EXTEND SYMPATHY.

A deluge of telegrams poured into the Harlan home, 1411 Euclid street northwest, most of them from distinguished men whom the dead jurist numbered among his intimate friends. Distinguished eulogies of Justice Harlan, all of them addressed to Mrs. Harlan, arrived last night from President Taft, Theodore Roosevelt, Attorney General George W. Wickersham, former Vice President and Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, Representative Swager Sherry, William Jennings Bryan, Henry Watterson, Robert T. Lincoln, son of Abraham Lincoln, and former Attorney General W. H. Miller. The Supreme Court was scheduled to meet in chambers yesterday, but the session was immediately adjourned. Tomorrow morning the court will convene to adjourn in memory of Justice Harlan until after the funeral. Mrs. Harlan's condition was not serious, but she was confined to her bed.

WALSH PAROLED.

Convicted Banker Freed from Federal Prison.

Leavenworth, Oct. 14.—A telegram from Washington ordered the release of John Walsh, the former banker and railroad president, of Chicago. Together with his son, who was in Leavenworth in anticipation of the parole, Mr. Walsh left this evening for Chicago, where he is due Sunday morning. He was forced to leave the prison in a heavy suit and gray overcoat worn by the prisoner, and a set of very inferior material. The prison authorities handed Walsh $5 a railroad ticket to Chicago, and $5 he had on deposit before he left the prison. Mr. Walsh declined to talk, saying he might have a statement to make later. His son, Richard, however, announced that his father intended to resume active business as soon as possible.

HAS GOUT OF THE THROAT.

William Rockefeller Very Ill on Way Home. London, Oct. 14.—William Rockefeller sailed on the Campana to-day, accompanied by Dr. Walter F. Chappell, of New York. He is in a very serious physical condition, suffering from what the physician called gout of the throat and larynx. The utmost secrecy was preserved to prevent the newspapers from finding Mr. Rockefeller. Last night the preliminary ship's mailing list had his name, also that of Chappell, without the title of the doctor.

TWO LIVES TOLL FLAMES EXACT FROM FIREMEN

Capt. Brown and Private Downs Perish.

SIX OTHERS ARE INJURED

Crushed by Falling Wall While Battling on Roof.

Warehouse of Washington Tobacco Company, Scene of Early Morning Blaze. Most Stubborn in Recent Years—Money Loss About $160,000—Explosion from Back Draft Responsible for Deaths.

About 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Private Michael A. Downs, of No. 4 Engine company, one of the brave firemen injured by the collapse of a wall during the fire which early yesterday morning destroyed the establishment of the Washington Tobacco Company, 618 Pennsylvania avenue, followed to his death his superior, Capt. Timothy J. Brown, whose life was crushed out under tons of the falling masonry. The toll taken by the fire, which was the most stubborn experienced by the local fire department in recent years, was two lives, and a damage of approximately $160,000. Besides the two firemen killed, six others were injured by the collapse of the wall.

DEE TO BROKEN BACK.

Private Downs' death was due directly to a broken back. He was conscious until shortly before his death. Present at his bedside in Emergency Hospital when the end came were his wife and several friends. He rallied several times during the afternoon, but lapsed into unconsciousness a few minutes before 4 o'clock, and rapidly grew weaker. In company with Capt. Brown and six other firemen, Downs had climbed to the roof of a small building in the rear of the burning tobacco warehouse. Capt. Brown, Private Downs, and the other men had crept to within a perilous distance of the flames and matted hoses which poured thousands of gallons of water into the fire. Suddenly the men trapped on the roof heard a boom in the fire zone. The rear wall of the burning warehouse tottered for a moment, and with a crash buried the forms of the eight firemen beneath tons of debris. The pressure of the masonry caused the roof to give way and carried the eight men a score of feet below.

Bringing Victims Out.

Out of the wreckage rescuers brought Capt. Brown, Downs, and their six comrades. Life was extinct in the body of the superior officer. His skull had been crushed in by the weight of the bricks.

NEEDS A HURRICANE.

Wrights Expect Much of "Buzzard" Aero.

Manteo, N. C., Oct. 4.—The "Buzzard" aeroplane, the latest invention of the Wright brothers, made a short flight with Orville Wright at the wheel at KTI Devil Hill at 7 o'clock this morning. The wind was not strong enough for a satisfactory experiment, and after a trip of about 300 feet the machine was put back in the hangar.

"We want a small hurricane to go up in this machine," said Orville. "Nothing less than a thirty-mile blow will satisfy me. We expect this machine to not only soar aloft like a bird, but to alight like a bird, thus overcoming the present danger in coming to earth."

Orville Wright states that if the wind is strong enough the first long flight will be made to-morrow.

IMPERIAL TROOPS DAILY DESERTING TO CHINA REBELS

Warfare of Extinction Seen in Present Uprising.

MANCHU COURT IN PANIC

Peking, Oct. 14.—The rebels at Wu-chang have a total battery of 172 cannon. They seized 100 field guns when they captured the manufacturing arsenal at Han-yang in addition to immense quantities of ammunition and arms. They later captured thirty-six field guns at Wu-chang.

Peking, Oct. 14.—To give China, as the rebel victor, Tang, said to-day, "a government like that of America," the anti-Manchu dynasty by countless royal edicts is directing extermination of the rebels. A condition of panic prevails within the Manchu court. Extraordinary precautions have been taken to protect the prince regent in the fear of an attempt at assassination. The imperial household is in complete disorder.

Hard to Move Troops. The war officials are encountering great difficulty in moving troops to the revolutionary centers, owing to the precautions taken by the rebels to cripple the railroads except between points which they wish to reach themselves.

Little sympathy is expressed for the Manchu throne. The educated Chinese are completely in accord with the revolution.

Incoming dispatches that evade the government censor indicate several new uprisings. The victory of Nankin has telegraphed for more troops, plainly expressing his doubt that imperial authority can be maintained in his province.

Similar advances have been received from Canton, where an outbreak is expected at any moment. Uprisings, with massacres of Manchus, are reported from Tientsin and Pao-Ting-Fu.

Yuan Shi-Kai, China's "iron man," formerly commander-in-chief of the army and navy, and who was banished three years ago because his power here aroused the jealousy of the Manchus, has been recalled by royal edict and made viceroy of Hu-Peh and Hunan provinces, with orders to proceed to Wu-chang and re-establish royal authority in that city.

The decisive battle of the revolution may be fought there.

POLICE BELIEVE WOMAN HAS FOUR HUSBANDS LIVING

Mrs. Robt. McIlvane Wanted in Connecticut.

CHARGED WITH THEFT

Following her arrest in Richmond, Va., on the charge of stealing a $50 bracelet from an H street boarding house, new and startling evidence last night convinced the police that Mrs. Amelia Jane Roberts-McIlvane, now held at the House of Detention, has been married four times and is divorced from none of her husbands. Information received from the police of Ansonia and Waterbury, Conn., convinces the Washington authorities that she can be returned there on charge of bigamy.

WED AT SIXTEEN.

According to the information in the possession of the Washington police, Mrs. Roberts-McIlvane was first married when she was sixteen years old to A. J. Burbank, a resident of Waterbury, Conn., with whom she lived for two years. Without the formality of a divorce, so the police say, Mrs. Roberts-McIlvane then married Charles Tibbals, of Chesapeake, Conn., and remained with him for one year. Her third husband was Kenneth Roberts, of Ansonia, Conn., who is now suing her for a divorce, according to the police.

After her third marriage she came to this city, where she met Robert McIlvane, who was a former resident of the Nutmeg State. The police at this time were uncertain whether or not she actually wedded McIlvane, but declare she used his name.

Wanted in Connecticut. McIlvane is wanted in Connecticut on charge of deserting wife and children, the Washington police say.

Mrs. Burbank Tibbals-Roberts-McIlvane, who is now lodged at the House of Detention, declined to discuss her domestic affairs last night.

Asked whether she liked Connecticut men, Mrs. Roberts-McIlvane replied: "I am a native of Connecticut myself. I have always believed Connecticut men were honorable. I cannot say anything at this time regarding these reports."

Mrs. Roberts-McIlvane is twenty-four years old and good looking. In the crime for which she is now held McIlvane is alleged to be implicated. The Washington police wired to the Connecticut authorities last night asking what they cared to do in the matter, and it is probable that if a bigamy charge is pressed, it will be allowed to take precedence over the alleged theft of the bracelet.

Foreigners Are All Safe. The State Department has been besieged by inquiries regarding American missionaries and residents in China. In reply to all requests for information of this character, Acting Secretary of State Adee has said that the foreign settlements at Hankow, and, in fact, all foreigners in the affected regions, are safe.

Sleuth May Tell Sweeney Who Stole His $60 in Bills

Greenbacks Disappear from Under Matting, Where They Were Thought to Be Safe.

Out-of-the-way hiding places have no terror for the thief who robbed Richard Sweeney, of 1015 H street northwest, of $60 yesterday afternoon. Secreted under the matting in Sweeney's room the money seemed perfectly secure. Sweeney turned up the edge of the matting once yesterday to see if the "greenbacks" were still there. He was dumfounded to find the money had disappeared. Sweeney reported his loss to the police and declared no one had seen him hide the money. He wants to know how the thief knew the money was there. Detective Barbee is trying to "tell it to Sweeney."

CUTS OFF GIRL'S BRAID.

Miscreant Sought by Authorities of Montgomery County. Montgomery County officials are still on the lookout for the miscreant who last Wednesday cut off one of Miss Maud Hill's chestnut braids. The girl declares the man approached her and asked her to walk with him. She refused, and the man thereupon grasped her in his arms and snipped off a braid of her hair.

She is unable to give the officials a description of her assailant, other than that he was tall and dark-haired.

By WILLIAM FEET.

New York, Oct. 14.—New York's victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in the opening game here to-day shows the clubs more evenly matched than most people supposed, and if Mathewson is able to pitch the kind of ball he did to-day during the other games in which he may be called upon to work, the Giants should have little trouble winning the series, although it is doubtful if the peerless Christy will get off so luckily next time.

The writer still believes that Connie Mack's tribe will eventually come out with flying colors. Luck was the big factor in New York's victory to-day. Collins made a miserable error of Herzog's grounder in the fourth—something unusual for the little whirlwind—and this slip-up cost the first run. Chief Meyers also got away with a lucky two-bagger in the seventh. Had Lord played in deep center for the Indian, as he had been told to do, he would have gobbled up the fly easily.

"CREDIT DUE TO 'BIG SIX.'" Still, when all is said, you've got to hand it to Mathewson. He was always master of the situation and was given real championship support.

When the clubs meet in Philadelphia Monday, in all probability Jack Coombs will be pitted against Rube Marquard. If Coombs is steady, McGraw's men will find him just as hard a proposition as was the Indian to-day. The Mackmen are sure to wallop Rube Marquard. The game was played in the cleanest and most sportsmanlike spirit. The work of the umpires, especially the different work of judging balls and strikes by Klem, was exceptionally good, and the crowd, considering the issues at stake and the high feeling which prevailed, was the best behaved I ever saw.

In the second inning Matty gave Baker a fast straight ball, waist high, which the batter hit sharply into right field. A sacrifice put him on second, and a short passed ball let him reach third. Then a clean, hard hit to left by that old war horse, Harry Davis, scored the first run. McInnis could have done no better.

Stops a Hot Liner. On Barry's liner, which followed, Mathewson almost made a remarkable double play. He stopped the ball with his gloved hand and just failed to reach it as it came. There was a good two-base hit by Oldring in the third and another by the same player in the fifth, but no runs. After Oldring's two-bagger in the fifth, Merkle made a fine play in getting the speedy Collins unassisted for the third out, at first base. There was no time to toss the ball to Mathewson, covering first. Besides, the danger of a collision with the runner, and a consequent muff, made Merkle's play exactly the proper one.

New York tied the score in the fourth inning when Snodgrass scored on a fumble by Collins. While Snodgrass was on second, he had several splendid chances to steal third, as Bender paid no attention to him whatever. But he waited for the hit. It turned out all
