OF Interest to Miners.

A Washington telegram says: Secretary Lamar issued an order to-day of interest to miners everywhere on the public domain. December 4, 1884, while thousands of mining claims were pending, an order was made by Secretary Teller that in applications for lode claims, where the survey conflicts with a prior claim and the ground in conflict is excluded, the applicant not only has no right to the excluded ground, but he has no right to that portion of any vein or lode the top or apex of which lies within such excluded ground, unless his location was prior to May 19, 1872. The order made to-day puts things back just where they were before Mr. Teller's order was issued, as follows: "In entries made prior to the receipt by the register and receiver of the circular of December, 1884, the survey, if free from objection under the former practice, need not be amended to conform to the provisions of paragraph 2 of said circular. All decisions under said circular in conflict with the foregoing may to that extent be recalled."

Candidates. There are four candidates for the office of surveyor-general of Arizona. C. B. Foster, of Prescott, was the first in the field. Mr. Foster has been a deputy United States surveyor-general for many years, under the various surveyor-generals of Arizona. His supporters in the east, it is claimed, are Samuel J. Tilden, ex-Governor Seymour and Abram S. Hewitt, all of New York.

Rodman M. Price, of Tombstone, a candidate, is also a deputy United States surveyor, and has been for six years. His support for the office, it is claimed, is by New Jersey political influence.

W. H. Walker, of Tucson, in the tobacco and cigar business, is a prominent candidate, and has an excellent reputation. His appointment is expected to be brought about through the influence of old Virginians and congressmen from California.

Paul Moroney, Sr., an old Democratic war-horse of Tucson, who has been long engaged in the hotel business in that city, is a strong candidate. He has the support, it is said, of Judge Field, Senator Fair, and nearly all the old Californians are for him, which, coupled with the fact that he is on the ground, make the probabilities strongly in his favor.

The Santa Rosa, (Cal.) Republican says a redwood tree cut in that county furnished all the timber for the Baptist church in Santa Rosa, one of the largest church edifices in the country. The interior of the building is finished in wood, there being no plaster walls. Sixty thousand shingles were made from the tree after enough was taken for the church. Another redwood tree, cut near Murphy's mill in that county, about ten years ago, furnished shingles that required the constant labor of two industrious men for two years before the tree was used up. This item is true to the letter. J. B. Fitch, who is now an employee of this office, was, at the time, one of the editors and proprietors of the Santa Rosa Republican, and the item was written by himself, and knows the above statement to be true. The tree referred to, from the timber of which the church was built, was cut near Guerneville, in that county, and when standing was 30 feet in diameter at the butt, and about 300 feet in height—all solid timber.

The Supreme Court of Kansas is now considering a very delicate case involving a principal of practice not yet passed upon, so far as known. In retiring for the purpose of deliberating over a case it had heard the jury resorted to prayer as a means of aiding members in their deliberations. Then the defeated party to the suit appealed from the verdict of the court on the ground that the jury was unduly influenced. The final decision will be watched with interest. Jurors are now excluded on the ground that they read the papers and are ambitious to become intelligent and are not unlikely that piety may at some time also be urged as a disqualification. Whether it will be accepted or not it is impossible to say, but if criminals were the arbiters it passes without saying that no man of prayer would ever enter the box.

The intermarriage of royal families in Europe in case of a war may have a tendency to mix things up somewhat. England and Russia are intimately related by two royal marriages. The Prince of Wales and the Russian Czar are brothers-in-law, each having married a pretty daughter of King Christian of Denmark. The prince's wife is Alexandra and the Czar's is Dagmar—two of the most charming women of Europe. Their children are cousins. Then, the wife of Prince Alfred, Duke of Edinburgh, the Queen's second son, is the Grand Duchess Maria, sister of the czar. The Czar seems to take the national estrangement very coolly, but his royal kinsmen and kinswomen in England are said to be deeply grieved at the prospect of a war which will make their enemies to their Russian relatives.

Trouble With the Texas Drive.

A number of herds of southern Texas cattle are on their way west, and trouble and bloodshed is feared before the season is over. A herd of 6,000 cattle was stopped at Harrold, Texas, last week and forbidden to move any further. The governor was telegraphed to for help and it is said he will support the southern men with troops. West Texas men are equally as determined and a clash may be expected at any moment. It is a "life and death" matter with west Texas ranchmen. Many of them, if not the bulk, have their life's earnings at stake. Their all is in their cattle, and they are as susceptible to Texas fever as the natives. It is a test fight with the southern cattlemen, who think that if they can fight their way through this season they have a precedent established for next year. But they will not get through save by force of arms, and a trade that has to be supported "at the point of the bayonet," is a very risky one. South Texans will find that before they are through that other men have rights as well as themselves, and that the western cattlemen are abundantly able to take care of their interests. Should Governor Ireland fight southern drovers thought to the western border of the state they have then but begun their work. Kansas, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico have rigid laws in reference to southern cattle and their authorities will see that their home interests is protected.

The day has passed when the southern drover can drive his cattle over the west at will. Too many cattle were lost by Texas fever last year for western ranchmen and breeders to risk their herds again by the presence of southern cattle. The southern drive is over, and any fight to reestablish the old trade in southern Texas cattle will be in vain. The risk in mingling southern and western cattle the first season up is too great. The ranges are all too well stocked to allow of such chances as ranchmen were willing to take in the past. Southern cattle in the future that are admitted in the west will have to be acclimated; wintered one season in western Texas before they will be allowed to pass the "dead line." The west would like to have young Texas cattle for its ranges, and our ranchmen will be able to handle them for some years to come at a profit, but they must be like Caesar's wife, "above suspicion."—Kansas City Live Stock Journal.

How to Obtain Office.

A correspondent writes that about a month ago a young man came to Washington from North Carolina for a government position under the new administration. He made application to the two senators from his state, but without success. Within a week he was without a cent and unable to borrow. He joined a gang of workmen who were engaged in improving the streets, and became a day laborer. By some means Senators Vance and Ransom became acquainted with his action, and wrote strong letters of endorsement to Secretary Whitney. The other day the Secretary appointed him to the position of watchman in the Navy Department.

"When can I begin work?" he asked.

"Not before next week," replied the superintendent.

"Then I'll remain at street improving until the place is vacant; I can't afford to lose a day."

There's a little moral in this for office-seekers. Go to Washington and shovel dirt for a time, and then make application for a government office.

Honest Bob's Advice to the President.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—A special from New York says: Robert Connell, member of the Arizona legislature, is in the city. He has been in Washington urging the President and cabinet to remove the present Territorial officers of Arizona, they having formed a ring to defeat every measure passed in the interest of the tax payers. He has hopes that they will all go, from governor down to village postmasters.
