

PROUD LONDON.

The Funeral of Lord Palmerston—The scene at Cambridge House, along the line of the Procession, and in Westminster Abbey—A Sermon at St. Martin's Church—Talk of Mr. Russell and the Cabinet—More About the Cattle Plague—A Future Exhibition—Items.

The event of the week in London, of course, the funeral of Lord Palmerston, which has been so comprehensively reported by the newspapers that I can add very little to it. The announcement that, in accordance with the wish of the Government, the people, and perhaps the secret inclinations of the relatives of the illustrious deceased, his desire for a private interment in a quiet Hampshire churchyard was to be set aside in favor of a national display, gave very general satisfaction. All the week the papers have been filled with the home and foreign recollections of the claims of the late premier—the most elaborate, I think, accorded to any English statesman during the last quarter of a century. Indeed his popularity seems to have culminated in death—none might have been surprised at it if unregarding of the fact that he lived chiefly in the present and therefore is accorded a much higher position than most posterity will award him. As it is all England has "gone in" to do him honor.

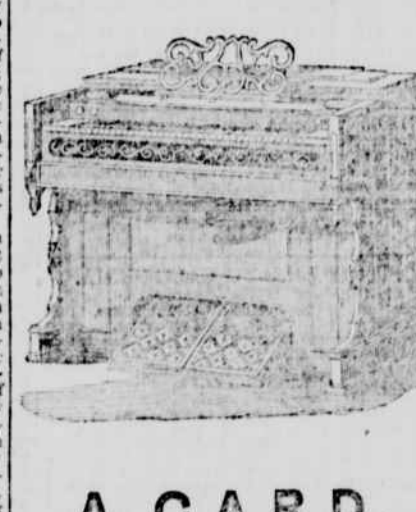

the, but not sitting, room to about 1,600 persons—was covered with black cloth, and its several degrees were marked by a narrow edging of white tape. It bore the enormous weight of humanity which, in its effort to effect this will be seriously to interfere with trade operations. There can be no doubt that the effect of this will be to seriously to interfere with trade operations. There can be no doubt that the effect of this will be to seriously to interfere with trade operations.

At the moment the scene was very impressive for a street in London. From the west, and nearly touching the heads of the people clustered round the grave, it was in fact a vast assembly. The scene was very impressive for a street in London. From the west, and nearly touching the heads of the people clustered round the grave, it was in fact a vast assembly. The scene was very impressive for a street in London. From the west, and nearly touching the heads of the people clustered round the grave, it was in fact a vast assembly.

hilled, under the Order in Council, the holding of fairs and markets for the sale of cattle for a limited period, during which it is hoped the pestilence will disappear. There can be no doubt that the effect of this will be to seriously to interfere with trade operations.

to the Prime Minister's Government, which has been so comprehensively reported by the newspapers that I can add very little to it. The announcement that, in accordance with the wish of the Government, the people, and perhaps the secret inclinations of the relatives of the illustrious deceased, his desire for a private interment in a quiet Hampshire churchyard was to be set aside in favor of a national display, gave very general satisfaction. All the week the papers have been filled with the home and foreign recollections of the claims of the late premier—the most elaborate, I think, accorded to any English statesman during the last quarter of a century.

THE FIRST PREMIUM GOLD MEDAL PELOUET ("Cabinet") ORGAN.

The undersigned asks the attention of all Fair-minded Men, Lovers of Music, Musicians and others interested, to the following STATEMENT OF FACTS: The Pelouet Organ was Publicly Exhibited for the First Time since its manufacture began, some ten years since, at the Fair of the American Institute, September 12 to October 19, 1855. Taken in their plainest case, they were placed on their merits and put in direct competition with the "Cabinet" Organ of Messrs. A. Hamelin, in exact identity of construction...

GOLD MEDAL section with detailed text about the organ's quality and awards.

Over All "Cabinet" Organs and Instruments of their class on exhibition, with a Silver Medal only was given to Messrs. A. Hamelin for the second best Cabinet Organ.

CITY NEWS.

The Rev. CHAUNCEY GILES will deliver a lecture to-morrow (Sunday) evening, at the Cooper Institute, on "Life in the Spiritual World." The discourse has attracted large audiences, and excited thoughts and a liberal spirit of philosophy.

STEINWAY & SONS GRAND SQUARE AND UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES.

are now acknowledged the best instruments in America, as well as in Europe, having been the prizewinners at the London and Paris Expositions, and in addition they were awarded the First Prize Medal at the International Exhibition in London, 1862.

Every Steinway Pianoforte is warranted for five years. Amenities the most and most valuable improvements introduced by Messrs. Steinway & Sons, in their Pianofortes.

PERECO'S PATENT BOSOM SHIRT WITH WEAVER'S FIT, CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER, LARGE STOCK OF FASHIONABLE READY-MADE CLOTHING.

WILLIAM KNABE & Co.'s GREAT IMPROVED PIANO-FORTES. These instruments are superior to any other in regard to TONE, TOUCH, WORKMANSHIP AND DURABILITY.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN, A LADY OF WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

Reputation Established! Mrs. S. A. Allen is truly a public benefactress, and her wonderful success is unprecedented. Her fame and her discoveries have gone abroad, and to-day she is in her line the largest manufacturer in the world.

MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER. MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S WORLD'S HAIR DRESSING OR ZYBOLBSAMUM. We refer, by permission, to the following well-known Clergymen, whose testimonials will be found in our Circular accompanying each bottle.