This is a world of change, and not all small change, either. Thirty years ago Argentina was importing cereals from this country and other countries.

She hath done what she could. Mrs. Charlotte J. Creighton of 5,237 Larchwood avenue, Philadelphia, has made a quilt composed of 22,542 pieces.

The prophets are prophesying. Prophet Charles F. Steele of Brookfield, Mass., says there will be sixteen snowstorms this winter, preceded by heavy rains.

Miss Mary J. Symes of Brooklyn got out an injunction forbidding the people of the church next door from tearing down from their own church walls an ivy whose roots were in her yard.

Concerning the effect of the election on the issue of freer trade between the United States and Canada the Toronto Globe is inclined to think that the matter will be agitated anew.

A negro hack driver in Washington was driving along the street when he encountered a funeral. A long line of coaches was behind the hearse, which was moving along at a lively rate.

It is pointed out that there has always been a lower percentage of divorces among men engaged in agricultural pursuits than in any other calling, not excepting the clergy.

It is stated that Mexico real estate, city and suburban, has gone up from two hundred to five hundred per cent. in the last few years.

The country at large shows the good effects of a wise administration going over the full period of a generation; it builds more railroads, opens more mines and gets richer year by year.

THE GREAT DAY.

To-day the football ball be launched, and it is to be hoped that the sky will with fleecy clouds be blanched, and that the rosy cheeks of the cheerful and cheering maidens who attend the game will not be blanched with severe cold.

The Irishman who said I smell a rat, I see it floating in the air, I will nip it in the bud, had a clear idea of what was needed.

AGAIN, TO THE POOR INDIAN. How to protect the Indian from himself and designing white men has not yet been discovered.

There is, we believe, going to be some kind of an investigation of this matter by those who try to care for the Indians, but it isn't probable that they will have much better luck in dealing with the cocaine Indian problem than they do with the rum Indian problem.

OUR NEW IMMIGRANTS. In the nine months of this year ending with September, 599,593 immigrants arrived in the United States.

There is a growing feeling that much of this immigration is not desirable, and the feeling is evidently well based. An inspector of the Immigration bureau who has been spending several months in Europe brings back, it is understood, a report which clearly demonstrates the necessity of more stringent immigration laws.

MORE TROUBLE IN RUSSIA. There are all kinds of trouble in Russia. A St. Petersburg correspondent of one of the Paris newspapers explains that the recent rumors of the impending resignation of the new Russian minister of the interior, Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky, were caused by the secret efforts of M. Pobednostzeff, the procurator of the Holy Synod, to secure his removal by the Czar.

He was apt to sink in at the first thaw, and be out of the reach of the birds. It is hardly necessary to say that these spaces should be cleared after every snow storm, and if this is done regularly the work of clearing them will not be severe.

Thanksgiving Preparations.

THE annual New England Feast Day approaches—the day when everyone gets a square meal and some a little more.

women can help in the organizing of the relief parties, and in the collection of food and the money to buy food. There are hundreds of people in every town who, while unable for one reason or another, to actually do the work of bird feeding, would be glad to assist by donating food or money.

EPTOMIZED.

[For the benefit of the busy reader we here give a digest of the annual football story which is now appearing in all the best magazines.]

He was a sub And a perfect dux. And he weighed one-hundred-two; The bleachers laughed, And the rosters chafed, When our hero came to view.

Of our eleven They'd injured seven, While their line was immense; And they made a book That they'd make us look Like less than 30 cents.

Our hero dashed At the line, and smashed Both legs, but didn't feel; His heart was stout Tho' one eye was out For above the rosters' yell.

He heard a screech Of little peace, Whom he loved the best of all; So he breathed a prayer, And he hustled for fair To get his mitts on the ball.

He broke the line Like a piece of twine, And he crippled the center guard; Run ninety yards, Then fell in the bloody slush!

At the end of the week He managed to speak, Though his head was at a whirl; They told him he'd won The game by his run, And so he married the girl.

PREPARE TO FEED THE BIRDS.

Do not let us forget that within a very short time now the ground will be covered with snow, and that our friends, the wild bird, will be glad to try tangible proof of our friendship.

STVADY

A Boston poet says he "heard star speak to star." No doubt they said something about making a night of it—Atlanta Constitution.

Fuddy—They say Pinchley has money to burn.

"I'm afraid he don't mean more'n half wit he says."

"Well, dat's a whole lot fer a guy to mean when he's courting a goll, you know."—Puck.

Glady—I refused Ferdie two weeks ago, and he has been drinking heavily ever since.

Ethel—Isn't it about time he stopped celebratin'?

"Has your husband a steady job now?"

"It's almost steady, sir; he goes to work at 4:30 in the morning and works till 12:30 at night, but they give him time out for meals, sir."—Cleveland Leader.

Harry—Do you really think whiskey is harmful?

Dick—Well, I don't know what to think. I've known people to die who drank it, but then, as for that matter, I've known people to die who never touched a drop.

Down at the court house, breaking the will.

"Things are very dear," said the dissatisfied citizen.

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum; "but we are all feeling it alike. I can remember the time when votes could be bought for a dollar apiece that can't be bought now at any price."

Tramp—S'cuse me, mum, but hev youse any wood that youse want sawed?

Lady—Yes, indeed! You are the very man I've been looking for.

Tramp—S'cuse me again, mum; but dis is de very place wot I ain't lookin' fer.—Chicago Daily News.

"Yes," said the city editor, with a note of regret in his voice; "I was very sorry to discharge Spacer. He was the best fire reporter we had. The trouble came last week. He wrote an obituary of Van Sandt Sapeigh and ended by saying, 'The loss was fully covered by insurance.'"

"Are you a married man?" asked the absent-minded attorney, who was doing a cross-examining stunt.

"No, sir," replied the witness, "I am a bachelor."

"Very well, sir," continued the lawyer. "Now, kindly tell the court how long you have been a bachelor, and what the circumstances were that induced you to become one."—Chicago News.
