"Scenes and Incidents."

Among the many illogical statements to be found in newspaper literature is that wonderful transcript of events known as the "synopsis of Incidents" of the Bill of the play. It must have often struck the searcher for entertainment that the "synopsis" as he read it by day bore very little resemblance to the performance as he saw it in the evening. This is a painful divergence, and it must furthermore have struck this intelligent searcher that the Synopsis was not in itself coherent, and that it conveyed no idea whatever to his mind. Here we have a bad state of affairs, and whoever prepares the Bill for the printer is answerable for it. If the design is to mystify the amusement-lover the end is secured, but if the object is to elucidate the matter in hand, and to excite interest therein, it can in fairness be said to be very imperfectly attained. That we do our familiar old acquaintance, the "Synopsis," no injustice may be seen by glancing at the following "heads" of an advertisement found in one of our exchanges. Among the mysterious intimations of what people who invest their "rag money" in the show will see, are these :—

Scene.—Arrival of villagers—Old Wheat in the wrong place—Sudden collision—Monkey here and everywhere—All among the hay—How to make a horse—Drop that Bread!—A lovely serenade—"Where's my umbrella?"—Who threw that Brick!—The dash pas fight—What ho, my three blind mice!—The ogre's carnival.

Now if anything tangible can be got out of these Delphic utterances the investigator must be very learned in theatrical lore indeed. Can it be the object to get people into the show to see what it is all about? It looks that way. At all events, to call these bewildering conundrum's "Incidents" is to make a very queer use of language. Nothing short of time-honored observance could justify it.

If the State loans its credit to develop the Southern section of the State, why should it not be equally just or generous to the Northern? Governor Coodran, in his inaugural address, showed that here the greater part of the taxes are collected, and these taxes go, of course, to sustain the State's credit, and make its bonds of value. Is it, then, a fair or proper policy to collect taxes in Northern Delaware and apply their benefits to Southern Delaware? Come, gentlemen, as this policy of State aid is established, let us have a fair divide.

Few special elections to fill vacancies in the Pennsylvania Legislature, have just been held. Marshall, Democrat in Fagan's district, Philadelphia, is elected by but four majority. This is a Republican gain of about 600. Bell, Republican, in Armstrong county, in place of Hunter, deceased, has been elected by 911 majority. This is a Republican gain of about 700.

The result of the Pennsylvania local elections makes it pretty plain that the Republicans have a large majority in the State, and will carry it, as usual this year. Governor Hartranft will undoubtedly be renominated, and from the indications as thus given will as certainly be re-elected.

The "Bazaar of the Nations."

This grand and novel combination of exposition, entertainment, sale, &c., will be held in Horticultural Hall, Philadelphia, opening on Easter Monday, March 29th, 1875, to continue until April 24th.

The object is to secure funds for the erection of the Young Men's Christian Association new building, at the S. E. corner of Fifteenth and Chestnut streets. Houses will be built in Horticultural Hall, that shall accurately represent dwellings now standing in many European cities; for instance, one, an old English house in Bristol, another, a Berlin house, another, a house in Venice, and so on. Paris, Rome, Geneva, Constantinople, even Jerusalem and Pekin will thus be brought to Philadelphia.

Ladies, attired in the costumes of every nationality represented, will offer for sale, from the shops and marts along the grand thoroughfare in the Hall, goods from all these countries. The languages of the world will be heard, and the street scenes of remote lands will become familiar to us. The Bazaar will be in every way an extraordinary affair, and its objects is worthy the hearty and liberal support of the people not only of the city of Philadelphia but those of this and adjoining States. Preliminary tickets, exchangeable for admission tickets of special dates, except Opening Day) have been issued and are now on sale at the office of the Bazaar of The Nations, 811 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, where contributions may be sent, and any information regarding the Bazaar, obtained. No season tickets will be issued.

PERSONAL AND PARTICULAR.

—Is there any law against striking an attitude?

—A pair of rubbors—A washerwoman's hands.

—Mrs. Sartoris looks thin and delicate since her return.

—Jones calls his dog Oak because he has such a coarse bark.

—Shad are 75 cents apiece in Wilmington, N. C., and it isn't a very large piece either.

—A San Francisco school-mistress has made $300,000 by speculating in mining stocks.

—The young man who boasted he would yet make a noise in the world, beats a gong in a hotel.

—Chicago models refuse to pose for a dollar an hour, and to find new poseers is a poser indeed.

—There is a time for all things. The time to leave is when a young lady asks you how the walking is.

—It is said that Worth, the man-milliner of Paris, thinks he is worth enough and will soon retire from business.

—A young lady in Kentucky married her lover in the Mammoth Cave because she had promised her father that she would never marry him on the face of the earth.

—A man in Bangor is spending his money in the building of a fishing rod which will cost $2000. The reel mounting is to be of solid gold 5½ inches in length. The ferrules are also of solid gold.

—Senator Schurz is going to Europe, when Congress adjourns, to visit a young daughter, who is at school in Germany. His youngest child, a boy four years old, is to be educated in this country.

—The spectacle at Niagara Falls is grander, this winter, than for many years. An ice bridge covers the river below the falls, which will remain till spring, while the ice mountains reach nearly to the edge of the cataract.

Testimony.

I cheerfully give this testimony to the public that Mrs. Foster's Blood Purifier and Tetter Ointment cured me:

I was afflicted for many years with disordered blood, a troublesome and obstinate tetter of the skin and swelling of the glands of the neck, which was the occasion of prolonged suffering and expense.

I consulted eight of the most prominent physicians in the city and used their medicine a long time without receiving any permanent relief; on the contrary getting worse, till finally almost despairing of hope, I was induced to try Mrs. Foster's Blood Purifier, which was recommended to me as being a certain cure for my disease. It was the turning point in my case; after using two bottles of the Blood Purifier in connection with the Tetter Ointment, the swelling ceased, the eruptions disappeared and now I am entirely and effectually cured. If further information is desired concerning my case, call at my residence.

The Celluloid Truss.

These are the most durable and easily adjusted Trusses ever offered to the public. The spring is of the best English Steel, and completely covered with Celluloid, which protects and preserves it, while the pad is of the same material.

Among the many great advantages of the Celluloid Truss, which will be at once appreciated by those who have worn Trusses, are the following:

It is impervious to water.
It will never break or crack.
It is always clean.
It can be kept with the hand to any shape required without artificial heat.
It will neither rust or chafe the patient.
It will retain the most difficult rupture with safety and comfort.
It need not be removed while bathing.
Its durability is beyond question.
It is economical, for it will last a life time.
The heat of the body causes no unpleasant smell.
In fact, with a Celluloid Truss, the wearer has comfort, ease, safety, durability, adaptability, and economy.

A variety of styles of these Trusses may be found at Foster's Drug Store, Front and West Streets.

Please call and examine. Adjustments made without cost or charge.

Special attention shown to ladies by Mrs. Dr. Foster. The gentlemen receiving their share of attention by a competent man.
