"ORPHANS" DRAW BIG AUDIENCE AT COLISEUM
D. W. Griffith's "Orphan of the Storm" set on the well known stage play "The Two Orphans" was witnessed by a large and new last night at the Coliseum theatre where it came back for a two day engagement. The audience expressed delight by applause, laughter and tears. The engagement ends tonight, only one show, at 8 o'clock.

The canvas is so vast and the figures so numerous, colorful and interesting, that the work improves on the second seeing. The gorgeous tapestry is most skillfully woven with the heart-stirring, grotesque, the lovely and the comic side by side in harmonious wealth of detail. It is such detail, as well as the re-sought thrill, that causes "Orphans of the Storm" enthusiasts to come again and again.

Always predominantly remains the picture of Henriette and Louise, the loveliest bit of genre on the whole mighty canvas. The Misses Lillian and Dorothy Gish in these characters, Joseph Schildkraut as Henriette's lover, and Monte Blue as Henriette's rescuer in the famous cavalry ride, continue their great hits.

New material in the world Carmagnole dances and new fooling by Creighton Hale and Porter Strong in the comic roles add hugely to the mirth of the comic interludes.

"THE POWER OF A LIE" AT PALACE LAST TIME

If you cut your hand on a dirty blade you cry, "Think of the consequences if I get blood poison!" Do you do the same if you tell a little lie from which scores of lies may "grow?"

"The Power of a Lie" is the power of a thing which multiplies over and over again with every fresh lie told

Enthusiastic Lovers of Out-of-Door Life Will Find Ideal Opportunities For It In Canada's Mountain Camps

GETTING READY FOR A TRAIL TRIP AT LAKE O'HARA CAMP

PLENTY OF GUIDES AND PACK HORSES ON HAND AT YOHU VALLEY CAMP

Summer brings a desire for high mountains to hosts who know the joys of vacationing among heaven-kissing hills. And no mountain district is more popular than the Canadian Rockies with their innumerable peaks of varying heights, their fascinating waterfalls, their vast glaciers and ice-fields, their abundant variety of trails—for tramping or riding—and a perfect maze of colorful lakes and sparkling streams, most of them well stocked with game fish. Palatial hotels and cozy bungalow camps scattered among these peaks, are so popular that they are taxed to capacity all through the warm months.

A tide of tourists begins flowing into these resorts early in June and ebbs with the waning of September. Many remain late into the fall for autumn, is one of the most glorious seasons known to the Canadian Rockies. Hiking is sheer delight in the cool, crisp autumn weather. The mountain sides are veritable artists' palettes, decked as they are with verdure of brilliant hues.

However, the greatest volume of visitors vacation during June, July and August and they will be found filling every hotel and camp, and the trails radiating in all directions are traveled daily by parties bound for surrounding points of interest. The new bungalow camps at Lake O'Hara, Wapta Lake, and Moraine Lake are in the Lake Louise region. By making one of these camps headquarters, it is possible to penetrate on foot or by pony into some of the sublimest of mountain scenery within easy distance. Moraine Lake Camp gives easy access to a fascinating region behind the Ten Peaks where excellent fishing may be enjoyed in Consolation Lake. From Lake O'Hara Camp, an interesting trail leads up to Mt. Edgley and Jasper McArthur which form a wonderful picture. Lake Wapta Camp is within riding distance of Yoho Camp in the wonderful valley of the same name and also of that green gem, Emerald Lake with its picturesque Swiss Chalet and cluster of cozy bungalows. Trails are ribbon all the giant mountains in this section and weeks can be well spent here exploring its hidden charms. These camps provide comfortable accommodations and excellent cuisine at reasonable rates.

to protect the first one—it is the power of a deadly poison that circulate through the mind and through society and undermine every human good.

Does "The Power of a Lie" end with its immediate consequences? Tell one lie and you, and those you speak too, will tell more and more until human good is undermined and society is in the grip of a dragon of deceit.

The play by Johann Bojer, a foreign thinker, and a cast that includes Mabel Julienne Scott, June Elvidge, David Torrance, Earl Metcalfe, Maude George, Phillips Smalley and other famous players, in a picture that will awaken the most blasé is "The Power of a Lie" at the Palace for the last time tonight.

MAE MURRAY TOMORROW NIGHT AT COLISEUM

"Peacock Alley," a big feature starring Mae Murray, the girl with the shape and who wears dazzling gowns, will be shown at the Coliseum tomorrow and Friday nights. "Peacock Alley" scenes are laid in the gilded palaces in Paris and then in New York. Mae Murray is the dancer who leads in all scenes in the jazz times of those two big cities, which are features of this big production.

MELODRAMA COMING TO PALACE TOMORROW

A fast-moving melodrama is "One Million in Jewels," a Wm. B. Brush production, coming to the Palace Theatre commencing tomorrow. Directed by J. P. McGowan, and its leading role played by the same favorite star, the picture also boasts the presence of Helen Holmes, heroine of a hundred thrillers, besides Elinor Fair, Charles Craig and numerous others. Produced in New York, Havana and Miami, its locations are conspicuous for their beauty and variety, and interest never flags from the moment the picture begins till its unexpected climax comes with a pistol shot. It concerns an ace of the Customs Service, who is assigned the dangerous task of preventing the success of a band of big smugglers who are bringing the crown jewels of Russia to this country.

The best Alaska pictures ever exhibited here was the verdict of many Palace patrons last night of the three-reel Alaska summer tours picture shown at that theatre through the courtesy of the Alaska Road Commission. These pictures will be exhibited there again tonight for the last time.

C. J. Blanchard, who accompanied the Presidential party to Alaska last summer, made the pictures under the direction of Col. James G. Steese. They were assembled by the Department of Interior and were shown last winter and early this Spring in many of the largest eastern cities. Col. Steese made a special trip with the film during his stay in the States last winter, showing them in Brooklyn, Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other places.

Their first showing last night found approval from local people. They compose a real "reel" Alaska tour.
