

CHANGES PLEA FOR THIRD TIME; JUDGE GIVES HIM A YEAR

For the third time yesterday Pedro Ybarro changed his plea, and this time for keeps. In the court of Judge Stanford, who clinched the matter by sentencing Ybarro to serve not less than one nor more than five years on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, Ybarro was originally charged with assault with intent to commit murder, to which he entered a plea last July of not guilty. A few days before the trial early in September Ybarro appeared in court and changed his plea to one of guilty. Just as the judge was about to sentence him, he suffered a change of heart and pleaded not guilty a second time, and the trial was set for today. The charge against Ybarro arose from the shooting by him of Jose Ruzze in the mouth on the night of April 25 on the Cook-Laird ranch near Glendale. Ybarro made his escape on a horse which he took from the ranch. He was caught a week later near Weldon after a sensational chase by Deputy Sheriff Jim Troutman and an Indian trailer.

By order of the court Mrs. Bouisa Contreras was permitted to go home with her husband until further steps could be taken in her case. The passing of sentence was deferred until October 18. She is charged with assault by means likely to produce great bodily harm to which she recently pleaded guilty and was to have been sentenced yesterday. The charge arises from the burning by her of her eight-year-old daughter with a hot iron last June. The divorce suit of Alejo A. Valenzuela against Juana Valenzuela came on for a hearing and he was granted a decree on the grounds of desertion.

WILL SELL WESTERN LONG STAPLE COTTON

In the issue of September 4 of the Textile World Journal the following, under the headline "To Sell Western Cotton," will interest Arizona growers: "The West Coast Cotton company has opened offices at 242 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, for the sale of the long staple cotton, grown in Arizona and California. This cotton, it will be recalled, has been noted for the high character of staple and color, being used chiefly by spinners of fine fabric yarns, although a number of spinners have spun yarns out of this cotton for use in dress fabrics with gratifying success. This cotton is grown chiefly in the Salt River valley, Arizona, and in the San Joaquin valley, Coachella valley and in the Imperial valley, in California. The West Coast Cotton company's connection with the growers is such as to permit them to give the utmost attention to the requirements of users of long staple cotton inasmuch as they have factors in the various fields. Their western offices are at Bakersfield, California, with Charles D. Magee, Jr., in charge. The Philadelphia office is in charge of Theodore J. Bowes, formerly of John S. Bowes, Philadelphia."

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS PRESENT ISSUES AT 'Y' COURT MEETING

Issues upon which the national Democratic campaign is being waged and upon which Democratic aspirants to the higher public offices which Arizona has to offer will base their claims were presented by Senators Mark Smith and Henry F. Ashurst, Congressman Carl Hayden and State Senator Mulford Winsor at a well attended meeting in the Y. M. C. A. court at night. By taking up national issues the speakers also paved the way for the appearance here of Governor Cox tomorrow.

Senator Smith decried the idea of electing a Republican president to be "governed by an oligarchy of Republican United States senators," as he put it. "Such influence would be detrimental to the good of the country," he said.

Advocating the League of Nations, Congressman Hayden gave it as his opinion that its adoption would divert government appropriations from the development of armaments to a program of construction, education and reclamation.

"Cox will be a worthy successor to Woodrow Wilson," was his statement. "When you buy an ice cream soda do not make some remark about the 'democrats' tax," admonished Senator Ashurst, and he declared that President Wilson while in Europe sent two special messages to congress urging that the tax be discontinued. In taking up other common objections to the present administration Senator Ashurst said:

"I find a peculiar situation upon my arrival here in Arizona. It seems that some of the people here have a grievance against President Wilson because he is credited through some sources with having sent ex-Governor Hunt to represent the United States in Siam." Congressman Ashurst told how the former governor of Arizona was sent to Siam through the recommendations of Senator Mark Smith.

In the course of his address Congressman Ashurst exclaimed: "We will make some one get off the front porch before I am through with this speech."

Urging the support of Mark Smith for re-election, Senator Ashurst said that the veteran statesman would base his aspirations solely upon his past record.

"Mark Smith will make his campaign upon his record of accomplishments and not upon promises," he said, and added that Senator Smith was the only politician he knew who never "demagogued."

Mulford Winsor, who was defeated for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination at the primaries, said he had "no sore spots," but was going to back his former opponent, Mitt Simms, to the limit. He expressed the belief that Mitt Simms as governor of the state would advance the reclamation program as he was a "practical irrigator."

governors will be held today to more thoroughly canvass the drainage situation.

U. S. GRAND JURY TO RESUME WORK TODAY

Indictments against 29 federal prisoners, held in jail awaiting trial, were asked of a special grand jury before Judge William H. Sawtelle in federal court yesterday.

Thirty witnesses offered testimony before the jury yesterday, the actions ranging from charges of embezzlement of government funds to violations of prohibition laws.

Deliberations were not concluded last evening, the jurors adjourning until 10 o'clock this morning. It is expected that the jury will make a full report sometime today.

LET CONTRACTS FOR 10 DRAINAGE WELLS

A contract for drilling ten drainage wells in the northeast section of the valley was let by the board of governors of the Water Users' association at its regular meeting yesterday.

The contract is in conformity with the drainage program planned by the association to reclaim waterlogged land and to guard against additional damage from underground water.

Several hundred acres will directly benefit from the drainage wells now being sunk, it is stated. The land is situated north and northeast of the Phoenix Indian school.

Stratford Clothes

To get value
PUT some thought into your clothes buying. Go to a responsible merchant. He has a name and an established business to protect. He would rather sell ten suits at a small profit than one suit at large profit. His policy in pricing is your protection in buying.

The merchant who sells Stratford Clothes is a good merchant. Go to him for your clothes. Ask questions. Make comparisons. See the difference between Stratford Clothes and ordinary clothes. Mark the richness of Stratford style, the refinement and the good taste. Examine the Stratford method of inner construction. See what this means for better clothes and for greater value.
