CAPITOL CAR IS HELD UP BY TWO MASKED BANDITS

Robbers Escape With $50 In Silver - Overlook Watch - Crew Had Stopped at End of Line After Run

Two masked men entered a Capitol street car at the end of the line. Twenty-first avenue and Adams street, at 10:50 a. m. last night, held up the conductor and motorman and escaped with about $50 in silver.

Perry Stevens, conductor of the car, and E. C. Baker, motorman, were the only persons aboard at the time of the holdup. They had just completed the run to the end of the line and were resting a moment before starting the trip back to the city when two men entered unseen at the rear of the car.

"Let me take the money out of the changer," Stevenson suggested. "Don't make a move," was the robber's retort. After taking all the cash they could find they ordered the motorman to start the car.

The robbers took the money change with them. Both were very poorly dressed. Baker said the one with the revolver was wearing shoes through which his feet were showing.

A street lamp floods the end of the Capitol car line with light and there are many houses in the immediate vicinity of the scene of the holdup. Immediately after the robbery had been reported police secured the neighborhood without finding any trace of the men.

INTEREST-BEARING SCHOOL WARRANTS ARE HELD LEGAL

That warrants of a school district to a teacher, bearing the treasurer's endorsement of "no funds" and calling for interest thereon at the rate of 8 per cent from the date of endorsement, may be issued was stated in an opinion handed down by the supreme court yesterday in a test case which had been hurried through the superior court of this county.

The case was brought in an injunction suit by J. W. Coggins against the trustees of school district No. 1, County Superintendent Jones and County Treasurer Wright.

The controversy grew out of the effect and meaning of Chapter 10 of the session laws of the last legislature which expressly provides that the thing sought to be enjoined may be done.

The plaintiff rested upon the statutory provision that "no warrant shall be drawn by the county school superintendent unless the money is in the proper fund to pay it." It was the theory of the lower court that the legal effect of Chapter 10 of the session laws was to repeal the foregoing provision. The court also overruled the contention of the plaintiff that Chapter 10 is void because Section 1 of the chapter merely presumes that there is a law authorizing the drawing of warrants by the county school superintendent upon a fund in which there is no money and that the chapter does not purport to effect the repeal of the prior law.
