

AMERICAN SQUADRON ANCHORS AT KIEL GERMAN FLEET THUNDERS WELCOME

Prince Henry Goes Aboard the United States Battleship Kearsarge to Extend Greeting to Rear Admiral Cotton on Behalf of Emperor William, Who Will Arrive To-Day at the Scene of the Regatta

KIEL, June 23.—The United States European squadron, Rear Admiral Cotton in command, reached its anchorage opposite the yacht club house at noon today. The fleet commanded by Admiral Prince Henry, of Prussia, consisting of eight battleships and six cruisers, saluted the American vessels and the band of the German flagship played "America." Some hundreds of townspeople gathered on the piers and slopes of the narrow bay and gave detached, irregular cheers as the squadron arrived.

Prince Henry sent his navigating officers and the captain of the port down the bay early in the morning to meet the Americans. They met the latter at Oranienburg, where the German ships were dressed in the visitors' honor and flying the stars and stripes.

Prince Henry simplified an interchange of calls by suggesting that Rear Admiral Cotton, his staff officer, Lieutenant Hus-

Judge's Words Hint at Appointment of a Receiver.

Says the Reorganization Plan Must Have Consent Of All.

Schwab May Be Compelled to Detail His Part in the Manipulation of Bethlehem Plant.

Special Dispatch to The Call.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Three salient features marked the second day's hearing of the application for the appointment of a receiver for the United States Shipbuilding Company in Judge Kirkpatrick's chambers in the Federal building at Newark to-day. These were the threat that Schwab might be compelled to detail his part in the manipulation of the affairs of the Bethlehem Steel plant and the United States Shipbuilding Company; a severe arraignment of Schwab by counsel for the complaining first mortgage bondholders (whose first lien would be wiped out if the proposed reorganization plan were made effective), in which the men who got $30,000,000 in securities out of the merger was compared to the wrack of the old Sixth National Bank of this city, who were sent to prison for criminal acts, and the remarks of Judge Kirkpatrick before the arguments really began to-day, in which he seemed to indicate that the appointment of a receiver was inevitable.

The opening remarks of Judge Fitzpatrick were regarded as full of significance. The lawyers for the reorganization committee and the officers of the company wanted to put in supplementary affidavits showing that $20,000,000 more stock had been deposited with them.

COURT'S SIGNIFICANT WORDS.

"It doesn't make much difference about Mr. Sheldon," observed the Judge. "He represents a lot of bondholders who are willing to give up their bonds. As I understand it, these first mortgage bondholders cannot be wiped out without the process of law. It does not make any difference if six out of ten or nine out of ten want to give up their bonds, they cannot take away others unless there is a foreclosure or default or some due process of law. The reorganization process cannot be carried out without their consent. While Mr. Sheldon may think it very nice for his scheme to go through, he cannot force these men who won't deposit their securities with him."

Samuel Untermyer, New York lawyer for the complainants to-day, and Charles L. Corbin followed for the defense. Untermyer declared that he would show the court that the corporation was insolvent.

It was conceived in iniquity, maintained by fraud and is ending in crime," he said.

ACUSES THE DIRECTORS.

Untermyer declared that if the insolvent were not shown to the satisfaction of the court, the complainants would claim that the plan of reorganization was a definite plan to wreck the corporation and that the complainants had the equitable right to have the court interfere to preserve their holdings. Untermyer maintained that the directors purposely misinformed the listing committee of the New York Stock Exchange by presenting the official statement of the corporation's affairs so that the bonds could be sold to the public.

Taking up the purchase by Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem steel Company and the subsequent execution of the $10,000,000 mortgage as a collateral guaranty on his sale and transfer of that property to the defendant corporation, Untermyer declared that it was a picture of a proceeding as any of those made by the directors of the Sixth National Bank, who bought and sold the stock of their own corporation.

CORBIN MAKES ANSWER.

Charles L. Corbin, for the defendants, argued that the complainants had not shown the company to be insolvent and that there was no proof of fraud. Corbin added that but one of the complainants, Conklin, had shown any interest in the company, and even that was small. There was no proof of the contention that Nixon organized the company with the intent to defraud the public, nor that the officials were responsible for newspaper publications by which the complainants claimed to have been induced to purchase stock. The prospectus to which the complainant referred was not issued by the company, which was not in existence at the time. Nor was there any proof as to the terms of the agreement made with Schwab, as set forth by the complainants, and that the assets were not worth $10,000,000, nor that the directors were controlled by Schwab.

Corbin held that the statements of the committee on reorganization could not be considered proof of insolvency, and these were the only things in the shape of such proof offered by the complainants.

YOUNG MORMONS IN REVOLT AGAINST CHURCH OFFICIALS

Six Hundred Youths and Maidens of Brigham City, Threatened With Excommunication Because They Attended a Tabooed Dance, Defy Elders and Remain From Services

HEAD OF THE MORMON CHURCH, WHO IS CONFRONTED BY A GROWING TENDENCY ON THE PART OF THE RISING GENERATION OF HIS FOLLOWERS TO REVOLT AGAINST ELDERS' RULE.

SALT LAKE, June 23.—Because they disobeyed an order of the local church authorities nearly 600 young Mormons of both sexes in Brigham City, Utah, have been threatened with excommunication. Their offense was the patronizing of a dancing pavilion conducted in opposition to one owned by the church.

Brigham City is a strong Mormon town, and the church recently bought the opera-house there. The authorities ordered the size of the orchestra reduced and salaries lowered.

The musicians succeeded in getting a pavilion erected, and a dance was advertised. The church authorities retaliated with the announcement of a ball in the opera-house. The young people were told to keep away from the pavilion dance. When a number signified their intention of going anyhow the announcement was publicly made that any person attending the dance in the pavilion would be cut off from the church.

The fact that conditions have changed since the days of Brigham Young was demonstrated by the organization of an open revolt. When the night of the dance came there were 300 couples in the tabooed pavilion and twelve in the church opera-house.

Stationed in the pavilion were a number of the faithful taking down names, so that the church authorities would know upon whom to execute their threat. The insurgents, however, have taken the wind out of the sails of the church authorities by staying away from meeting, and now there are indications that efforts will be made to get them back into the church instead of excommunicating them.

This incident closely follows the withdrawal of a large body of Swedes from the church on account of a clash with the first presidency.

ALLEGED JOURNALIST IS ACCUSED OF CRIME

W. E. Ashton Is Held by London Police on Charge of Passing Forged Bank Checks.

LONDON, June 23.—W. E. Ashton, describing himself as an American journalist and author, was remanded at the Guildhall Police Court to-day on the charge of forging checks for $2000 on the London and County Bank in the name of Laird, Schober & Co., of Philadelphia. The police believe Ashton is a member of a skillful gang of forgers now operating in Europe.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—At the local office of Laird, Schober & Co., large manufacturers of shoes, Schober stated that no information of the forgery had been received by the firm and that he was unaware of any loss sustained. The forged checks, he said, were probably those used by the London office of the company.

of going anyhow the announcement was publicly made that any person attending the dance in the pavilion would be cut off from the church.

HIS EXPLANATION NOT ACCEPTABLE

Former Immigration Official Must Stand His Trial.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The case of Edward F. McSweeney, former assistant commissioner of immigration at New York, was before the President again to-day. By the President's direction, on McSweeney's request, United States Attorney Burnett of the Southern District of New York heard McSweeney's explanation of the charges against him of abstracting public records and documents of the United States immigration station at Ellis Island.

General Burnett holds that McSweeney's action comes within the laws which punish the embezzlement or unlawful withdrawing of official records and documents; that the accused was given the fullest opportunity to explain, and that his explanations were not satisfactory and did not meet the charges, which are fully sustained by the facts brought out during the hearing.

VIENNA, June 23.—King Peter arrived here at 3:45 o'clock from Geneva and left for Belgrade to-night. He received a warm welcome from the Serbian and Montenegrin students and from a delegation from Belgrade, headed by the Mayor. In responding to a brief speech made by the latter, King Peter expressed his pleasure at returning to Belgrade after so long an exile.

WAGON TOPPLES DOWN HILLSIDE

San Franciscans Bruised in Accident Near Willits.

Special Dispatch to The Call.
WILLITS, June 23.—A party of San Franciscans consisting of Mrs. E. Crook, Miss Rosenstern and Messrs. E. Rosenstern and S. Joseph had a narrow escape to-night in an accident while driving seven miles from this place on the Fort Bragg road.

When the vehicle was on a bend of the narrow driveway the pole snapped in two pieces and instantly the horses became frightened and unmanageable. They reared and plunged in a mad effort to extricate themselves from the tangle of harness and soon backed the buggy over the grade.

The occupants tried to leap out of danger's way, but were not entirely successful. All four tumbled down the embankment with the buggy and team, and for a time it seemed that the descent would continue for hundreds of feet.

When the hillside stopped the vehicle, and one of the men and the two women were enabled to get out of the wreck with little more than slight bruises. E. Rosenstern fared badly and his injuries are thought to be severe. He was crushed in the smash-up as the buggy went off the road.

It was intended, however, to kill their Majesties, but King Alexander himself aggravated and incensed his pursuers in the palace and he asserts that the late King had planned the killing of 150 prominent men on the day that the heir to the throne was announced, in order to spread terror among the ranks of the malcontents.

Outing Suits Made to order

A COMMON COMPLAINT against outing suits is that after a few weeks' wear the clothes look as if they had been pulled through a knot-hole.

The fabrics must be light for coolness; the problem is to make a light unlined coat that will hang right and keep its shape.

We have solved this problem, and this Summer are making outing suits for some of the best dressers in San Francisco.

The materials comprise an assortment of homespun and crashes in several light shades and patterns.

We will make a suit to your order in the style here pictured from
