Unable to get sufficient coal to fill her bunkers, the Carmania liner is unable to leave for Liverpool at 5 a. m. today. A large quantity of ice at the coal terminals made it difficult for barges to bring coal to the vessel, and the bunkering was slow.

Permits were granted by the Customs officials to prospective passengers to leave the vessel on the promise that they return before midnight. Many of the travelers came ashore and passed the evening at theaters.

Choir of St. John's Cathedral Reveals Diversified Talent

Work of School Under Direction of Mr. Farrow Shown in Recital Devoted to Four Classes of Sacred Music

By H. E. Krehbiel

The monotony of piano and song recitals by readings ambitious to get a Metropolitan hearing was varied at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon by an hour and a half of sacred music sung by the choir of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, under the direction of the choir director and master of the chorists, the Rev. Mr. Farrow.

The list of pieces embraced selections from four classes of ecclesiastical composition: the Roman mass, the Mass, the Missa, the Gloria, and the Credo. The choir was composed of twenty-five men and thirty or thirty-five boys of the Cathedral School.

The Palestrina pieces were wanting tempo, which came to like a revelation from the Vatican chorists with centuries of tradition back of them. Without these traditions, which help to express the utterance of the text, there is always danger of this beautiful old music sounding monotonous.

Says Mysterious Wireless Calls May Be From Venus

Smithsonian Institution Expert Declares Mars Is 100 Degrees Colder Than the Earth and No Form of Living Creature Could Exist There

By H. E. Krehbiel

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—If wireless messages are being received on the earth from some other planet, as suggested by William Marconi, it is not Mars sending the signals, but most probably Venus, says Dr. C. G. Abbot, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory and assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institution.

Dr. Abbot makes no claim that the mysterious wireless signals do come from another planet, but says if they do Mars is eliminated as a possibility, because known conditions on that planet probably would not permit the existence of any form of living creature.

Employers: Do you have need for boys?

It is easy to insert an advertisement that will bring you office with professional job-hunters—boys of interior quality—but real, live, red-blooded Americans—ah, that's different!

How are you to secure boys of the right kind? We can show you one good way.

Choose a newspaper circulating among men and women of intelligence and far-sightedness, who believe in Americanism and industrious effort, and then make your appeal to them as parents of the type of boys you wish to employ, showing the advantages and opportunities your concern offers to beginners.

This plan has been used with excellent results in The New York Tribune—a paper excelled by none for quality of circulation, appealing, as it does, to 100% Americans. Why not try us on this method? Just phone the Good Morning Girl, Beckman 3000—Classified Department—and dictate your ad. We'll bill you later.
