DUMES' REMEDY FOR THE Piles!

NEW CASE OF A CURE.

Boston, Nov. 14th.

SIR,—The Pile Ointment and Electuary I lately had of you, has had an excellent effect. I have been troubled for years with the Piles, and have never found any remedy that would compare with yours. The late attack was a severe one, but the relief was almost immediate. I take great pleasure in communicating this to you, for the benefit of any who may be suffering under so painful a disease.

Mr. KIDDER. T—H—
The original letter may be seen at the Counting Room of the Proprietor.

The Proprietor of this Medicine recommends it with the fullest confidence as one of the most valuable remedies yet discovered, for the cure of the painful and debilitating complaint of the Piles. He deems it unnecessary to publish any other than the foregoing testimonial in its favor. This remedy has more perfectly answered the purpose for which it is intended, than any other in common use, and affords immediate and permanent relief, both from the disorder itself, and its accompanying symptoms of pain in the loins, vertigo, head-ache, loss of appetite, indigestion, and other marks of debility.

The remedy is quite innocent, and may be administered to all ages and both sexes. Plain and ample Directions, with a description of the complaint and the mode of using the Ointment, and the other articles, are given in each package, which consists of two packages, one containing an Ointment, and the other an Electuary, for 50 cents for both articles, or 50 cents where but one only is wanted.

Prepared and sold wholesale, together with the "Cowboy Medicines," by the sole Proprietor, T. KIDDER, at his Counting Room, No. 97, (formerly called No. 70,) corner of Court and Hanover streets, Boston, and retailed by his special appointment by

J. HARLAN, Agent.

No. 135 Market Street, Wilmington.

J. ALBRIGHT'S COLUMBIAN SYRUP.

THIS Medicine has proved itself a sovereign remedy, when all other means have failed, in curing the following diseases, viz.

Necrosis, or affections of the bones; King's Evil, or Scrofula; White Swelling; Inveterate Ulcers, Liver and Bilious complaints; Rheumatic affections of the head and system generally; Ulcers of the Mouth and Throat; Discharges from the Ears; Syphilis and all diseases arising from an improper use of Mercury.

As a general depurative, or cleanser of the blood, this medicine possesses invaluable powers and has proved itself highly beneficial, as a spring and autumnative; also when given to children after vaccination.

The numerous testimonies published in its favour from highly respectable sources, showing its superior healing power to that of Penacea, and other remedies, are sufficient to establish its merits, beyond a parallel.

The following recommendatory notice, is from a regular graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and student of the late Dr. S. B. Barton, Professor of Materia Medica, Natural History and Botany, in the University of Pennsylvania.

Medical Recommendatory Notice.

Having recommended the use of J. Albright's "Columbian Syrup" in my private practice for nearly two years, and having witnessed its decided efficacy, in many cases which had previously resisted the usual remedies, I now with much pleasure give my testimony in its favour, by stating that I have prescribed the Syrup with great success, in Ulcers of the Mouth and Throat; Scrofulous diseases; Rheumatic affections of the Head; Liver complaint; Chronic Rheumatism; scald head; Discharges from the ears; diseases prevailing among children particularly; Carious affection of the bones; Mercerial cases and secondary Syphilis. The length of time many of the diseases have been cured, convinces me they are permanent; and may with propriety be said, that its healing qualities rank it among the first remedies of the present day.

JOHN J. MAYWEG, M. D.

The following certificate is a striking instance of the superior efficacy of the Columbian Syrup, over that of Penacea and Gallicum; although those Medicines were used to a large extent without effect, and the disease still progressing, the Syrup after being prescribed but a short time, checked the progress of the disease and in a few months performed a perfect cure.

Communication.

An important cure performed by J. Albright's "COLUMBIAN SYRUP" in New Haven, copied from the Connecticut Herald of January 15, 1828. I was afflicted with wandering pains in different parts of my body, which commenced in the Spring of 1824, and lasted about 18 months, from which time it settled in my right knee and began to swell, and continued swollen during the winter. I tried many things to heal it, but all to no effect. In the month of March, 1824, it ulcerated and broke—from that time it spread to a large sore, which was two inches in diameter. In August, the same year, the ulcers began on the lower part of my knee pan, gathered and broke there and spread to the size of a man's hand. During the fall and winter, I had the advice of many surgeons and physicians, but all to no purpose; it continued to grow worse. In the summer of 1826, I took 8 bottles of Scott's Emulsion, in the summer of 1827, in the fall of the same year, I took 4 bottles of Potter's Gallicum, also without effect. In January, 1827, I began on Swann's Penacea, and that also failed of affording relief, but my leg was very bad. Sixteen large ulcers were on my leg, one on the calf four inches in diameter, one on my knee the size of a man's hand, one above on the outside of my thigh four inches in diameter, and 13 small ones. On the 8th of April, 1827, I began on the Columbian Syrup, and in two months and a half my leg was healed up soundly and has remained so.

This cure I attribute to the use of Jacob Albright's Columbian Syrup. I am now well and can walk any reasonable distance with convenience.

MAN.

The human mind—that lofty thing! The palace and the throne, Where awful reason sits as king, And breathes his judgment tone— O! who, with fragile steps, shall trace Nor, in his weakness, own That mystery and marvel blind That lofty thing, the human mind!

The human heart—that restless thing! The tempter and the tried; The haughty, yet the suffering; The child of pain and pride; The buoyant and the desolate; The home of love, the fair of hate; Self-sung and self-defied; Yet do we bless thee as thine art, Thou restless thing—the human heart!

The humanitarian—that holy thing! The silently sublime; The angel sleeping on the wing, Worn with the seofs of time; The beautiful, the void, the bound; A prince enslav'd—a victim crown'd. The stricken in its prime! In tears—in tears to earth it stole— That holy thing—the human soul!

And this is man! Oh! ask of him— The gifted, and forgiven— When o'er the landscape, drear and dim, The wreck of storms is driven, If pride or passion, in their power, Can chain the tide, or charm the hour, Or stand in place of heaven; He bends the brow, he bows the knee— "Creator—Father—none but Thee!"

INDIAN SUMMER.

Light as love's smiles, the silvery mist at morn, Flots in loose flakes along the liquid river, The blue-bird's notes upon the soft breeze borne, As high in air she carols, faintly quiver, The weeping birch, like banners adly waving, Bends to the stream, its graceful foliageaving, Boded with dew the witch elm's branchless sliver. To a timid rabbit from the furze is peep'g, And from the springy spray the squirrel's gaily leaping.

I love thee, autumn, for thy scenery, ere The blasts of winter chase the varied dyes That gaily deck the slow declining year, I love the splendour of thy sunlit skies, The gorgeous hues that tinge each falling leaf, Lovely as beauty's cheek, as woman's love too, bright— I love the note of each wild bird that flies, As on the wind she pours her parting lay, And wings her eager flight to summer climes away.

Oh! nature! I still fondly turn to thee, With feelings fresh as'er my boyhood's were, However cold my reckless heart may be, To thee I still the same devotion bear, In all life's changes yet my feelings will To thee be true, as to his office still Is he, who fix'd by right prescriptive there— (Tho' even thou should'st break thy wonted order)— In every party change yet finds himself "Recorder." CRAMBO.

FRUIT TREES.

The new method of raising fruit trees, by planting the scions, is a great desideratum in the art of obtaining choice fruit. It has many advantages over engrafting, because it is more expeditious, and requires no stalk or tree. They may be planted where they are required to stand; and the labour of a man for one day, will be sufficient to plant out enough for a large orchard, after the scions are obtained.—The method of preparing and planting is as follows: take the scions as for engrafting, and at any time after the first of February, and till the buds begin to grow considerably, and dip each end of the shoot in melted pitch, or wax, rosin and tallow, and bury it in the ground with the buds uppermost, while the body lies in an horizontal position, and at a depth of two or three inches. We are informed that trees obtained in this way, will bear in three or four years from the time of planting.—We have no doubt of the practicability of this method of raising fruit. Dr. Paige, of this village planted about twenty scions of different kinds of Peach about the middle of last month, two of which are now in blossom, at the surface of the ground, and appear flourishing.—The composition he used was melted shoemaker's wax.—Oswego Gaz.
