

JUDSON FORCES WIN OUT IN STRATFORD G. O. P. CAUCUS

States Attorney Bitterly Assails Probate Judge Peck For Alleged Wrong Doing

Bitter Epithets Hurlled During The Verbal Fireworks--Conine's Charge Angers Judson Following Peck's Defeat For Chairman Of Caucus

(Special to The Farmer) Stratford, Sept. 12--"Liar," "thief," "rum-seller," "politician," "blather-kite," "mouther of words," and "hypocrite" were just a few of the verbal brickbats fired at one another's heads by leaders of the Republican party in the annual caucus of that party held in the Stratford town hall last evening.

did not cease. "Arrest Judson then!" someone shouted. At last by telling them they at least ought to try and be gentlemen Mr. Judson managed to obtain a hearing.

The caucus was called to order at 8 o'clock and Fred Starr Beardsley was selected as temporary chairman. Nominations for chairman of the meeting were called for and immediately Judge Peck's name was presented, the only other nominee for the office being Mr. Beardsley.

Then it was that the Judson men sprang their real coup. They demanded that the voting be by the regular party check list. The result was that many Peck supporters who had not registered on the Republican primary list were not permitted to vote as they would have been had the vote been by acclamation or the show of hands.

Walker was a native of Nashville, Tenn., and for a time was editor of a newspaper in New Orleans. He joined the gold rush to California in 1849, and three years later he organized an expedition to invade the Mexican State of Sonora, but was repulsed.

John C. Wilcoxson, the Democratic tax collector, was unanimously given a place on the Republican ticket and William H. Crawford was nominated as assessor, defeating William Stagg by a vote of 77 to 53.

Walker's "president," Rivas, was recognized as such by the United States minister, John H. Wheeler, and by a British consul. The other Central Americans, alarmed at Walker's success in usurping the Nicaraguan government, declared war against him.

Chicago, Sept. 12--William L. Page, and Wilbur F. Cromer, of Chicago, who were returned Judson ticket and headquarters of the Amazon, are believed by relatives to have been slain by natives. Advice received, today, from the Peruvian government states that a search expedition found a group of Indians in possession of the guns, baggage and other property of the explorers.

Walker was taken away unhurt. At New Orleans Walker fitted out another expedition, but was captured by the United States authorities, only to be speedily freed by order of President Buchanan. He was again seized when he sailed from Mobile, but was soon released, and returned to Central America. He captured the fort at Truxillo, Honduras, but was soon made a prisoner, and, after a brief trial, was shot.

After the registrar had been selected the meeting went smoothly on to the end the other nominations being as follows: Auditor, Gilbert Y. Edwards; school committee for three years, Dr. William B. Cogswell; library board for four years, E. H. Judson, W. H. Fryer, E. P. Allen and F. L. Curtis; grand jurors, Ivan L. Morehouse, S. C. Lewis and C. E. Kearney; board of relief, Edward H. Beers and Fred G. Bevins.

CORONER FINDS O'DWYER DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

"Accidental," is the verdict as rendered by Coroner John P. Phelan today after a most careful investigation into the death of little John O'Dwyer, of Southport, struck and killed by the automobile of James Meade, Stoughton, Mass., some days ago.

In speaking of the case today, the coroner called attention to the strange fact that though witnessed by several persons, directly opposing large money was given by witnesses who though seemingly paradoxical, were found to have testified in good faith.

It was stated by some that the boy had stood upon the street, about the railroad tracks beside his home. Between the railroad tracks and the Warrenite pavement used by vehicles is a strip of asphalt. The Meade car was proceeding east, while in the opposite direction lumbered a large ice-truck, and behind that was another automobile on its way to New York. Witnesses testified that the boy's body was found in the middle of the track having been struck by the right fender of the machine coming toward Bridgeport.

BEARS RETIRE BEFORE BILLS

New York, Sept. 12--Opening--Unusually small changes were made on first transactions in stocks today. Movements were generally upwards and evidences of a continuation of the improvement which set in, late yesterday, encouraged the traders to take a position on the long side. Large buying orders for the Harriman stocks, which raised the price by large fractions at the outset, gave added impetus to the market and after the first few moments of trading there was a definite upward movement.

Noon--Technical conditions favored the brisk advance in stocks which continued through the forenoon. There was nothing in the day's news to stimulate the market and the rise apparently was due merely to its strong position. A considerable short interest had been built up on the strength of the unfavorable interpretation placed upon recent political, financial and crop conditions and when these influences lost their potency bears were compelled to give their contracts with the tide of prices strongly against them.

REP. MARSHEN DENIES MADISON DEEPLY IN DEBT New Haven, Sept. 12--Denial is given by Representative A. A. Marshen to reports that the town of Madison finds itself deeper in debt than had been anticipated.

This is "Walker Day" in the Central American republic of Nicaragua, and commemorates the fifty-third anniversary of the execution of William Walker, the American filibuster who was the chief actor in a conspiracy for the "benevolent assimilation" of Central America.

Walker was a native of Nashville, Tenn., and for a time was editor of a newspaper in New Orleans. He joined the gold rush to California in 1849, and three years later he organized an expedition to invade the Mexican State of Sonora, but was repulsed.
