ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT GEORGETOWN, N. D. second-class matter.

Of course the Democrats had no money and the Republicans had loads of it, and of course if the Democrats had been liberally supplied with the 'dough' they would not have spent it for election purposes, but would have bought tracts for the heathen in the Philippines, and of course—but what is the use? Every one knows that the Democrats used it when the Republican Party in this State was too small to elect anything. This kind of talk is only indulged in by a few score head politicians and does not in the least alter the fact that the Republicans captured nearly everything in sight last Tuesday.

The Democrats refused to believe the first telegraphic election news that reached here and, it is said, one prominent Democrat went to the operator that unless he sent straight news he would be reported to head quarters. He knows better now.

Has any one heard the final returns from Northwest Fork? It was reported here Wednesday morning that the Republicans had carried that hundred by considerably over four hundred and that they were still voting.

W. F. Blackstone received a few complimentary votes from the Prohibitionists last Tuesday. This only goes to prove that all Prohibitionists are not opposed to the liquor traffic in Delaware.

If the Sussex Journal had published a few more 'statistics' the Democrats would not have carried any district in the county.

The Republicans control the Levy Court. Only one Democrat was elected.

The report that Burt Michell would move to Georgetown seems to have been a mistake.

A Remarkable Case.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of one Minute Cough Cure. She says: 'The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength.' Sold by Marshall & Chipman.

The Return of Dean Cook.

Once more our good friend who was with us in our 'Church Mission' last May, comes among us in the hope of reviving the spiritual blessings which were then conferred upon us through his agency. The Dean will meet the congregation of St. Paul's and all who may care to join, at a preparation evangelistic service on Saturday evening, 7.30, November 12.

We devoutly trust that this bright unconventional service will enable us to obtain a deeper taste of spiritual things on the Lord's Day, following.

The services on Sunday will be Communion services, 7.30 a. m. with short address; 10.30 Morning Prayer and Sermon. An address to the Sunday-school in the Church at 3.30 p. m., to which all adults will be heartily welcomed; and Evening Prayer and sermon 7.30. May God in His wisdom and mercy vouchsafe a rich blessing on these ministrations of our dear friend.

The Rector, Rev. A. E. Whatham, will be in Conshohocken taking the Deans services in his absence.

Honey Making Wasps.

The card making wasp of Brazil, it is said, manufactures a honey the use of which is not without danger, as it occasionally vertigo. In South America large quantities of honey are collected from the nests built in trees by an insect which is supposed to belong to the bee tribe. Then there are the bumblebees, whose honey is so prized in Ceylon go into the woods to gather. There are also in our own country ants which construct underground nests, but their chief peculiarity is that in addition to the ordinary inhabitants of an ants' nest there is a special class called honey bearers. These live entirely in the nest and receive the food collected by the workers, store it up in their globular abdomens, which are capable of great expansion, and regurgitate it in the form of honey when any of their comrades desire to be fed. They are, in fact, merely living honey bags. Another species of honey ant has been found in Australia, and a species of cocoon in India provides itself with a small quantity of honey.

Wellington and His Steward.

Even the 'Iron' Duke of Wellington had his difficulties with the servant question. Chamberlain George H. Clerk wrote of the great soldier: 'As to his table, it was in every respect such as became his position. His wines were excellent, though his cellars contained but a scanty supply at any given time. The oldest could not have been more than a couple of months in his possession. One of his reasons for thus acting he made no secret. 'At one time,' he said, 'I used to do as others do—give my orders to the house steward and hand him the money to pay the bills as he presented them to me. This went on for a year or more, when to my surprise and disgust I got letters from tradesmen humbly begging that I would settle their accounts, which had been long standing. I found on inquiry that the fellow had been gambling with my money, leaving my creditors unpaid. From that day to this I have made it a point to pay my own bills and to keep my accounts with tradesmen as short as possible.'

The Return of a Projectile.

The question is often asked: 'Will an object thrown into the air, either from the hand, a volcano or even when shot from a rifle or cannon, return to the earth with the same initial velocity with which it left?' The answer is: A projectile thrown vertically upward into the air will return with a velocity less than the initial. In the air the accelerating force which acts during the descent is not equal to the retarding force during ascent. The retarding force is the same for the weight of the projectile and the atmospheric resistance, both acting in the same direction. In the descent the accelerating force is the difference of these two, since they act in opposite directions. In a vacuum it would be different. In that case, the weight of the projectile being the only force acting, this force would generate in each foot of the ball exactly the same amount of velocity that it had lost in its passage upward. Thus the final would find it with a speed equal to its initial velocity.—St. Louis Republic.

A. Allen of North and 2d St. Milford, Del. took agent says, 'For about eight years I was unable to pursue my daily business on account of kidney and bladder trouble. During that time, I was unable for 2 years and 10 months to leave my room. I also had diabetes. After some time my health improved so that I was able to get about with a cane, but still had I had a scalding fever and it left my kidneys in a bad condition. Last spring I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and was advised to give them a trial. I did so procure a box. I was soon able to get around town without a cane I was so much improved and I have again resumed my work putting in full days. I was so greatly relieved by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills that I am more than pleased to recommend them to all sufferers from similar complaints.'
