

Becoming Suits---

Suits are not becoming, comfortable, stylish or serviceable by accident. If your new suit looks particularly well on you (as it will if you buy it here) it is because the makers have particular skill in that direction and because this store knows where and how to buy for your requirements. And right buying on the store's part is by no means the smallest element in the transaction.

Absolutely the Best Clothing Values

are to be found in ready-to-wear clothing, such as we sell. At the price it would be impossible to put any more quality into the cloth, skill into the workmanship, or style into the designs. The perfect fit is something almost remarkable.

And the suits are ready to wear when you buy them here!

No delay for "trying on" or "fitting." No possibility of disappointment in the cloth not looking as well in the finished suit as in the piece—no delay in delivery.

The man who buys here knows exactly what he is buying, exactly how it will look and exactly when his purchase will be delivered.

VINCENT ASTOR WILL WED MISS HUNTINGTON APRIL 30

1-The Rev. C. H. DUNCAN 2-Miss HUNTINGTON 3-VINCENT ASTOR 4-ST. MARGARET'S CHURCH

Staatsburg, N. Y., April 24—It is authoritatively announced here that the wedding of Vincent Astor and Miss Helen Dismore Huntington will occur April 30, as originally planned. Mr. Astor has now almost entirely recovered from his attack of pneumonia. Son of the late John Jacob Astor, who went down on the "Titanic," he is worth over $50,000,000. He is only twenty-three years old. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. C. H. Duncan, rector of St. Margaret's Episcopal church, and will occur in this church if Mr. Astor's health permits. Otherwise the wedding will take place at the Huntington home here.

Won Their Pardons.
From the time of the story of Damon and Pythias various reasons for temporary release from jail have been given. It is related that in the Napoleonic era a soldier confined in a military prison for a minor offense against the service during a brief time of peace was released in order that he might be present at the christening of his infant son, born during his imprisonment. But Napoleon, in order to test the intensity of the man's desire, made him agree to serve a year longer for the privilege of a three day furlough. The soldier gladly did it and when he returned found a pardon and a corporal's warrant for his infant son, to be valid when the son had "served with credit six months in the emperor's army of the future." Frederick the Great released an audacious captain under sentence of death so that the captain might "kill him a few beneficial things about himself." The things told face to face influenced the great king to pardon the blunt death defying soldier.—New York Sun.

Beecher Found Them.
Henry Ward Beecher used to visit his old friends once a year for many years, but in the latter part of his life he was not able to do this. In his very last year, however, he was able to spend a day in Indianapolis and went round the place. That evening he was received by the ministers, and the chairman in welcoming him said: "Doubtless you find few of your old friends here in Indianapolis after so many years of absence, but we who are here welcome you just as warmly." Fr. Beecher in reply said: "Your chairman has said that I have found few of my old friends here in the city. It is true. I found only Mr. —, Mr. — and Mr. — (naming four or five of the old men of the city). But this afternoon we drove out to Cedar Hill (the cemetery), and I found them. They are all there, sleeping just as peacefully as they used to do under my sermons."

Speed of Animals.
According to the naturalists, no animal is known to have exceeded the speed attained by the famous race horse Syonby. Instantaneous photographs show the full length of one complete stride of about twenty-six feet. In the stride of the fastest racers the hind quarters and limbs are raised considerably higher than the shoulders and from this relatively great height is brought downward and forward, widely separating from each other, as a sportsman says, "to avoid striking the fore legs." The hare which is hunted with fast dogs has not in reality the speed of the dog. The dog, on the other hand, does not attain the speed of the horse. The graffe is said to run at the rate of fifteen yards per second under the most favorable conditions. The elephant, going at a rate of two yards a second, carries a weight approximating that carried by six horses.

Rebelle!
Wife—John, wake up! There's a burglar downstairs. Husband—Well, what of it? Ever since I got my wife insured you've been trying to push me to the front.—Milwaukee News.

Pleasing People.
Men often say by way of defense that it is impossible to please everybody. It is worse than that. It is impossible to please anybody.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Temperature of the Body.
The heat of the body varies at different ages and different times of the day. Except when you are suffering from fever you are never so hot as when you are born. The temperature of a newborn baby is about 102 degrees, but during the first day it rapidly goes down to 97½ degrees, rising again to a little above the average temperature of a grownup person, which is about 98½ degrees. The heat of your body varies as much as two degrees in twenty-four hours. The minimum is reached about 4 o'clock in the morning, when your vitality is at its lowest, and the maximum about 4 in the afternoon. People who work by night and sleep during the day, however, are coldest in the afternoon and warmest in the early morning. It is a remarkable fact that we nearly always die if our blood varies more than a few degrees either way. A temperature below 95 degrees or above 106 degrees is generally fatal.—Pearson's.

Criminals and Crime.
Is the criminal so because he wants to be so? No more wicked fallacy was ever foisted upon a credulous world than this. Nobody at any period of the world ever wished to be criminal. Every one instinctively hates and fears crime. Every one is honest by nature. It is inherent in the soul. I have never met a criminal who did not hate his crime even more than his condemners hate it. The apparent exception is when the man does not consider his act a crime. He has killed because his victim exasperated him to it. He has robbed society because society made war on him. The offender hates his crime.
But he is not ashamed of it?
Now, that is true. He is not ashamed of it in the current sense. He hates it, he fears it, but it does not fill him with a sense of sin.—H. Fielding Hall in Atlantic Monthly.

Why Not Schools For Men?
No man ever feels the need of education so much as the man who sees opportunity for advancement open before him, but who does not dare to take it for fear that he can not rise to it. It is useless to say anything to such a man about neglected opportunities, and it is equally futile to say the same thing to the youth who is neglecting his studies. The first cannot go back and live his boyhood over; the latter cannot comprehend his danger, nor will he believe in his own possibilities, nor can he really study intelligently things for which he is not sufficiently mature. The few who mature early enough in life to go through technical schools or colleges are provided for. Can we not provide men's schools for those who mature normally?—American Magazine.

Teaching Him.
Briggs—Did your wife scold you when you went home so late last night? Griggs—You don't know what it is to have a wife who was once a school teacher. Why, she made me write a hundred times on a slate. "I must be home by 10 o'clock."—Exchange.

Soothing.
"Then you refuse to eat my first biscuit?"
"I don't refuse to eat it, my dear. I don't want to eat it. I wish to have your monogram engraved on it and then hang it upon my watch chain."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
