BAD TIMBER FIRE ON ADJACENT MOUNTAIN THURSDAY AFTERNOON

Fire starting from as yet an undetermined cause swept over a large tract of mountainous land yesterday afternoon, just north of the Seward Fisheries plant, and swept by a strong southerly wind, ate its way far up the gulley before it ran its course. Clouds of smoke poured into the heavens, and until late last evening the bright red tongues of flame were still eating into the smaller underbrush lower down toward the road.

Valiant work was performed by the Seward volunteer fire department, assisted by scores of residents, in running a hose high up the mountainside where, even at such height, the strong pressure sent a heavy stream into the lower reaches of the flames, subduing them, but the advanced flames were far beyond reach and traveling fast up a draw.

Sparks from the fire were blown south of the cannery, where they ignited dry timber, but were quickly extinguished by watchful volunteers.

Various rumors are afoot as to the cause of the fire, among which is one to the effect that picnickers let a blaze get away from them. Whatever the cause was, it is timely to warn that there is a strict territorial law against either setting a fire or allowing one to get away. This not only applies to forests, but to any portion of the public domain.

"MADAME RACETEER"

The great new star in the very unusual drama

A very clever comedy drama that will keep you laughing all the time, and at the same time highly entertain you with unique situations and sparkling wit.

SOMETHING ENTIRELY DIFFERENT

You shouldn't miss it.

With the feature we will show you three extremely interesting filler reels. One of California wonders in full color. Another of famous radio singers and backwoods musicians and a News.

THE WEATHER

Seward 58 above, light north wind and clear.

Anchorage 80 above; Curry 60 above; Broad Pass 45 above; Healy 38 above; Nenana 50 above; Fairbanks 50 above, all points reporting clear and calm.

High pressure over the northeast Pacific except over the Gulf of Alaska and near the coast of British Columbia and the North Pacific States. A disturbance extends over the northern part of the Gulf of Alaska and the adjacent portion of Alaska, with the center about 20.50 inches near Cordova. Pressure is also low over Canada and the states with centers at Alberta and Saskatchewan. Lowest pressure 29.28 at Calgary, Alta., and another near Superior, Wis., of less intensity. The highest on the coast is 30.18 inches at Dutch Harbor, and the lowest 29.50 at Cordova.

AT THE HOTELS

VAN GILDER—Robert Wakelin, E. E. Chamberlin, J. M. Bower, R. B. Power, J. W. Russell, Bernard Meire, H. C. Parker, John M. Clark, John Newmarker, Leroy J. Vestal, C. P. Hale.

SEWARD—Mrs. A. Riekie, Mrs. A. M. LeComp, Mr. and Mrs. H. Beebe, Mrs. H. E. Brown, Howard O'Neil, P. D. Wough, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Butler, M. E. Hansen.

OVERLAND—Wm. Canavan, A. Berg, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Berg.

C. P. Hale, prominent Bristol bay packer, arrived from the south today enroute Westward on his trip.

John Newmarker and L. J. Vestal, of the steamboat inspection service, Juneau, were among today's arrivals bound for Bristol bay.

Col. Otto F. Ohlson, general manager of the Alaska Railroad, was expected to arrive in Seward at an early hour this afternoon.

COMMUNITY CHURCH

Rev. Leon S. Vincent, pastor of Seldovia, will preach at the morning service Sunday at the Community church. Rev. and Mrs. Vincent will also sing. You cannot afford to miss hearing these talented young people.

Another special feature of this service will be the violin solo by Pat Carlough, a Boy Scout of Seldovia, and Mr. Vincent's general assistant around the the Missionary vessel. One thing which makes the playing of Mr. Carlough unusual is the fact that he accidentally lost parts of three fingers, the ones used to manipulate the strings so that he has reversed his playing, and though he continues to tune the instrument for right-hand playing, he plays with the left hand.

The hour of this service is 11 a. m., and the public is invited to attend.

10 a. m. the Sunday school as usual.

Martin Hansen, brother of Mrs. William Abbott, former popular resident of Seward, arrived on the SS Aleutian today, from Tacoma.

Yesterday's pack of reds at the Seward Fisheries plant was about the same as the previous day, 250 to 300 cases. Fish are coming in a steady stream.

Mrs. George Colwell and two daughters, Iris and Jacqueline, were arrivals last evening from their Anchorage home to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Leslie, grandparents of the two beautiful former Seward girls. Brother George was at the depot to greet the family.

Frank Towle, Cooper Landing resident and one of Alaska's best known licensed guides and big game hunter, is a local visitor.

G. W. Rogers, Washington, D. C., arrived on the SS Aleutian today and left for Fairbanks and will go to Nome from the Heart of the Golden North. Mr. Rogers is touring Alaska on government business.

E. M. Polley, territorial tax collector, returned to Seward last evening from Anchorage. Mr. Polley is en route to Bristol Bay, leaving on the next sailing of the SS Starr.

C. P. Hale, Bristol Bay salmon packer, was among the prominent arrivals from the south on the SS. Aleutian.

The Ketchikan Chronicle has reduced it's 8-page daily to 4-pages.
