James McCormick, employed by the Greenlaw Lumber company, met with a painful accident Monday afternoon while at work, says the Flagstaff Sun-Democrat. The ax with which he was felling a tree glanced off from the trunk and struck him in the kneecap of the right leg, cutting an ugly gash.

A test case of the law compelling insurance companies to pay a license is to be made in Kingman. Complaints have been filed and the matter will come up before Judge Redman and will then go on up to the supreme court. The insurance companies will contest the matter to the end.—Mohave Miner.

The Courier's lament: "Poor old Prescott. Her leg has been pulled and pulled, and there seems enough elasticity left to stretch it a few yards longer. All our chronic leg-puller has to do is to spit on his hands, grab a new hold, rear back on his dignity and pull and smile as the elongation takes place."

Sunday night last Wm. Osborn, while driving a team attached to a vehicle, through the drifted snow, ran onto a stump and concluded to remain there until morning. So he tied up his team and covered himself with ample wraps, as he thought, and remained in the vehicle until morning, when, much to his surprise, he found that his feet were badly frozen.—Prescott Courier.

There is a movement on foot, which has the recommendation of the commissioner of Indian affairs, to subdivide the San Carlos Indian reservation, and to create a separate agency to be known as the Fort Apache Indian reservation. Wonder if the government thinks it will be able to keep the Indians corralled better, by having more reservations? If they would regarrison some of the abandoned posts, instead of taking all troops east to fight labor organizations, Arizona would get along nicely without any further extensions of this kind.—Riata.

Speaking of the wealthiest man in Arizona, according to the Gazette, a prominent business man said: "The richest man, to my knowledge, is Michael C. Costello of Phenix. He is a plasterer by trade, having recently completed the First Methodist church of Phenix, and he now follows his daily avocation. Some months ago his brother, a millionaire banker in Australia, died and willed him $800,000 cash, a portion of which he has already received. Another brother, associate editor of the Irish World, received a similar amount. Mr. Costello is about 70 years of age and his good luck has not caused him to increase the size of his hat."

The Clifton correspondent of the Solomouville Bulletin says: A bold jail delivery was perpetrated on Wednesday night. There were six prisoners in jail, four from Morenci and two from Metcalf. Some one on the outside cut a hole through the stone wall large enough to crawl through and entered, and with a hammer broke the locks of the cages and released all of the prisoners. The four from Morenci skipped out and have not been heard of since. The two from Metcalf refused to go, saying that they had only a short time to serve, and that they knew a good thing when they saw it, and were not going to leave a nice comfortable place like that in the dead of winter.

M. H. McCord is in receipt of a gratifying endorsement from his old congressional district, the Ninth Wisconsin. It is a petition to Senator John C. Spooner, signed by the members of the Wisconsin legislature from Mr. McCord's old district, asking the senator's support in his gubernatorial aspirations. A copy of the petition with the signatures was received by Mr. McCord yesterday. The sender wrote Mr. McCord saying that the matter had already been presented to Senator Spooner. He was told if it would strengthen the petition the names of all the members of the legislature would be obtained. The senator replied that it would not, as he was already embarked in McCord's cause with enthusiasm.—Republican.

Sunday, Hugh Mullen, a saloon keeper at Clifton, and Eva Davis, a notorious woman of the same place, were quarreling. The woman had a six-shooter, and she claims that Mullen was trying to take it away from her, and that the gun was discharged in the struggle. It is claimed that the woman deliberately discharged the gun. At any rate it was discharged twice, one of the bullets hitting Mullen near the navel and the other hitting him in the thigh. He died the next day. The woman is under arrest. Mullen is an old resident of Clifton. At one time he was roadmaster on the narrow gauge road. For several years he has been running a saloon in Clifton. He was very popular and his death is mourned by a large circle of friends. The woman was a pretty hard citizen.—Lordsburg Liberal.

Prof Blandy places the gold output of Yavapai county for 1896 at $1,599,689. The output for 1895 was $1,558,831. The increased gold production of 1896 over 1895 is $40,858 or 2 1/2 per cent. Gold produced in the entire territory of Arizona in 1895 was $1,871,518, in 1896, $2,686,879, an increase of $815,279, or 34 1/2 per cent. The territorial estimate does not include Mohave county—a rich mineral section from which Prof. Blandy was unable to obtain statistics. By these figures it will be seen that Yavapai county produced almost as much gold in 1896 as the entire territory did in 1895, and produced over half as much as the balance of the territory in 1896, which shows that Yavapai county contains the gold belt of the territory, the output from which this year, bids fair to double that of 1896.—Prescott Courier.

W. J. Cartmell, who left Flagstaff some time ago to do some assessment work on mining property at Jerome, owned by Mr. Cartmell and John Sanderson, and who started to return to Flagstaff on Feb. 11, was found about three-quarters of a mile from the pump house Monday evening by W. H. Pierce, the engineer. Mr. Pierce states that he found Cartmell standing in the deep snow, calling loudly for aid. He was nearly exhausted from exposure to the cold, and had been walking and leading the poney and pack animal with which he left Jerome. His feet were so badly frozen that he could go no further and if Mr. Pierce had not heard his cries for help and promptly come to his rescue he would surely have frozen to death. Mr. Pierce took him to the pump house, done everything possible to alleviate his pain and early Tuesday morning brought him in to town. He was conveyed to his residence and Dr. Robinson summoned. Mr. Cartmell's feet are frozen so badly that it is feared amputation of both feet will be necessary to save his life.—Sun-Democrat.

In the case of Marion Gamble, sentenced in Montana, Dec. 18, 1883, to imprisonment in the Montana territorial prison for life, for robbing the United States mails and putting in jeopardy the life of a carrier, the president has commuted the sentence to fourteen years actual imprisonment.

Speaking of the epidemic of crime which has raged throughout the country this winter, William A. Pinkerton, the head of the detective agency bearing his name, says: "I do not think the greater part of the work has been done by professional criminals, but by men who have been made desperate by their wants, by the lack of labor to supply the ordinary necessities of life."

At Pine Bluff, Ark., on the 25th ult. the murderer and rapist expiate their crimes upon the gallows, side by side. They were Robert Cox, who raped a negress, and "Crazy Jim," a negro who killed and horribly mutilated Lawrence Williams, aged 17, and stabbed and lived to tell the story.

Advices from Manila say that an insurrection broke out there on the 25th ult. Bands of Tagales and natives attacked the barracks of the revenue officers and gendarmes, and murdered a military officer and four Spaniards in the streets. The troops restored order, killing 200 insurgents and arresting many others. The object of the uprising was to prevent the troops attacking Cavite.

The largest seizure of opium ever made at San Francisco, was made on the 27th ult. The opium is valued at $400,000 and was seized because of violation of the custom ruler which provides that no Chinese shall import the drug. It was the property of Fong Tai & Co. The Chinese firm consigned to H. P. Davidson, accountant of the Bank of British Columbia, who transferred it to the real importers as soon as it passed the customs.

A dispatch from Brass, on the west coast of Africa, gives details relative to the capture, Feb. 22nd, of Benin City by the English naval expedition against the empire of Nupe. There was an eight hours' running fight and stubborn resistance on the part of the Fulahs. Four whites were killed and sixteen wounded. The expedition found Benin City reeking with human blood, many human beings having been sacrificed and crucified by the Fulahs. The troops destroyed the crucifixing trees and the "juju" houses.

An extensive bed of aluminum clay has been discovered about eight miles from Barstow, Cal., that assays 40 per cent to the ton. This is the first find of aluminum west of the Rockies of any considerable extent carrying a percentage that would pay to work. Regarding the deposit the San Bernardino Times-Index says: "The ore is pure white clay and is evidently a water formation, as it is in the form of a blanket ledge, three feet in thickness, and extending over an area of 200 acres. It was once level, but the action of nature have broken it up and the blocks are turned every way. The deposit is about seven miles northwest of Barstow, eight miles from Black's ranch and four miles from water."
