A WIRELESS RESCUE.

A romance of the rail. This two-part "thriller" uses wireless telegraphy as the means of averting a disaster to an express train. The usual love story is woven into the sensational effects, sweetheart of the conductor-hero sending the message that saves the train from plunging into an open draw bridge. An engrossing photoplay, acted in the right spirit by James Morrison, Geo. Cooper, Dorothy Kelly and Wm. Shea.

"ROAD O'STRIFE SERIES. Fifteen Episodes, one reel each week.
THE HOUSE OF SECRETS. Episode No. 1.

This new series of mystery stories which introduces Crane Wilbur as one of the Lubin forces, opens in an interesting manner and promises well for the future.

The new Lubin method of flashing a subtitle directly onto the scene that it explains, is used in this picture. Mary Charleson and Bernard Seigel are Mr. Wilbur's leading support.
