PRESIDENT IN BRIDGEPORT ON WAY TO CORNISH

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 12—President Wilson passed through here at 9 o'clock enroute to the summer White House at Cornish, N. H. The trip was reminiscent of former days for the President rode in the private Federal, from which he made many back platform speeches during the campaign. Messrs. McAuloo, Tully and Malone left the President's train at New Haven and continued to Beverly, Mass., where they will confer today, with Col. E. M. House, intimate friend of President Wilson. They will talk over the Boston collectorship and two other federal appointments in Massachusetts.
The slate that has been under consideration consists of Edmund Billings to be collector of the port and Joseph Maynard to be surveyor at Boston and former State Senator John F. Mailey to be collector of internal revenue at Springfield, Mass. Vigorous protests have been lodged against the appointment of Billings by the organization Democrats and today's conference of those who know the Massachusetts political situation is intended merely to gather information to lay before the President on his return to Washington next week. Some of the Massachusetts leaders have been urging that the federal appointments be deferred until after the

PERRY CENTENARY NEARING THE END

Detroit, Sept. 12—Detroit's celebration of the Perry centennial began early today. The arrival, this morning, of the Niagara, Commodore Perry's flagship, was the official opening of the gala day. The Niagara, accompanied by the naval training ships Alabama and Don Juan De Austria, proceeded across Lake Erie from the Put-In-Bay celebration, was met at the mouth of the Detroit river by a flotilla of water craft and escorted to her mooring place.
Three governors were aboard the training ships—Ferris, of Michigan; McGovern, of Wisconsin; and Potler, of Rhode Island. A special program of local entertainment was arranged for the executives and other members of the official party. The "Perry parade" was scheduled for the middle of the afternoon.
The celebration is to close, tonight, with a display of fireworks.
When the railroads get their steel car equipment, the engineers can go to sleep any time they feel like it.
If the people of New York City stand up for their convictions like men, the danger of good government can be averted.

DENATURED ALCOHOL AMENDMENT VITAL FEATURE OF BILL

Would Permit Farmers, At Nominal Expense, To Utilize Waste Products

(By Congressman Clyde H. Tavenner.)
Washington, Sept. 12.—Literally in the eleventh hour of the tariff debate—it was 1:20 o'clock on the morning of Tuesday, Sept. 16—the wearied senators unostentatiously slipped into the bill an amendment so important that it deserves to rank with the income tax as one of the two great constructive features of the Underwood bill. This was the denatured alcohol amendment. If left unchanged by the conference between House and Senate, the amendment will accomplish what the law of June 7, 1906, was designed to do. It will make it possible for every farmer in the United States to turn the waste products of his farm into denatured alcohol.

The people opposed the law of 1906, which followed a long agitation, would accomplish this result. But this law was so craftily drawn in a Senate then under the influence of the special interests, that the law had been a sham and a mockery. To comply with the provisions of this law and attendant regulations, would cost the farmer at the least estimate $12,500 for a denaturing still.
The pending amendment wipes out all the restrictions. A few dollars will pay for a denaturing still which will comply with the law. The former law for the denaturing fluid will be fixed by regulation by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, but the law will permit the return of the denaturant to the farmer for use again and again. And that other hampering provision in the present law—the bond of $5,000 which the smallest distiller is required to give—is abrogated by the amendment.

The amendment is a triumph of achievement for Dr. Harry Lane, the new Senator from Oregon. I have for several months past been advocating the proposition of Dr. Lane's amendment being incorporated in the Tamm Bill, having written a series of letters to that end, as readers of this newspaper will recall. The adoption of this amendment makes me feel well repaid indeed, because I believe it will prove of real value to the farmers of this country.

If Dr. Lane had been one of those unobservant persons who go through life with their eyes shut, this story might never have been written. While he was campaigning in Oregon last fall he saw thousands of bushels of apples rotting on the ground for want of a market. He wondered why they were not made into denatured alcohol, remembering, as he did, the great predictions that were made for the law of 1906. He inquired, and found the law so full of jokers favorable to the distilling interests and the Standard Oil Company as to preclude the manufacture of alcohol by farmers.

"If the amendment becomes law it will offer a wonderful opportunity to the American farmer, and one which he will not be slow to take advantage of," said Dr. Lane. "Alcohol will be the coming fuel. Why just the products which go to waste every year on American farms have a value greater than the annual production of oil. Corn stalks that remain in the field after husking contain sufficient alcohol to make a very profitable yield to farmers.

"The secret of great success in manufacture is the utilization of by-products. But that greatest of industries farming has been unable to utilize its by-products.

"Whenever coal, kerosene or gasoline is used, alcohol can be used. With a slightly changed carburetor it can be burned in any gasoline engine. It can substitute for coal for heating, for kerosene for lighting and for gasoline for power. And the residue left after distillation is a finer fertilizer than if the entire crop had been plowed into the soil."
