JAPAN MAKES SHARP REPLY SOVIET NOTE

FRONTIER INCIDENTS AGAIN IN FOREFRONT

Foreign Minister Is Just Bristling with Rage, So to Speak

TOKYO, July 20.—The Soviet's hard note to Japan on July 1, protesting to violation of its territory, has evoked an equally sharp reply.

Foreign Minister Hirota's note said Manchoukuo's claim to the Delta islands at Santsyaochow, at the confluence of the Amur and Asuro rivers, near Khabarovsk, remained unaltered.

Ambassador Yourenoff delivered the Soviet's strongly-worded note at Tokyo on July 1 after a number of frontier incidents. That note said a continuation of incidents "may have very serious consequences in the relations between Soviet Russia and Japan on peace in the Far East."

Hirota's reply bristled with charges of untruth and misrepresentation.

COUNCIL MOVES TO ELIMINATE FIRE HAZARDS

Strict Enforcement of City Building Ordinances Ordered by City Fathers

Strict enforcement of the city's building ordinances and the ordinance prohibiting the construction, maintenance and occupancy of structures that menace the lives, health and property of residents was ordered by the City Council at its regular meeting last night.

Following Councilman G. E. Krause's announcement that he had carefully examined the present building ordinance and had found that in his opinion only a few changes would be necessary to make it effective and up to date, Fire Chief V. W. Mulvihill wanted to know how far his authority extended in ordering the elimination and prevention of fire hazards. He declared that buildings were being erected without adequate fire escapes and that a number of structures in the city were serious fire menaces to adjoining property; the members making no effort to remedy the situation.

Committee Appointed The discussion disclosed that Ordinance No. 199, passed by the Council in 1928, provides for the creation of a Board of Health and Fire Inspectors with authority to deal with such matters, and that a law passed by the last Territorial Legislature strengthened this ordinance. Mayor Goldstein announced the appointment of the following members on this committee: Councilmen Henry Messerschmidt, G. E. Krause, and R. H. Beistline; Fire Chief V. W. Mulvihill, Police Chief Roy Hoffman and Health Officer Dr. W. W. Council.

The Council ordered that ample publicity be given as to the intention to enforce the building ordinances, which include provisions for the filing of building plans and payment of permit fees.

Sidewalk Project Approved Calling for bids for the construction of 2400 lineal feet of concrete sidewalk as a part of the PWA improvement program was approved by the Council. The following blocks are included in this project:

The North side of 6th between Gold and Harris; north side of 5th between Franklin and Gold; north side of 5th between Harris and East; south side of 4th between Franklin and Gold; both sides of 2nd between Franklin and Gold; east side of Franklin between 5th and 6th; west side of Gold between 2nd and 3rd; west side of Harris between 4th and 5th; west side Calhoun between 6th and 7th. Bids are returnable by August 2, to be opened by the Council on that date.

Upon petition by J. B. Burford, A. F. McKinnon, R. R. Brown and G. E. Krause, the Council ordered that bids be called for the construction of a block of concrete sidewalks on the south side of 11th street between C and D streets, and a half block on the east side of D street, between 10th and 11th streets.

New Water Mains Supplanting of the present 12-inch wooden water main leading from the Alaska Juneau water supply to 2nd street, and of the 8-inch wooden pipe on Seward street, between 3rd and 4th, forming parts of the City's auxiliary water supply system, with cast-iron pipe, was ordered by the Council. Mayor Goldstein stated that the present mains are in very poor condition and cannot last more than a year. The work will be done as a part of the PWA program. City Engineer M. A. Lagergren estimates the cost at about $5,500. Bids will be prepared and published as soon as possible.

REV. FALCONER DIES ABOARD NORTHWESTERN

Presbyterian Pastor, Pioneer Alaskan, Was Tour Guide

The Rev. Frederick Robert Falconer, a pioneer resident of Alaska and a well-known Presbyterian missionary figure in this section, died early this morning aboard the steamer Northwestern, probably while that vessel was nearing Juneau on her regular call here from Seattle. He was 62 years of age and lived at Craig.

The exact time and cause of death is not known, although Dr. W. W. Council, Territorial Commissioner of Health, who examined the body at 8:30 o'clock this morning said the man apparently had died of "natural causes." He said that he had been dead for several hours.

Dr. Council also reported that he had noticed medicine which is used as a treatment for glandular disturbances in the Rev. Falconer's stateroom, and advanced the theory that death might have been caused by accidentally taking too much of the medicine.

Heart Trouble Blamed Friends of the clergyman here today said that it had been known that he had suffered from heart trouble and had been advised by physicians not to over-exert himself.

Sharing the same stateroom with the Rev. Falconer was Fred M. Kidd, Jr., a newspaperman from Ionia, Mich. He said that he had arisen about 5 o'clock this morning. Before leaving the stateroom, he said that he heard the Rev. Falconer groan, but observed that he was asleep. He did not know of it while ashore here several hours later.

The body was taken to the Charles W. Carter Mortuary here, where it is being held pending word from Mrs. Falconer, who is now believed to be in Ketchikan. Mrs. Falconer was notified of the death by the Rev. David Waggoner, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, who dispatched a telegram.

Was Tour Guide The Rev. Waggoner left for Skagway on the ship to substitute for the Rev. Falconer, who was acting as a tour guide for 54 members of a Christian Fellowship party. The deceased clergyman had met the party at Seattle. The Rev. Waggoner will leave the party at Ketchikan.

The Rev. Falconer had a colorful career, coming to Alaska in 1898 and settling in a Cook Inlet community. He came from Douglas town, N. B. Canada, where he was born on May 5, 1873.

In 1901, he moved to Skagway. A year later, he was commissioned as a lay missionary and went to Klukwan, where he served until 1907. During that time, he was ordained, becoming a pastor on April 6, 1910. He later moved to Ketchikan and since 1931 has been a resident of Craig.

On July 8, 1902, he married Miss Emma Gooding. She, and seven children all living at Craig, survive him.

Pride of U. S. Fleet Poses for Its Portrait

Two striking paintings, from the brush of a Navy draughtsman, depicting in sharpest detail the U. S. S. San Francisco and the U. S. S. Mississippi, were contributed recently as an achievement in Navy art. Photographs of the paintings will be submitted to Washington headquarters by their creator, Isaac R. Lloyd, draughtsman at Mare Island, Cal., and veteran naval attaché. They were done as an experiment in detailed ship reproduction. The two vessels represent the latest model craft with the U. S. Fleet. The San Francisco is a 10,000-ton cruiser and the Mississippi, pictured above, a recently modernized dreadnaught.

DANCE, SPORTS EVENTS REMAIN NAVY PROGRAM

Climaxing Features Awaited—Two Cruisers to Leave Monday

Both cruisers swinging at anchor in the harbor and the first day of the official welcome program concluded, visiting Navy men and Juneau citizens today awaited climaxing events which are yet to come before the two ships, Indianapolis and Detroit, leave early Monday morning.

Sporting events and social affairs will vie with each other for popular favor tonight and tomorrow. For example, tonight will find commissioned officers honored at the Scottish Rite Temple with an informal dance, one of the highlights, incidentally, of the summer social season here.

Tonight, basketball games in the Fair Building are scheduled at 7 o'clock. Tomorrow, rifle shooting, baseball and crew races will bring the sports program to a fitting close.

Band to Play Added events to the program, announced earlier in the week are two in number. Tonight, from 9:30 until 10:30 o'clock, the monster searchlights of the two huge cruisers will swing back and forth across Juneau's night sky.

Then, at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the smart 15-piece band from the Indianapolis will play a half-hour public concert in Triangle Place.

Indianapolis Anchors

The completion of yesterday's program of welcome was begun with the stately arrival of the Indianapolis in the roadstead at 3:30 o'clock. Disdaining a berth offered her at Government Dock, she stopped in the center of the harbor and, with a rattle of chains, dropped a gigantic anchor.

Official exchange of calls, which had been done earlier in the day after the arrival of the Detroit, were repeated. Then, commissioned officers from both ships called at the Governor's House, where they were honored at a public reception given by Gov. John W. Troy. A feature of this function was the music furnished by the orchestra of the Indianapolis.

Late in the afternoon, hundreds of copies of the Daily Alaska Empire were distributed without cost to enlisted men and officers aboard the cruisers. Today's edition again will be distributed in a similar manner.

Today, citizens noticed an unofficial addition to the program, when two of the four mono-pontoon seaplanes carried by the Indianapolis went aloft.

FROM VISALIA

Two round-trip tourist passengers on the Northwestern from Seattle are the Misses Thirza Barngrover and Clara Evers, residents of Visalia, Cal.
