

The Fallacy of "Something Just as Good at a Lower Price"

Women accustomed to use high-grade Cream of Tartar baking powders like Royal Baking Powder are sometimes induced to try other brands at the solicitation of canvassers or because of apparent lower cost.

Almost invariably those who make such a change notice the inferiority in taste and texture of the biscuits, cake, muffins and other food prepared with the cheaper baking powder and discontinue its use with no desire to repeat the experiment.

The difference in cost in practical use between inferior alum and phosphate powders and Royal Baking Powder is less than a cent for each cake or pan of biscuits. Certainly too small a difference to warrant putting alum into food, and especially food for children.

The label on the can shows whether the baking powder you are now using, or any brand that may be offered, contains alum or phosphate instead of Cream of Tartar. Read the label carefully and remember it never pays to sacrifice quality and healthfulness for low price.

Until all nations agree to reduce their armament, the United States must continue to increase its naval power, Secretary Daniels declared in his annual report made public last night, and which urges that funds be appropriated at once to begin building 42 additional ships.

Efforts to reduce the cost of living through increased production and better distribution of the country's foods are detailed in the annual report of Secretary Houston of the department of Agriculture, made public yesterday at Washington. The report also devotes considerable attention to the pure food law and urges on congress the need of strengthening it to permit standardization of foods and drugs and inspection of foods and drug factories.

AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday will be "Flower Day" at the Methodist Church. Instead of the usual Sunday school hour the pastor will preach to the children. He will use a flower as the subject of the talk. The children will come at 9:45 and assemble for classes and then after a chorus by the children he will preach.

It is the plan for Sunday morning to have each pupil bring a bouquet of flowers, and a memory verse from the Bible. Every one must bring a bouquet and a verse. The one bringing the best bouquet and verse will receive free a nice Nelson Bible bound in Morocco, with blue ribbon marker. The one bringing the next best will receive a Red Russian calf bound Holman Bible. Many will receive booklets. Mrs. A. J. Howie, Mrs. W. E. McClure and Mr. White will be the judges of the flowers. Each child is requested to bring the name of some family who does not attend church. Let each bouquet bear the name of the sender. Let all who want to be in the children's chorus on Sunday morning to sing, come to the church at 3 p. m. Saturday.

Dr. C. H. Adams will preach at the 11 o'clock hour; Professor Nixon will sing.

Epworth League at 6:30 and it is expected that we have a splendid program.

Sunday night there will be a splendid song service and the sermon will be given by the pastor, who will preach on "Running From God," by request. Bring your friends and let us boost the work of God for Yuma. The meetings will continue.
