TAFT RECOVERS, SPEAKS IN TROY

He Warns Factory Men Against Bryan--Democratic Leaders Talk in New York.

By Cable to The Daily Gateway

New York, Oct. 28—William H. Taft, republican presidential candidate, spoke at Troy, principally to the workers in the shirt and collar factories. While Mr. Taft is still feeling the effects of his strenuous campaign, he has recovered from his recent collapse much more quickly than his physicians had anticipated. He spoke with vigor last night, declaring that the election of William J. Bryan would bring on a panic such as the country has not before experienced, incident to placing the government in the hands of new and inexperienced men.

William Jennings Bryan and Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler held five meetings in New York last night, speaking to immense crowds of enthusiastic supporters. The streets were filled with monster parades.

NIGHT RIDER CONFESSES

Business Men and Politicians of High Standing Implicated by Leader in Tobacco War.

By Cable to The Daily Gateway.

Tiptonville, Tenn., Oct. 28—Red Burton, one of the leaders of the night riders in Tennessee and Kentucky, yesterday made a full confession to officers, involving many of the best known business men and politicians of the two states in arson and assassination. The names of the men implicated are withheld by the officers, but many sensational arrests are expected to follow the confession.

The night riders terrorized the tobacco growing regions for three months, and were not finally suppressed until the militia and several hundred special police were sent into the field. The object of the raiders was to prevent the sale and delivery of the tobacco crop to the agents of the American Tobacco Company, known as the tobacco trust. It was claimed by the riders that the tobacco trust was attempting to drive out competition in buying and beat down the price of raw tobacco.

The difficulty of suppressing the night riders was increased by widespread sympathy and support in the ends they were seeking.

Improvements in Postoffice

Miss Gordon is making some changes in the postoffice which will add to the comfort and convenience of the room, chief of which is the placing of linoleum on the floor to shut out the cold and make it easier to keep the room clean.

Consignment of Goods

Miss Phillips, who has recently received a large consignment of goods for the Elite Candy Kitchen, has most of the supplies unpacked and in the cases. She has ordered two new show cases which, when placed in position in the store, will add materially to the appearance of the place.

New Hydrant Installed

A new hydrant has just been placed at the corner of Third avenue and Adams street for the purpose of affording better protection, in case of fire, to the residence section of the town.

THE YENTNA IS MAKING GOOD

Season's Output for That Region and Valdez Creek estimated at $450,000.

The output of the Yentna and the Valdez creek districts this season will be close to $450,000, according to estimates of all late arrivals in Seward from the new diggings.

The surprise in the Yentna district has been the discovery that some of the best gravel so far is on the benches, where it was least expected. The discovery was made by the Murphy party in the digging of ditches to bring water for sluicing. Some of the bench gravel has yielded as high as $1 a pan.

The permanent value of the Yentna as a big camp is now established, say the miners from Cache, Kahiltna and other creeks, and all are expecting a travel to the new field next spring and summer which may take on the proportions of a genuine rush.

P. T. Murphy, who spent the last two summers in the Yentna district and recently came back to Seward from a hurried trip to Seattle, says he believes there will be 1000 prospectors come in from the outside next spring for the Yentna alone.

Valdez creek also will attract several hundred, says Mr. Murphy, and all are coming by way of Seward.

The completion of the government trail from Girdwood to Indian creek is widely known and its importance is appreciated fully by the prospectors and miners who are getting ready to go into the two camps with supplies and outfits.

Duck shooting by Seward sportsmen is the favorite pastime these crisp days. Strings of five to fifteen teal and mallards in an afternoon are common.

Word comes from Valdez that Receiver Goodwin will begin extensive repairs on the Alaska Central wharf as soon as he arrives on the next boat.

The Methodist parsonage is taking on a new seven-foot porch, with Rev. L. H. Pedersen as superintendent and workman in chief.

The new concrete dam being put in at the head of Lowell canyon by the Seward Light and Power Company is about completed.

C. T. Daggett, dentist, leaves for Valdez in about 10 days and will not return before spring. *

FROST BOOSTS ALASKA CENTRAL

Admits Mistakes Were Made, and Says Some Employes Were Dishonest.

By Cable to The Daily Gateway.

Chicago, Oct. 28—A. C. Frost, president of the Alaska Central railway, just returned from Alaska, admits in an interview that there was extravagance in the building of the road and that he was deceived in the fitness of some of the men he employed to manage the work. He says, too, that some of his employes proved to be dishonest. But the merits of the enterprise, he says, far surpasses his expectations, and he declares the Alaska Central will be one of the most profitable railroads in America. He believes the London syndicate with whom he is negotiating will be the successful bidder at the foreclosure sale, but admits that he will have no direct connection with the new company. He expects 1500 men to be put on the construction work in the spring soon after the foreclosure sale.
