Is Grant Lyceum dead? Who assassinated it? and will idleness preach its funeral? Tanner Lyceum in Manitou would like to resurrect the dead with a joint debate such as tested the seating capacity of Payne chapel last season and brought forth some hidden talent.

Mrs. Smith Gee entertained quite a number of young people Friday evening in honor of her nephew, Mr. Miller. A pleasant time was the reward of all present.

Robert S. Scott, better known as Palmer House Scott, died July 26, 1906. He was known in hotel circles over half of this continent. He was a congenial, big-hearted, good fellow, but he cast him his life at the mercy of his friends. In his death young men can learn a great lesson: that self-preservation is our first duty. Homeless and penniless though he was, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Fleming and others did not turn their backs upon him, as is true in most cases of like nature. Mr. Fleming made known his needs to the hotel and club men, who quickly responded to the call of duty. Those assisting were: Cliff house, Iron Springs and Navajo hotels, Manitou; El Paso Elks, Pike's Peak and Driving clubs, and Alamo hotel, Colorado Springs. Eighteen of his friends marched behind the corpse on its way to the city of the dead. Rev. G. M. Tillman preached a very touching funeral. Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Fleming wish to thank the friends for their ready response.

Mrs. Link, formerly of Topeka, Kansas, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Jefferson.

Who said Denver could not run an excursion to the Springs any more? A large crowd was in attendance to see the K. of P.'s grand session, which was a representative gathering of the order. Just a little more training would have added much to the parade. "Practice makes perfect."

Mrs. Woodson left this week for her former home, Emporia, Kansas.

Mrs. Enola De Clelland was quietly married Thursday evening to Mr. J. E. Wilson of Omaha, Nebraska, at the residence of Mrs. Pennington. The bride and groom will remain here about six weeks and spend their honeymoon. Boys, it does not pay to be too slow. Mr. Wilson appears to be all that will make a good husband, and is a congenial fellow to meet.

All looks hopeful that harmony will reign in the colored political camp here this fall. Let the green-eyed monster of jealousy be buried.

Miss Minnie Gilmore, a trained nurse of Leavenworth, Kansas, is visiting her brother, G. W. Gilmore, 609 Baltic street. Miss Gilmore is another example of what Kansas is producing.

Mrs. E. P. Boose, accompanied by her little daughter, Baby Booze, and sister-Miss Eva P. Montgomery, of Mound Bayou, Mississippi, have joined Manager E. P. Boose of the Western Enterprise. We welcome them home.

Members and friends of Payne chapel, yet your dollar money ready, for Rev. G. M. Tillman is abroad in the land.

The office of the Western Enterprise has been thrown open to the agent of the Statesman, and we are invited to share our brother's desk. Brotherly love will some day rule the world, at which time the world will be far better than it is to-day.

Had His Advantages.

An English woman had had a good deal of trouble with her husband, who, according to her account, was a monster of iniquity. Some one asked why she had married a person of such character. "Well, you see, he ain't my first," was the reply; "I was picktler about my first. This here's my second, and a bad 'un at that. But there!" with a shrug of the shoulders. "He's a shade better than the work 'us!"
