granting the money for the surveys only, at this time. This proposition will probably be agreeable to the house of representatives, which will no doubt accept it as a compromise.

Cousins Meet in Skagway

Godfrey Chealander, Skagway's popular merchant, met a cousin this week under unique circumstances. Four of the Dolphin's passengers were in Mr. Chealander's store, and he recognized them as from his own native Sweden. After a few minutes conversation, one of the men said to Mr. Chealander: "I know you, you are my cousin." The speaker was Frederick Peterson, and his father and Mr. Chealander's mother were brother and sister. The cousins had not met for 20 years. Mr. Peterson and his companions went to Atlin.

Collector Andrews To Be Transferred to Eagle No More Dawson Passenger Stages After Tuesday

Clarence L. Andrews, the popular and efficient deputy collector of customs for the port of Skagway, will be transferred to Eagle. He received his orders from Collector Jarvis yesterday on the City of Seattle notifying him that his duties as deputy collector at Skagway will cease April 30, and that from and after May 1 he will be deputy collector of customs for Eagle.

Mr. Andrews will be succeeded at Skagway by Matthew Bridge, who formerly resided in this city and was connected with the customs service. He left here early in 1899 and has been at Sitka since that time.

Mr. Andrews will leave Skagway as soon after May 1 as he can get satisfactory transportation to Eagle.
