

AGAIN SET DATE FOR HANGING OF NACHIN MARTIN

Supreme Court Affirms Verdict of Lower Court; Cold-Blooded Slaying of Arthur De Steunder In 1919

Nachin Martin will be hanged at the state penitentiary on June 10. This was the judgment of the supreme court yesterday affirmed to an affirmation of the judgment and conviction of Martin, with a death sentence, imposed by Judge Sweeney of the Yavapai county superior court a year ago. The time fixed by the superior court for the hanging of Martin having passed, it devolved upon the supreme court to set another limit on his life.

In the opinion dismissing the appeal, written by Justice Baker, there is a graphic review of Martin's crime. On October 4 of 1919 the half-incinerated body of a man was found along the road between the towns of Kingman and Seligman. The body was identified, by means of a badge and other marks, as that of a Canadian soldier a member of the 20th Battalion Canadian Infantry. He proved to be Arthur De Steunder who had served overseas and had been wounded. The body later was definitely identified by a brother, John Emil De Steunder, who came on from Canada.

Shot in the Back

De Steunder had been shot in the back with a .35-caliber bullet which passed through his body and was found in the half-burned clothing in front. The shooting had been committed in an automobile which from the tracks was found to be headed westward, and from this automobile the body had been dragged about 150 feet to the place where the murderer had tied to burn it.

It later was learned that De Steunder and Martin were traveling to the coast in an automobile and they had been seen by several parties along the way. They had been heard to quarrel over money matters. De Steunder claiming that Martin owed him money, which Martin denied.

On the night of October 4 Martin arrived in Kingman alone and registered under another name than that of Martin. He went on to the coast, and some weeks later was arrested at Yettam, Cal., still in possession of the automobile. There were blood spots on the machine which, it appeared, an ineffectual attempt had been made to remove. Under the carpet of the machine there was found a blood-stained muslin bag. There also were the soldier's trousers of Martin who had exchanged the service suit he had worn in Arizona for a civilian suit. These trousers bore blood-spots which Martin said had come from a finger he had cut.

Find Many Clues

But more damaging than anything else were certain articles known to have belonged to De Steunder, among them the discharge papers of the latter. They were found in the house where Martin was stopping at Yettam. Martin explained that these things had been turned over to him by De Steunder who had left him and gone southward for some point in Arizona with a man named "Jimmy." In an earlier story, Martin had stated that he had traveled alone into the west from Chicago.

The case was not docketed in the supreme court until March 4 of this year. There was nothing before the court but the bare record. No attorney appeared for the appellant.

EASIER IRONING

If the larger pieces of the ironing such as sheets, counterpanes, etc., are folded and used as a pad while the smaller pieces are being ironed much time can be saved, as the large pieces will need little more attention after you get around to them.

OFFICIALS FROWN ON COAST CITY PLAN OF 'FOREST OF STATES'

Advising that a bit of educational work be carried on in Los Angeles that the city might not violate federal and state laws in its advertising efforts, authorities have halted its latest "get before the public" project.

The city recently attempted to establish a so-called "Forest of States" in Exposition park which has been held by the department of agriculture as a "profitable means of distributing undesirable pests."

With the ingenuity for which it is noted, Los Angeles conceived the idea of getting before every state in the union by the request of a tree to be planted by its state society in what would become "A Forest of States." Arizona promptly sent its contribution and many other states followed suit.

It is generally believed that there are sufficient pests in California without other states contributing and such is the view taken by the federal authorities.

"Who of the uninitiated ever had reason to contemplate the many considerations which must be met in any project inaugurated by a state or agricultural interests of its lands against the introduction of plant pests and diseases? While the fact may be recognized that there are regular channels which perhaps contribute more than others to the possible introduction of undesirable pests, beyond this their reasoning does not go and beyond their particular line of thought it is difficult to convince them of the error of their ways. Thus it often happens that their ideas when carried out result in embarrassment, not only to the originators, but to those who are often but remotely connected therewith.

"An instance of this kind recently has been called to the attention of the California department of agriculture and furnishes a classical example of how some of these original ideas work out. Some one conceived the idea of establishing a so-called "Forest of States" in Exposition park. Los Angeles' word was sent to all of the different states requesting each to furnish a tree for this purpose which would be planted by its state society under the auspices of the park superintendent. While a number of the states have endeavored to comply with the Los Angeles requests, some have found, however, that trees which they desired to have planted to represent their state were not allowed to be planted by the federal regulations; others were denied entry by the laws of the state of California.

"Appropos to this the director of agriculture in receipt of the following communication from C. L. Marshall, chairman of the federal horticultural board:

"The fact that the Los Angeles chamber of commerce is endeavoring to have established a "Forest of States" in the Exposition park of that city in co-operation with the city park commission. I know of no more profitable means of distributing undesirable pests than enterprise of this sort. Incidentally, no less than two states (Pennsylvania and Maine) have attempted to fill this order by sending pine trees in violation of federal and state quarantine. I believe the sending from Pennsylvania actually got through and was destroyed by the authorities. We have advised the deputy forest commissioner of Maine of the impossibility of complying with the request. It seems to me it would be a good plan to do a little educational work in relation to this enterprise and for the purpose of preventing the example of Los Angeles being followed by other cities of California."

TO PRINT SESSION LAWS ABOUT JULY 1

A good many inquiries are being received at the office of the secretary of state as to the time when copies of the session laws of the Fifth legislature will be available. The reply is that it probably will be some time after July 1. There is no money now in the fund for the publication of the laws, but there is effective legislation preventing the transference of money from one fund to another, as in times past, so that no other money is available now for that purpose.

It will be recalled that among the bills passed by the legislature was one making an emergency appropriation for the printing of copies of the session laws of certain previous legislatures, but none was provided except in the general appropriation bill.

PRESIDENT THANKS ARIZONA ASSEMBLY

J. M.K. Redmond, assistant secretary of state, yesterday received a letter from President Harding conveying his appreciation of a certain resolution adopted by the Fifth legislature, commending the president for his selection of Senator A. B. Fall to be secretary of the interior. The president desired Mr. Redmond to make known his appreciation to the members of the legislature.

Though no reference is made to that in his letter, the president probably is more appreciative of the fact that one branch of the legislature which commended this official act is Democratic, while the other is Republican only by the slenderest of majorities. For the printing of the laws of the session just ended.

There is magic in MONEY—real, ready CASH! Recently our hosiery buyers went on a crusade back East, a crusade to relieve the pinch of hosiery prices. They went "heeled" with this most powerful of modern weapons—CASH. Yes, they took it with them. In New York they found hosiery which they bought at startlingly low percentages on the dollar, FOR CASH. But it was in Milwaukee that the overwhelming victory came. There they called on the Phoenix Knitting Works. This great factory had several thousand pairs of what they termed "irregulars"—that is, the institution is so extremely particular, that even their inspectors with the aid of a magnifying glass, not noticeable to the naked eye, is classed as "irregular." We truthfully state that we have been forced to examine dozens of pairs before we could detect any irregularity whatsoever, and we assure you that in no manner does the factory's classification of "irregulars" impair their looks or wearing qualities. Our buyers bought these PHOENIX HOSE,—bought them at breath-taking reductions, for CASH!

That you may have an idea of how little they paid, let us tell you that we have the same numbers in regular stock at the Restricted Retail Prices mentioned in the items below—read them and see what you save by purchasing at the Sale Price. The hosiery in this great event is hosiery of character and quality. There is practically every kind of hose, every fashionable style, every color and material. The field of choice is simply astounding. Now, it is our conviction that this is the greatest and best Hosiery Sale ever held in Phoenix—an event that will leave behind it foot-prints in the sands of time. It is also our conviction that it is one of the most helpful, if not THE most helpful, thing Korricks' have ever done. And it is timely, coming right at Summer hosiery needs time.
