WARRINER IS OUT OF PENITENTIARY

Columbus, O., Oct. 29.—After serving about four years, Charles L. Warriner, former treasurer of the Big Four Railroad company, today was released from the penitentiary. He left at once for his home in Cincinnati. Warriner was sentenced at Cincinnati in 1910 to six years imprisonment for the embezzlement of $24,000 of the Big Four's funds. He confessed to the shortage and to manipulation of his books as treasurer through a period of many years. The deduction of time for a year of good behavior, while a prisoner, shortened his term a little more than two years.

NEW VOTING PLACE IN FIRST DISTRICT

Voters of the First district will cast their ballots in a portable building which is being erected in Court street instead of at 29 Court street, the place designated in the charter for the vote. Nell Mairhead's paint shop is at 29 Court street and this store was used for taking the vote on several other occasions but this year Mr. Mairhead notified Mayor Wilson that he could not give the use of his store this year. The portable building which has been used near Lafayette street in the Sixth district for several years, is being put in Court street. The building makes the street impassable until after the election. The voting machine will be placed in a store in the Sixth district this year.

The only other portable building to be used for taking the vote will be in the Third district where the building will be set as usual at Fairfield avenue and Auburn street.

WATCHING SUSPECT

The strange actions of an unknown man near Housatonic avenue and Hall street last night aroused much interest and suspicion that he may have been the mad gunman the police are seeking, or a "Peeping Tom." Close watch will be kept for him tonight in an attempt to discover his identity and the purpose of his actions.

REV. DR. MOORE IS WARMLY WELCOMED BY PARISHIONERS

Former Charity Commissioner Somers Delivers Address of Welcome to Priest.

New Pastor of Sacred Heart Church Expresses Gratitude For Co-operation of His Flock

Rev. Dr. Richard F. Moore, recently appointed pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, received a memorable welcome from his parishioners at a reception under the auspices of the Children of Mary of the parish last evening.

The big hall was thronged, the attendance including many from other parishes. A pleasing arrangement of the formalities of the reception was effected by the large committee of members of the parish. Following this, there was a whist, followed by dancing.

Dr. Moore was formally welcomed to Bridgeport by Mayor Wilson. Brief addresses followed by John A. Hurley and John T. Klag. The principal address of the evening was made by former Charity Commissioner James F. Somers, who, speaking on behalf of the parishioners, extended to the new pastor a most cordial welcome.

Mr. Somers said: "Ladies and gentlemen: This is indeed a joyous occasion for the members of the Sacred Heart parish. We are gathered here in goodly numbers to pass the evening pleasantly, to extend cordial greetings, to mutually fellowship ourselves in the opportunity that is given us to meet our reverend pastor."

"Grateful beyond words to tell are the parishioners of the Sacred Heart church to our Rt. Rev. Bishop for his appointment to its pastorate of one whose great, good, and noble work in the cause of the church in other fields has merited such unexpected praise. We feel that the labor so lovingly and at all times so energetically and zealously performed by the true priest of God in the interests of the flock entrusted to his keeping, when attacked with no uncertain characters upon the life-work of a pastor, is, in truth, the grandest and the most ennobling asset that man can possess towards his faithful flock. It is this, in fact, that is the respect and esteem of his fellow-men. A priest, whose life work is the full measure of all this—whose personality rings true—whose character is marked by a sterling honesty, to us to guide and direct us in our spiritual welfare. For the appointment of such a man of God to our parish, we, this night, publicly acknowledge our thanks to our Rt. Rev. Bishop."

"No better evidence of the love and loyalty of the parishioners of the Sacred Heart parish could be given by any people than that which our man-of-God has shown in his hearty cooperation with our lamented and beloved Father Sweeney. In all that he undertook for our temporal and spiritual welfare, God blessed his labors among us. He told us what to do; generously, he obediently responded to his appeals. We pray for a continuance of that abiding love and loyalty between the parish and its pastor. We pledge our best in co-operation with our pastor for the greater growth of our parish. Father Sweeney said grandly the foundations of this parish were laid upon a master hand to add the finishing touches. Friends, it is my privilege and great pleasure to present Rev. Dr. Richard F. Moore, our pastor."

Dr. Moore responded with the following brief speech: "I am sincerely grateful for the public demonstration and for the many kind sentiments expressed through your speaker in my regard. I congratulate you upon the noble and generous impulse that inspires this gathering whose only significance is the inauguration of our pastoral life in the broad basis of Christian charity and justice. It will be one of my many pleasant memories to recall such an evening as this when you have welcomed me to the City of Bridgeport, through its leading official, His Honor the Mayor and when the people of the Sacred Heart parish have extended to me as their pastor their warm and cordial greeting."

"Very kind and becoming was the thought on your part that my pastorate should begin under so auspicious, your hearty sympathy and esteem and above all under the fair promise of your loyal co-operation. Kind hearts are more than coronets," says the poet. Happy indeed is the lot of any pastor who has a warm place in the affections of his people. Between them there can be no chilling frosts of discord or disunion, whereas, when the mind is troubled by trials and tribulations must betimes befall us as they are all borne with mutual patience and sympathy and love.

"This is the significance of this friendly fellowship that it forecasts for the welfare of the parish and the common good of the community. I thank his honor, the mayor, for helping to give it the note of civic importance. I thank the various members of the committee, and I wish to signify my special gratitude to the ladies in charge for their self-sacrifice and devotion which always characterized their successful ventures under the able leadership of Father Judge."

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

DUPLUX WIRELESS NOW TO IRELAND

Messages Sent and Received at the Same Time by Pair of Nova Scotia Stations.

INTERFERENCE OVERCOME

Two Operators in the Same Room Can Handle the Incoming and Outgoing Dispatches.

This week has seen the tripling of the capacity for sending and receiving wireless messages across the Atlantic with the opening of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company's receiving station at Loughsboro, Nova Scotia, which works in conjunction with the transmitting station at Glace Bay. The two stations are separated by about two miles. They will operate with the station at Clifden, Ireland, and the new receiving station at Letterfrack, on the estate of the Duke of Manchester. These stations are seven miles apart.

By this new system it is possible for an operator to ask for a word repeated or some point cleared up without breaking in on the transmitting operator on the other side of the world. By the new duplexing the sending and receiving can be carried out at the same time and at a greater speed and with a maximum of result and a minimum of time and labor, while the chances for mistakes are lessened.

The wireless operator of not so many years ago would have said that it was an impossibility for one man to receive while another man sitting in another part of the same room was sending the receiving aerial. This is obtained by separating the sending and receiving stations, the distance between them being the height of masts. The stations are located so that the energy from the transmitting station has a minimum impeding effect on the receiving aerial. This is obtained by the use of "directional aeriels," an invention of Mr. Marconi, at both stations.

Mr. Marconi discovered that an aerielle, as he termed it, has a greater radiating efficiency along the line of the horizontal portion and, also, is most effectively used as a receiver of radiated energy when the horizontal portion is directed toward the distant transmitting station.

To neutralize the effect of the nearby sending station, a second aerielle is put up near the receiving station, and the mast for the receiving aerial is left free for the incoming impulses from the distant transmission station.

The operator who is receiving from the distant station is seated in the same room with the one who is operating the corresponding transmission station, yet there is no confusion because the waves liberated for transmission do not reach the receiving aerial.

The receiving instrument sounds into a phonograph or dictograph and the sounds are reproduced upon a cylinder. It is taken to a reproducing machine and copied upon the typewriter by an operator who then has a lasting record of the message. In high-speed sending the operators use a machine fitted with a keyboard like an ordinary typewriter. This punches out upon a tape the dots and dashes of the message.

As high as 75 words a minute can be sent or received by wireless by this system.

A new pair of stations for sending and receiving transatlantic messages are being erected at Belmont and New Brunswick, N. J. They will be forty miles apart and will correspond to two stations being built in Wales. The

LAWYERS OF LABOR UNION OFFICIALS ARGUING APPEALS

Chicago, Oct. 30.—When the United States Circuit Court of Appeals resumed the hearing, today, of the appeal of the officials and members of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers who were convicted in Indianapolis in the government's dynamic charges and were asking that the Indianapolis verdict be set aside, attorneys for the labor men expected to complete their arguments in the case by noon or shortly afterwards.

United States District Attorney Chas. W. Miller of Indiana, was prepared to begin at the afternoon session the government's side by asking that the convicted men be sent back to Leavenworth Federal prison to serve out their terms. The hearing will be concluded, tomorrow, each side being allowed a day and a half for arguments. Decision of the case may not be made for weeks.

BANKERS DISCUSS WIDE RANGE OF MONEY

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Discussion of investments ranged from electrical securities to railroad bonds at the closing business session of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, today. Delos A. Chappell, of Los Angeles, addressed the convention on the financing and development of hydro-electric power. The enormous amount of power consumed in California for irrigation and agricultural purposes had been responsible, he said, for many reckless promotions, calling for the introduction of some new methods to stamp them out.

Other speakers were John E. O'Hanley of Boston, discussing "Public Utility Bonds," and Samuel Insull, of Chicago, talking on "Electrical Securities."

The convention will be brought to a close, tonight, with a banquet. Jas. J. Hill and Frank A. Vanderlip are listed among the speakers.

NOT GUILTY IS RYR'S VERDICT FOR MRS EATON

Freud From Charge of Murdering Her Husband, Rear Admiral, She Bursts Into Tears on Thanking the Jurors in Courtroom This Morning.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 30.—"Not guilty" was the verdict returned by the jury, today, in the case of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, charged with the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton at their home at Assinippi, last March. The jury reported at 5:10 a. m., after considering the evidence for eight hours and three-quarters.

Mrs. Eaton smiled joyfully as she heard the verdict. She had as yet in a private room at the courthouse until 2 o'clock, this morning. Then she was permitted to go to the judge's lobby where she slept on a cot and all awakened at 4:30 and summoned to the courtroom.

After the foreman had announced the verdict, Chief Justice Alken warned the jurors to keep secret the proceedings in the juryroom.

Nearly 200 persons, some of whom had remained all night, were present to hear the verdict. Among them were many women.

After Mrs. Eaton had left the courtroom, the jurors, through their foreman, asked that they might be allowed to meet her. The permission was granted and they formed a semi-circle in the corridor. Mrs. Eaton came out from the judge's lobby and thanked them individually. As she did so she burst into tears for the first time since her trial started.

A little later, Mrs. Eaton gave out the following statement: "I am so glad; glad most of all because of my aged mother and my lame child, both of whom need me. It means so much to them. I shall go home probably late today and I hope that a new life will be opened before me and that the trials and tribulations which have been mine in the past are ended."

Her chief counsel, Mr. Morse, said: "It was Mrs. Eaton's appearance on the stand, an unusual event in any capital case and a remarkable one where a woman was on trial for her life, which decided the defendant's innocence in the minds of the jurors. The verdict was what we expected. It frees an innocent woman but leaves as a mystery the end of the Admiral, her husband. For six months I have tried to find out what was behind the poison which caused his death, but my investigations have developed no satisfactory explanation. It must probably remain a mystery."

Because of the prominence of the Admiral, the trial of Mrs. Eaton, who was his second wife, has attracted country-wide interest. The Admiral took a prominent part in the battle of Manila. After his retirement, he settled down on a little chicken farm at Assinippi, where he died on March 8, last. On request of the physician who had attended him the day before, Medical Examiner Osmond held an inquest. The internal organs of the Admiral were sent to Prof. William F. Whitney, of Harvard, who said they were found to contain a large quantity of white arsenic. The grand jury reported an indictment against Mrs. Eaton charging murder. She was arrested March 10. Her trial commenced Oct. 14. The government sought to show that Mrs. Eaton poisoned her husband by placing arsenic in his beverages and his medicine and that she was jealous of his relations to other women.

Mrs. Eaton's counsel contended that the Admiral's death was due to self-administered drugs but did not attempt to show whether the alleged overdose was taken intentionally or by accident.

Strange Plight Of Immigrant At Lakeview Home

Now Able to Work, Former Invalid Is Held Prisoner Awaiting Deportation.

Confined to his room at Lakeview since September 11 as a state case awaiting deportation proceedings, unable to read or write or speak English and having none of his countrymen show the slightest interest in his existence, Dominick Cerino is wondering as to his fate and whether he has been forgotten. Authorities are holding him under detention. His sole offense is that he was unfortunate enough to be afflicted with rheumatism shortly after reaching Bridgeport. He has recovered sufficiently, according to those acquainted with his condition, to earn his own living and with no indications that he will be again afflicted. He is anxious to work, but is not allowed, being technically under arrest and with all measures taken to prevent possible escape.

Seven or eight months ago he left his wife and family in Italy with the idea of later sending for them and establishing a home in America. "He came to Bridgeport, obtained work and started on Penobscot street. About two months ago he was afflicted with rheumatism and sent to Bridgeport hospital as a city charge. His inability to speak English made it difficult to ascertain his history. As a result of meagre details given, he was reported to the state and the machinery set in motion for deportation. According to the officials, it has been in motion ever since.

At last, resigned to his fate, he desired to return to Italy, but he has not even been allowed to do that. Inquiries concerning him brought inquiries in return and vague reports as to what was being done. In the meantime he is a guest of the city and state, able to work but not allowed to do so.
