10,000 ACRES TO BE DRAINED

Landowners of Drainage District No. 1, South of Tempe, Vote $75,000 Bonds—Work Should Be Under Way Soon.

With only one dissenting vote out of over a dozen cast, ranchers of the Kyrene country on Saturday voted bonds to the amount of $75,000 to be utilized in the drainage of between nine and ten thousand acres of land and its subsequent restoration to a maximum of productive state. There is a general progressive spirit among the farmers south of Tempe that makes the drainage system now assured and together with that means the production of crops on several thousands of acres that for the last few years have been lying idle or have at the most been only half productive.

Engineers months ago made a complete survey of the proposed area to be drained. Following that the organization of Drainage District No. 1 of Maricopa county was unanimously voted by those involved in its creation, and but a couple months later—that was Saturday—the bonds insuring the installation of the system were voted.

It is figured that the actual work on the system will be under way within two or three months time, providing the bonds pass the legality test satisfactorily and a ready purchaser is found.

MESA LIKED THE SPECIAL EDITION

Many Expressions of Approval Received at Republican Branch Office in Gem City—Many Sent to Friends in East.

The sixty-two page special Booster edition of the Republican issued yesterday morning met with general and enthusiastic approval in Mesa and vicinity. Local subscribers had been left to expect something extraordinarily good when the announcement was made several weeks ago that The Republican would issue a special edition setting forth the many things worth while in the Salt River valley, but they were unprepared for the elaborate detailed resume of the valley's resources as set forth in the issue yesterday morning. Subscribers of the paper are

VISITED SUNDAY SCHOOLS
Dr. W. W. Wilkinson, president of the Maricopa county Sunday school association, spent yesterday in Tempe visiting the local schools.

T. H. S. COMMENCEMENT

One of the most pleasing commencement exercises ever conducted at Tempe high, was that of Saturday night, when sixteen, nearly all native young Tempeans, were presented with their diplomas. The program was simple, yet there was a technique and impressiveness that made every member of the extraordinary large audience and of the graduating class feel the significance of the occasion. The address to the graduates by Dr. Von VlehnSmid, president of the Arizona State University, was listened to with the highest degree of interest. It was the first time Dr. Von KleinSmid had ever appeared before a Tempe audience and the extremely interesting message he conveyed on that occasion, will always assure him of a cordial welcome to this little city of schools anytime on his return to the valley. The awarding of the Niels Peterson prizes aggregating a total of $75.00 in cash, was an event keenly anticipated. The five members of the class, the first three receiving prizes whose grades for the year's work averaged highest were these: John Mauer, Robert Finch, Earl Brooks, Nevada Turner, and George Hegel. The several musical numbers on the program were very pleasing and well received, even when the program came to a close, an encore was required before the audience disbursed.

not only planning to send out the copy mailed to them, but they are sending orders to the office for the mailing of copies to friends throughout the east. They, in many instances have been intending to write a letter to the folks back home telling them something of the wonderful advantages to be found in the Salt River valley, but they have never found time to do so. Now they have solved the problem, instead of writing the letters which would of necessity cover briefly the many things of interest, they expect to send along the five cents per copy, the price of the special edition, and to have the information splendidly illustrated, mailed instead. One representative citizen of Mesa, who has been a constant subscriber to the Republican for a score of years remarked after several hours spent in examining the edition for the purpose of determining if the information had been overdrawn, remarked, "The Republican management has put out the best booster edition in its history. I have seen several of their specials and I want to say that this is the best ever. I am going to send a half dozen copies to friends in the east who have been wanting to know about this country. I can send them the Republican. It will not only save me the trouble of writing, but it will give them the facts in a much better way than I could do it."

WILLCOX HAS SENSE OF NEW IMPORTANCE

An Incorporated City, it is Now Planning to assume new Dignity With Opening of Mascot Railroad

With a sense of its new importance as the gateway to the Mascot mines, Willcox, Cochise county has joined the list of incorporated towns of the state and is now officially known as the City of Willcox. Word to this effect came as a surprise to the state tax commission recently, when the city clerk of the new municipality wrote asking for some blank forms connected with the city assessments.

Great preparations are being made for the celebration next month which will mark the completion of the Mascot and Western, the new railroad to Dos Cabezas, and the shipment of the first train-load of ore from the Mascot mines. The new aerial tramway, which is to carry the ore from the shaft down the mountain side to the railroad terminus will also be completed about the same time.

A special train of Pullmans, bringing officers and stockholders of the mining company from San Francisco will be run direct to Dos Cabezas where the copper that is to mark the completion of the new road will be driven with appropriate ceremonies. A barbecue that will be one of the largest ever held in the Southwest is being arranged for, and it is expected that a large number of officials and prominent citizens of the state will attend the festivities.

The date of the celebration has not yet been announced, but it is expected that it will be held about the middle of June.

THE RECORD PARLIAMENT

To whatever length the present Parliament may be driven by the war to prolong its life it can hardly hope to reach the ripe old age of the fifth formal announcement of her wedding.

of Charles I—a parliament which many before that time thought would never have had a beginning, and afterwards that it would never have an end." On April 26, 1653, however, Cromwell butted in, and rudely sent the members home. Its legal vitality was not even then extinct, for fragments of the parliament continued to kick bills spasmodically through the house until the death blow was given by a bill for "dissolving the parliament begun and holden at Westminster November 3, 1640, and that the day of dissolution shall be from this day, March 16, 1659."

The London Times has sources of information not open to any other newspaper in Europe. A century ago it brought the news of the battle of Waterloo to London before it was known by the British authorities themselves in Great Britain. In the Crimean War, The Times sent to the front the first war correspondent that ever accompanied an army in the field, and this correspondent—an Irishman by the name of William Howard Russell—became the world's foremost writer on military subjects. The Times predicted the Franco-Prussian war, and showed what its result would be. In the Boer War, The Times had as many as twenty-four trained correspondents in the field at the same time, covering every angle of the campaign.

Now—the greatest war of all history is going on, and its breaking-out found The Times prepared. Its staff has set out to write the history of the war while its events are fresh and vivid in the minds of those who are taking part in it. The present book is a result of this plan. This history of the war will long remain the standard authority—the one book to which you must refer. This book is complete in itself, and covers the big, important operations at the beginning of the war.
