MELTZER PLANS APARTMENT HOTEL

To Remake His Present Apartment Block in Congress Street

The first apartment hotel in the city of Bridgeport is planned by Joshua T. Meltzer, the well known lawyer and real estate operator. The big apartment house now owned by him at 227 Congress street will be the basis for the new hotel. It will be extended three stories higher than at present, and stores will be cut upon the street level. A large dining-room restaurant in the rear. It is also possible that an enormous rain-skuller for cabaret purposes will be located in the basement of the building.

DERBY ELKS TO BE GUESTS OF LOCAL ANTLERS MONDAY

(By Dan Cliffer.) Monday evening, May 4th Derby Lodge of Elks will be the guests of Bridgeport lodge, this being the annual "Derby" night of the local antlers. It is one night in the year when the local herd throw dignity to the winds and wind up their winter social activities in one great whirl of merriment. Some great pool and billiard games have been arranged as well as bowling and games for the children of Elksdom in Connecticut and nightly scores of players are holding down the tables in the local club as well as the bowling alleys, in anticipation of a similar struggle. Hand ball contests on the new hand ball court of the Elks home will be another feature which will attract many. As the Derby boys always show much speed on the tables and on the alleys, the local boys will put what they call their number one teams against them, thus making the contests very exciting. They have been warned to bring out their best men on some surprises will be in store for them.

BILLBOARD TO BE CALLED

(Continued from Page 1.) Mr. Reid said the company's successor was the Metropolitan Steamship Company of New Jersey which, he averred, was formed by E. D. Robbins, vice-president and general counsel of the New Haven. The opening paragraphs of the letter were as follows:

"Your's of even date at hand. Am pleased to note you liked the Post article. It was very mild, not at all sensational and left very much in reserve to be said later.

The three Mellen directors were to be Charles A. Moore, of Manning, Maxwell & Moore; Mr. Mellen and Mr. Mellen. The Reid interests were to be looked after by Charles W. Morse, John A. McKinnon, Campbell Carrington and Mr. Reid. Later it was testified that Mellen objected to being eliminated as he was then in prison and stated that J. Pierpont Morgan had demanded Mellen's elimination. Reid then told of going to Augusta, Me., where he sold the old Metropolitan at a receiver's sale.

The Metropolitan Steamship lines of Maine was then organized. This was commonly known as Metropolitan Steamship Company No. 2.

Reid told of seeing Morse in the Tombs in New York and said Morse objected to being eliminated. He then called on Mellen and the latter, he stated, seemed to have lost interest in the matter.

"I am growing rather tired of being jumped on for other people's misdoings and am going to call a halt. The Post article is only a very mild warning that I am tired and the only thing getting on my nerves and what a map in such a condition needs, you know, is quiet and rest, and to pile it on thick is not the kind of treatment I am advised by the most approved practice."
