

HERALD CAMERA-MEN TELL THEIR STORY

Dolling Up Battle Queen

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
Scraping paint off U. S. battleship Arkansas in navy yard at Brooklyn, N. Y., is preparatory to acquisition of new coat and general overhauling.

This Family of Seventeen All Live Under One Roof

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
Mr. and Mrs. George R. Hilt of San Jose won first prize for largest family (above) in Illinois. Their children number 17 and all live at the old homestead on their father's farm. No death has broken into the family ranks of which the two youngest members are twins.

Vassar Daisy Chain Bearer

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
Miss Eleanita Rawlings of San Francisco, Cal., is one of the prettiest, if not the prettiest, of the Vassar college girls chosen by their classmates as bearers of the daisy chain this year.

Ambassador

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
Bolivia's minister to Washington, Dr. Ricardo Jaimes Freyre, was among prominent arrivals from South America on recent trip of liner Western World to New York.

House Sent Up in Flames to Save Town From Flood

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
When river at Randolph, Vt., left banks, this house was burned because it was feared it would block river—forming sort of dam—and cause water to sweep town.

A Princess

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
Miss Katherine Linn Sage, daughter of former Senator Sage of Albany, N. Y., was married recently in Rome to Don Ranieri Bourbon Del Monte, Prince of San Faustino. Cardinal Lega performed the ceremony. Ambassador and Mrs. Fletcher, the staff of the American embassy, and most of the Roman aristocracy were present.

Dolls on Parade During Girls' Week

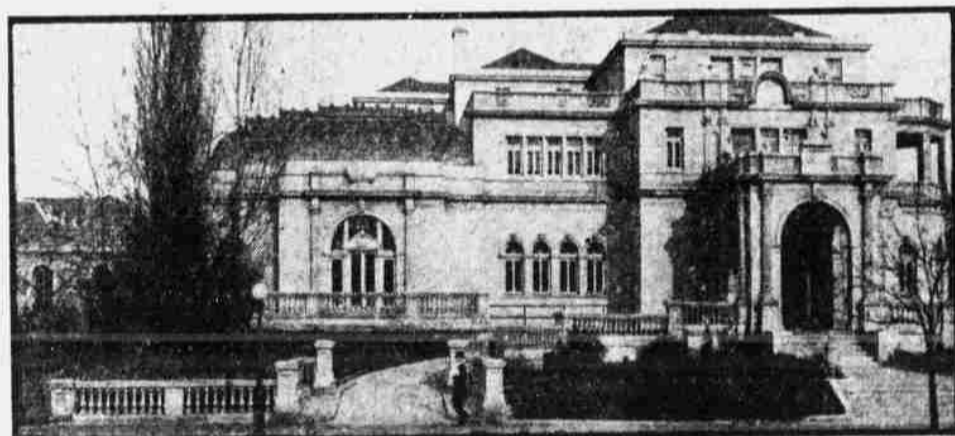

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
During Chicago Girls' week procession of dolls was staged. Dolls of every sort participated and affair was success. Photo shows one entry group.

Bid Radio Deal Consummated

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
Complete control of basic U. S. radio patents has been obtained by R. T. Pierson (right), head of Hazeltine corporation of Jersey City, N. J., shown in conference with Prof. Marius C. A. Latour, noted French scientist and radio engineer. This is largest deal consummated since development of broadcasting.

Little White House Can't Find a Tenant

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
The mansion, built in Washington, D. C., as a home for the Vice President by Mrs. John B. Henderson, has been rejected by Gen. Dawes as too pretentious. He is the fourth to turn it down.

Waist Line Has England's Heir Worried

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
Will the slim Prince of Wales—The Prince of Wales, off on long trip again, is worrying about waistline, reports state. He fears corpulency of granddad, late Edward VII.

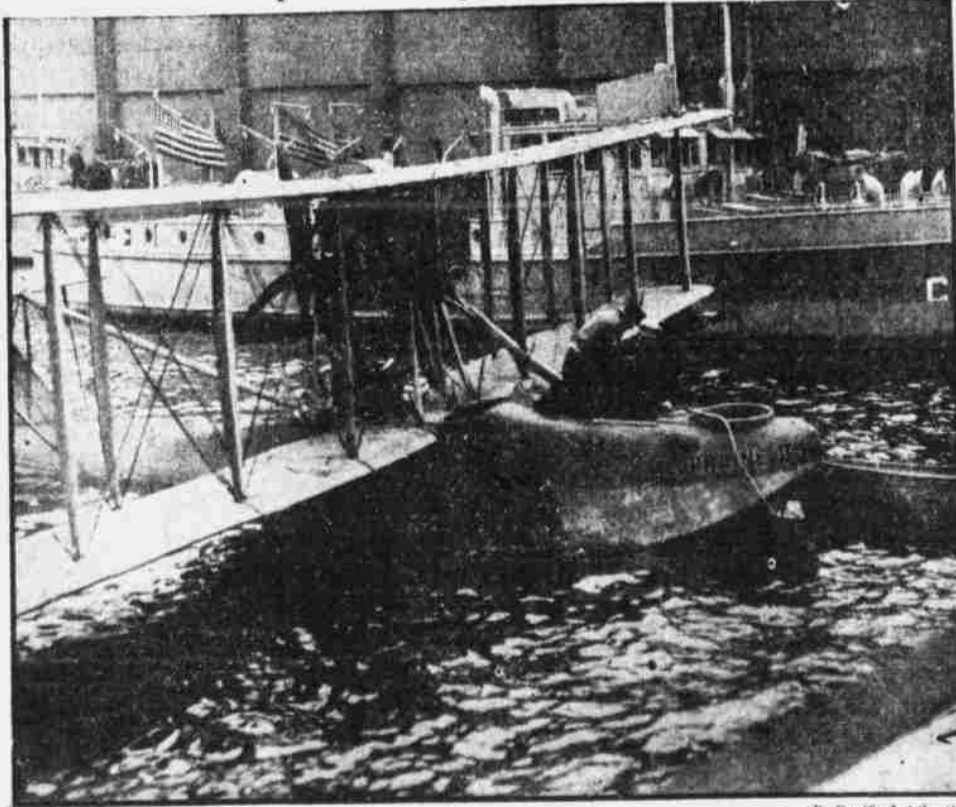

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
Become as stout as was Edward VII?

Recaptured

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
The mysterious "Sister Theresa" who posed as a nun when arrested by Mrs. Frances Driscoll, children's society representative (above) in 1923 and who vanished while authorities were investigating her companion, an 11-year-old girl, was captured again by Mrs. Driscoll in New York. She had as a companion this time a girl, 15, who says she is Dora Francesco of Philadelphia, Pa.

Rum Row Seaplane Caught Off New Jersey Coast

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
The seaplane Lorraine II, captured near Rum Row off the New Jersey coast is suspected of attempting to establish communication with rum running vessels. The Lorraine is second plane bagged under similar circumstances.

Somebody'll Win by a Hair

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
Chicago is all stirred up over contest to choose two girls, one with most artistic bobbed hair and the other with most luxuriant long hair. Two chosen will be sent to hairdressers' convention at San Francisco. Photo shows Secretary Mary Lewis measuring tresses of candidate while aspirants watch.

Differences Over

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
With troubles started by suit over property of Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte against wife settled, New York society couple are reconciled. Mr. and Mrs. Bonaparte are shown on vacation at Atlantic City, N. J.

(Copyright: 1925: Pacific & Atlantic Photos, Inc.)