Bill Streit Returns From the Pelican City Full of Enthusiasm and —

Willie Streit, the demure and petite promoter of all the Athletic club's important sporting events, stepped off a northbound Alabama Great Southern train yesterday morning and carefully avoiding several "Java" Taylor's blue-coated guardians of public safety, meandered into the Magic City, staggering under the load of a well-packed suitcase...

After answering a few questions about Mr. Ramos and other famous citizens of the Pelican village, Will proceeded to wax enthusiastic over the coming national wrestling championship to be held here Monday and Tuesday at the Athletic club...

While in the gin-fizz burg, Bill spared enough time to call on Secretary Genedetto, who declared that he would send up several "bone-crushers," Tulane university also announced that they would be well represented in the tournament here.

PARIS BIDS STRONG FOR TITLE MATCH

Dempsey-Willard Fight May Be Outside of the United States

Paris, March 13.—Sporting circles here are keenly aroused over reports that the Dempsey-Willard fight may be staged in Paris. Promoters have watched with great interest the difficulties encountered by "Tex" Rickard in America in getting a place for the bout...

Higher prices could be obtained for seats than before the war. It is figured that seats that sold for $50 for the Johnson-Moran bout would bring $100 now.

A high army official informed the Associated Press today that the Dempsey-Willard fight would not be held in the United States, adding: "There is one man who can stop the fight in America."

BOXING FLOURISHES

Boxing is flourishing in Paris at present and the Knights of Columbus and the Y. M. C. A. are holding weekly shows in which American boxers meet British and French. The superiority of the Americans, which might be expected, is not over the English and the colonials, at least over the French...

The American boxers are drawn from the army for the most part and general all-around everweight and back training and underestimate their opponents. The result has been that the American showing has caused some criticism.

Corbett's Daily Letter On Great Sport Topics

"The White Sox will be 100 per cent stronger this year than ever before," asserted a Chicago fan. "How so?" "Because Kid Gleason is the team leader," was the come-back. "He's one of the smartest baseball men that ever lived. Unfortunately, he has never had a chance to display his managerial ability in an unhampered way..."

"Clarence Rowland has been given much credit for having led the Sox a world's series triumph over the Giants in 1917. But it was the nimble brain of Gleason that worked havoc with the chances of the New Yorkers. On various occasions during that series Gleason almost had a clash with Rowland in his efforts to have his ideas carried out during the game..."

"The fifth game of the big series will never be forgotten by those who witnessed it in Chicago and to Gleason's strategy belongs the real credit for the Chicagoans' success. The teams went into the struggle with the series tied at two games each. Harry Sallee, on the firing line for the Giants, was breezing along nicely until the seventh...

"Just as all hope of victory was disappearing from the breasts of the White Sox rooters, Gleason rushed to Rowland and said: 'Get the boys to hammer the first pitch. Sallee is putting the first ball in the groove every time. Tell the boys to smash the first pitch and keep on smashing it!'"

"Howland didn't favor the idea, because he didn't know the eccentricities of Sallee as did Gleason. But a manager in a hole usually is glad to accept any suggestions, and Rowland, although reluctantly, issued instructions at the beginning of the seventh that the Sox hitters should hit the first ball pitched."

"Eddie Collins, first man up, flied out on the first pitch. Then Jackson singled. Immediately afterward Felsch singled on the first ball and Gandil followed with a two-bagger on another first offering of Sallee. Weaver banged the first ball for an infield out, advancing Gandil to third. Sallee developed a little streak of wildness and couldn't get them over for Schalk, who was given a base on balls. Under the frantic signaling of Gleason, who knew that Sallee was ballooning, Schalk started on a steal to second. Hardien's throw was a pit pour and it got away from Herzog, whereupon Gandil reached home with the run that put the Sox in the lead...

"In the eighth it was the same thing. John Collins, the first batter, banged the first ball for an infield out, advancing Gandil to third. Sallee developed a little streak of wildness and couldn't get them over for Schalk, who was given a base on balls. Under the frantic signaling of Gleason, who knew that Sallee was ballooning, Schalk started on a steal to second. Hardien's throw was a pit pour and it got away from Herzog, whereupon Gandil reached home with the run that put the Sox in the lead..."
