REDDING REJOICES AT COMPLETION OF LUTTGEN ROADWAYS

Redding, Aug. 20.—The system of roadways which Commodore Luttgen began building in 1907 through the tract of wild country lying east of Sunset Hill, a territory known as East Woods, was completed a few days ago.

Even in this town it is not generally realized how completely a rough and almost inaccessible region has been converted into a delightful woodland park. Although a private park in respect to ownership all who choose may share its benefits as Commodore Luttgen from the start has made it open to the public.

New Britain, Aug. 20.—George H. Robinson, a Democratic councilman from the Sixth ward, fell dead in a corridor of the Burrill School building this morning, at 9:40 o'clock.

These roads are no cheap, makeshift affairs but solidly constructed with substantial foundations, gravelled surface and contours properly sloping from the center.

Through the valley flows a small stream which has been utilized to the utmost in the general development scheme. On the property of Senator Peck there was built several years ago a dam creating a ten acre pond.

Of the entire tract embraced in the development project Commodore Luttgen owns about 600 acres of the woodland, about all of which is classed as second growth.

have involved an outlay of not less than $75,000.
