DENIES MOTION TO DISCHARGE DORA PODOLOFF

Judge Thoms Has to Silence Lawyers Slade and Garvan, Who Have Frequent Tiffs.

Waterbury, Aug. 6.—Judge Thoms denied a motion in the city court for the discharge of Dora Podoloff, charged with perjury. Attorney Garvan of New York and Attorney Benjamin Slade engaged in tiffs all morning and were finally silenced by the court.

Joseph Cohen, of New Haven, was the first witness examined today. He said he knew Dora since she came to this country, that he saw her after the arson trial in Waterbury, last fall, and that he heard her confession while he was present in Attorney Slade's office in New Haven.

"How did you come to be named up in this?" asked Attorney Garvan. "I have been studying the case myself," was the answer. "Who was your professor, Slade?" was the next question, but the prosecution's objection to it was sustained.

"The telegram in question is the one the defendant's lawyers claim was sent to Attorney Slade from Hoboken informing him how he could keep in touch with Louis Katz. Miss Foote said she did not recognize Tony De Mayo, the messenger boy, when he stood up to be identified.

NOW MEN, BARKER COLLARS, 60c 1-2 DOZEN!

'Tis the summer to replenish collar supply at good saving. Barker collars are as good as a man can buy at their usual price of 2 for a quarter.

They are pure linen—don't know of any other at the price that are.

They are well-made in shapes that are comfortable and stylish and their quality and thoroughness of making is such that they give good long service—even though the laundryman does seem to try to put them out of business.

Barker collars own a lot of friends in Bridgeport. We should like to have them own more. And so, just as a friend-winning proposition, we sell them for a limited time at special price.

All the liked styles, in all sizes, including quarter sizes in some styles. Each one of regular Barker quality and of pure linen. Usually 2 for a quarter—for limited time—

60c 1-2 dozen
Right of Main street door.

PERFECT LONG CORSETS THAT WON'T RIP.

The new Double-Skirt Rust-proof corsets from the Warner factory are almost marvelous.

They fit snugly and comfortably. They are in the new long model. They have all the skillful designing and making that marks Rust-Proof corsets. And in addition they possess this new patented feature—the double skirt.

From waist down is an inner lining of pliable strong batiste which seems to add no weight but does add wonderful strength to each corset.

No, this is not an experiment. It has been tested. And it has stood up so well that every Double-Skirt Rust-Proof corset is guaranteed not to rip or tear.

New styles for Autumn, attractive and full of value. $1 to $2
