

Code Fixes Legal Age; 18 Will Not Qualify to Vote

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 16—The women of California who vote in future state elections must be older than 21 before their registration is or will be accepted.

The age is set down in both the constitution and the code and this is not changed in any way by the amendment to the constitution.

It was at first feared that several other laws of the California code, that fix a woman's legal age at 18, might conflict with the suffrage amendment, but no fear can be entertained on this account.

Women may marry legally without consent at the age of eighteen, and they are entitled to inherit at a similar age, but under the amended constitution bestowing suffrage on all citizens of the state, they cannot vote until they reach the age of 21.

Lonely Isle Her Prison and Shame

New York, Oct. 16—May Bruerlein, daughter of a wealthy lumberman of North Dakota, came to New York several months ago to go on the stage.

Being unsuccessful and too proud to acknowledge defeat, she went to work for Thomas Finucan, as a servant in his hotel at Woodmere, Long Island.

She told Justice E. J. New, of Lynbrook yesterday, that Finucan's son, Thomas, lured her to a lonely house on a deserted island south of Woodmere, where he kept her a prisoner.

The girl said Finucan beat her when she wished to leave and took away her clothing. One afternoon she found some clothing and started to wade across to the mainland. Finucan pursued her, she said, so she waded into deeper water and was swimming across the bay, when Finucan, who was in a boat, caught her and dragged her back to land, where he beat her. The attack was seen by some fisherman, and by Mrs. Jane Walsh, of Woodmere, who went to her assistance and drove Finucan off. Then Mrs. Walsh took the girl to her home, where she is now staying. Finucan was sent to prison for a year.

Thieves Steal Gems Hidden In Girls Silken Stocking

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 16—Even if you carry jewels in your silk hose you are likely to lose them. Miss Elizabeth Gilles, society belle of this city, has found it so.

Living alone with her brother who was absent from the house last evening, Miss Gilles decided not to leave her jewels at home, while she paid a visit to some friends. In a little purse she deposited a diamond necklace, locket, two ear-rings, two rings. Then she placed the purse in her silk stocking—just like a woman.

On the street car a man sat on one side of her and a woman on the other. One of them evidently emptied her stocking unknown to her.

Charlie Sam's Birthday

(From Tuesday's Examiner)

From Barite, the new silver camp, near Middle Wells, a special contributor sends the Examiner the following account of a birthday dinner given by the only white Chianaman in Arizona, Charlie Sam.

He says:

To celebrate the double occurrence of a new strike of value in the camp, and the birthday of our esteemed fellow citizen, Charlie Sam. Charlie decided to give a birthday dinner to all his fellow sufferers in this section, which event was carried out in true mining camp style and enjoyed by all who partook of Charlie's hospitality.

There being no fresh meat in camp and "Carne Secco," having become somewhat older than a novelty, it became necessary for the committee on ways and means to organize a gun squad, who in turn scoured the adjacent hills and vales in pursuit of the elusive dove and the festive cotton-tail.

The kill was admirably cooked by Charlie, and when all was ready the cow bell jingled merrily and the guests were soon discovered making a bee line from all directions for the "Hotel Bariti," our host's headquarters. When all were seated they lined up as follows: Charlie Sam, E. A. Combs, N. S. Barr, Geo. Probasco, L. M. Garrison, Herbert Kennedy, "Doc" Carter, George Howard, Charles Inakeep.

All dined in a hearty manner and did full justice to the fare provided which was excellent, and everyone enjoyed themselves to the full extent of the law.

Stories were told and anecdotes recited, mostly relating to the now big mining camps of the day. Toasts were responded to by Charlie Sam and others, and a fine time was enjoyed by all.

Bullard Home With Lots of Gasoline Talk

The Arizona Democrat says:

With his famous smile at least an inch broader as a result of the enthusiasm over the Phoenix road race, which he found seething between Los Angeles motorists, George Purdy Bullard returned from Los Angeles this morning. The principal purpose of his trip was to bring back Mrs. Bullard, who has been there since early in the summer. This object he accomplished, and while in Los Angeles he attended a meeting of persons who have cars entered in the race.

Nothing was accomplished at that meeting held Sunday morning, except to provide for some kind of a ferry across the Gila river at Dome, Bullard said to-day. The entrants, however talked over matters at great length, and all arrived at a better understanding of the interest that exists in the race.

Bullard made a little talk to the motorists, telling them of the four Aripina cars that will be in the desert contest. His news was received with much acclaim. The Angelenos have always said that Arizonians should take more interest in a race that is peculiarly their own.

The Los Angeles cars that are entered are:

Flat 45; Franklin, Mercer, Buick, Reo, Apperson, Parry, National, Cadillac, Stutz, E-M-F, Flanders, Stoddard-Dayton, Ford, Schacht.

All the purses from the cities and towns along the line have been put up, and while in Los Angeles, Bullard announced that all the money was in a Phoenix bank. Special prizes will be paid by accessory concerns as follows: Remy Magneto Company, $400; Monogram Oil Company, $300; Bosch Magneto company, $400.

The huge Bullock cup is on exhibition in Bullock's department store, at Seventh and Broadway, Los Angeles. This is a perpetual challenge trophy and will be presented to the winner of the race.

With the Santa Monica race out of the way, many of the machines will start at once for trial trips over the course. The course has been thoroughly signed from El Centro to Yuma and from Yuma all the way to Phoenix.

Enthusiasm in the big event is high all over the two states interested in the event. The citizens of Yuma are planning a grand reception for the contestants and the members of the Los Angeles automobile fraternity, who plan to make the trip to Phoenix in a special car.

Two hundred and fifty San Diego residents have engaged a special train for the trip to Phoenix, and several hundred San Francisco enthusiasts will meet the cars at Phoenix.

A special car has also been engaged by the Santa Monica Bay Chamber of Commerce.
