KNOXOLOGY.—A term applied to the service of hat-making, owing to the great proficiency acquired by a hatter, named KNOX, in the manufacture of the hat,—Webster. This is the hatter, KNOX of 128 Fulton-st. He is ahead again this season of all competitors, and his dashing Rocky Mountain Beavers, his light summery and attractive straw hats, and general assortment of articles of head-gear are eliciting general praise from all who call upon him. In selecting a Summer Hat, do not forget KNOX.

GENIN'S SUMMER HATS FOR 1851.—The splendid Rocky Mountain Beaver Hat, intended as GENIN'S leading dress style for the Summer, is now out, together with a variety of undress Summer Hats, light, dashing, and of the best material, and the highest finish. While adding every season some valuable improvement to his fabrics, GENIN adheres unalterably to his old and moderate prices.
GENIN, 214 Broadway, opposite St. Pauls.

BY INDUSTRY WE THRIVE.—We aim at no luxurious establishment, with its gay and costly trappings and appendages, neither do we seek for notoriety, in order that we may dazzle the multitude and lure them to our support. We simply claim our rights; the Mechanics' rights:—and we stand or fall, upon our merits as workmen. Mean oppression compelled us to assume our present position, and with undaunted republican nerve, we will maintain our ground, we will contend to the last for principles which the world knows are right; and we will TRIUMPH. We aim at excellence in our calling. We would dazzle only by the splendor of our productions; and desire that fame only which is of true desert and lasting. We cordially invite everybody to come and see us, and satisfy themselves that we are not "all talk and no cider."

A NEW SUMMER HAT.—The Gentleman's Summer Hat.—WARNOCKS, Hatters, have great pleasure in announcing that they will introduce, THIS DAY, May 22, a new and most beautiful style of light fur Hat for gentlemen's Summer wear. This new and beautiful Hat is manufactured of an exceedingly rare species of French gray beaver, never before attempted for a similar purpose in this country, and possesses, independent of color, (which is a charm in itself,) incomparable merit. The weight of this Hat is about three and a half ounces; and we feel warranted in believing that there has never been a hat produced possessing so much intrinsic fitness for a gentleman's Summer Hat as the French Gray Beaver, now introduced by us. NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

NEW-YORK, WEDNESDAY, MAY 28, 1851.

To our Subscribers.

In justice to our carriers, we would state that the late hour at which The Tribune has been served for two or three mornings past, has been in consequence of moving our printing press from the basement to the vault. Hereafter we intend that there shall be no cause for complaint.

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION.—At the Congressional Election in the IId, IVth and VIIth Districts on Monday. ROBERT RANTOUL, Jr. (Free Soil Loco) was chosen in the IId by a large vote. In the IVth it is a tight squeeze, but the probability is BENJAMIN W. THOMPSON (Whig) is chosen. Still, further returns may cut down his plurality to nothing. The latest dispatch gives him only 30.

In the VIIth District we were startled by the report that Henry W. Bishop (Loco) had a plurality over Col. JOHN Z. GOODRICH (Free Soil Whig.) This seemed impossible, but in these days one is ready to believe in anything in the way of political treachery and blindness. Subsequent and perfectly reliable accounts, however, put the right face on the matter. Col. Goodrich is elected by not far from 400 majority. We congratulate him and the true-hearted Massachusetts Whigs who have worked zealously to secure his election.

CAVAIGNAC AND THE FRENCH PRESIDENCY.—Our telegraphic dispatch from Halifax, received late on Monday night and published yesterday, announced that Gen. Cavaignac is put forward as a candidate for the Presidency in France, and that Emile de Girardin favors his election. This we venture to say is impossible. It would have about as much sense to say that Gen. Foote, of Mississippi, was nominated for President in this country, and that The Tribune was among his supporters.

CONNECTICUT.—The Legislature of this State will make an attempt to elect a Senator of the United States in place of Hon. R. S. BALDWIN, on Thursday next. Mr. Baldwin has been nominated by the Whig members for reelection, and we hope he will be returned, but in view of recent proceedings at the Connecticut capitol, we shall venture no prophesy as to the result of the ballotings.

The Riot at Hoboken.

That spirit of riot and disorder so summarily and beneficially quelled at Astor Place, has again manifested itself in fearful outrage in our vicinity. The details of the riot as given in The Tribune of yesterday and this morning, may well arrest the attention of every person concerned in the order and welfare of the city.

The facts, as far as our reporters have been able to ascertain them, are, that the riot was provoked in the first instance, by a gang of bullies who, under various epithets, have for some time past infested this community, and whose members cultivate brutality and pursue outrage as a profession and amusement. On Monday these persons beset the Germans peaceably assembled at Hoboken with their wives and children, to celebrate their National Festival of Pentecost, as they have done for several years past. The intruders had refreshments for which they refused to pay; and when the demand was insisted on, responded by breaking up the booths at which they had been entertained. Thus assailed and provoked to fight, the Germans naturally took the matter into their own hands and a dreadful riot ensued, in which both parties seem to have fought with equal ferocity. Neither police nor military force were at hand to stop it, and the one or two magistrates who sought to intervene, were knocked down and injured by the combatants, and for some hours the battle raged with fury, the Germans finally proving victorious and bringing off their women and children to this side of the river. Life was lost, severe wounds received, and property destroyed.

These we take to be the facts, although a different story is put forth in behalf of the Short Boys, as the more prominent antagonists of the Germans designate themselves. Whether our judgment is correct or not, will, we trust, soon be decided by a thorough judicial inquiry; and meantime there is no injustice in saying that the probabilities are altogether against the party whom we have designated as the aggressors. They are notorious bullies, vagabonds and rampant disturbers of the peace; while the Germans in general, bear the character of orderly, industrious and useful citizens. This is the fifth year that we have known of their Maifest at Hoboken, and never before has it been attended by any disturbance. The inference from all the facts about them, is that if they had not been assailed, it would now have passed off with the usual gaiety and good feeling which form prominent elements of their national character.

Serious blame rests somewhere for the absence of a respectable police force at Hoboken on this occasion. We do not know what are the arrangements or resources of the magistrates in that village; but it is certain that a place resorted to for purposes of amusement by such numbers and varieties of people, ought not to be without proper agents, and enough of them, for the enforcement of order. Had constables been upon the spot to check this affair in its inception, and arrest the offenders, it is probable that the melancholy sequel might have been avoided. We know not who is at fault in this, but a fault there is, and that a heavy one.

Were the lesson needed, this affair might impress it on every mind that in the case of a riotous and furious mob the most vigorous and decided action is both wisdom and mercy. Prompt suppression is far more necessary than future punishment, and will be found ten times as efficient in preventing a recurrence of the evil. This is a truth that might well be appreciated and borne in mind in other places than Hoboken. The usual forms and penalties of the law are known to the professors and heroes of such melées only to be evaded or despised, but for ball cartridges they have an unfeigned respect. The bullets fired at Astor-Place and the lives lost there caused a profound and painful shock to the people of our city, but who can estimate the service they rendered in securing its peace, or the evil now engendered, not for the Jersey shore only, but for New-York as well, by the fact that the present riot was suffered to have free course and renew itself again and again, in spite of, or in the absence of the civil and military power?

It is undeniable that there ferments in the bosom of our American society, a mass of wanton and obstreperous brutality which either does not exist elsewhere or is not allowed to attain such lusty fullness of manifestation. In no country where the principle of authority has yet a foothold, would such gangs as our Killers and Short Boys be suffered to exist for a day out of prison. Here they defy the Police and, except in case of some glaring crime, laugh at the terror of the law. If their ranks are thinned by calamity, or their semi-savage organizations dissolved, they find new recruits and straightway reappear in new forms. Their very existence is thought by some to be an omen of awful calamity to the country where they are so luxuriantly produced, and many excellent persons behold them almost with despair. For our part, while we admit the full extent of the evil, we cannot regard it as other than incidental to a purely transitional social condition. In America, the great problem which thinkers elsewhere speculate upon, the conciliation of Freedom and Order, is receiving gradually and progressively a practical solution, and that on the ground that the two may not merely be harmonized, but are essentially identical. Preparatory to it, as by the hand of Providence, the restraints, such as respect for mere authority, superstitious obedience to tradition, regard to classes and persons, which do so much, and indeed, often do all to keep the social machine in equilibrium in older countries, have here been removed. Our democratic experiment has, of necessity, dispensed with them, and as we advance in our career their absence is felt in this irregular and violent action of elements in our population for which the requisite culture and sphere of useful activity have not yet been provided. It is certainly conceivable that these wild energies, which now so often rage with a brutality commensurate with their native force, should in another and better state of things be absorbed and employed for their own and the universal good. It is no reason to suspect Society on the democratic basis of being a failure, because it produces these odious phenomena, which, indeed, only despotism is altogether free from. And while we wisely use the means at our hand to suppress and prevent such outrages as have led to these remarks, and while we frown upon and discourage the influences that favor and maintain the spirit of blackguardism, it should not be forgotten that the most efficient, and in truth, the sole real and permanent prevention lies in the elevation of Society with all its classes; and that the nearer we approach the ideal contemplated by our American institutions, the more entirely will these hateful accidents disappear, and give place to social characteristics which no man and no community will have reason to regard with either shame or anxiety.

☞ Hon. SIMEON BALDWIN, a venerable and eminent citizen of Connecticut, died at his residence in New-Haven on the morning of the 26th inst. in the 90th year of his age. Mr. Baldwin was the father of Hon. Roger S. Baldwin, late U. S. Senator. He was a gentleman of fine education and brilliant talents, and had enjoyed through life the confidence of his fellow-citizens to a remarkable degree, having served the public in the various capacities of Clerk of the Circuit Court of the U. S., Member of Congress, Judge of the Superior Court and Court of Errors, Canal Commissioner, Mayor of New-Haven, &c.

FROM RIO JANEIRO.—We learn from the Captain of the bark Gipsy, from Rio Janeiro, April 7, that the Fever had much abated. Freights to United States rather dull. Nominal rate $1 per bag. Coffee in good demand. Weather the past week, fine and pleasant, and favorable to shipping Coffee.

THE TENTH CONCERT.—To-night the Tenth Concert of the Farewell Series will be given at Tripler Hall. There is a charming programme. Jenny Lind sings: "Una voce," "Perche non ho del vento," "O Rest in the Lord," from Mendelssohn's Elijah, the ever electrical "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "John Anderson, my jo,"—the latter for the first time. No other singer but Jenny Lind would dare to sing the familiar ballads of a foreign tongue, in the very style and sentiment of a native singer. But to that marvellous voice and that rare intellect nothing seems impossible.

THE ITALIAN OPERA.—Maretzek's Italian Opera Troupe will positively give their first performance at the Astor-place Opera House on Monday evening next. The Opera has been remarkably successful in Boston, where Bosio and Bettini have created quite an excitement. The latter appears to be regarded as one of the finest tenors we have had among us.

Mexican Awards.

An erroneous impression seeming to prevail abroad in regard to the late payments at the Treasury of the Mexican awards, the Chief Clerk requests us to state that those payments were made by requisitions and warrants passing through the usual routine of bureaus of the Department, to the respective heads of which, and the clerks therein, every credit is due for the prompt and satisfactory manner in which the views of the Secretary were carried out. [Wash. Rep.

THE PEOPLE'S VERDICT.

THE CANAL BILL TRIUMPHANT!

TRIBUNE OFFICE, Wednesday, May 27—1 A.M.

Our returns are not so full as we hoped to receive, but they are enough to show that we have carried at least three out of the twelve Senators, and probably there are some more of the same sort left. This is enough to prevent any further conspiracy in the Senate, and insure the passage of the Canal Bill. The revulsion against the disorganizers has been tremendous.

CHARLES A. MANN, the leader of the revolutionists, is defeated by above 2,000 majority in a District (Oneida) which last Fall gave the Opposition candidate for Governor a majority of eleven hundred!

In the XXth (Oswego and Madison) District, MOSES P. HATCH is certainly elected.

And in the VIIIth (Dutchess and Columbia), JOSEPH HALSTEAD is no doubt chosen by a sufficient majority.

From the XVIth we have not sufficient returns to speak with certainty, but there is reason to hope that JOHN SANFORD (Whig) is chosen over George H. Fox, (Recusant.)

At any rate the revolutionists are beaten! That is enough for this morning. Here are the figures, as received by telegraph and express:

Election Returns.

ARREST OF CUBAN REVOLUTIONISTS.—The Savannah News has the following letter:

ST. JAGO DE CUBA, Wednesday, May 7.

A number of arrests have been made at St. Jago de Cuba. Papers were taken which discovered a plot to commence an insurrection while on a grand parade, and the insurgents had taken measures to capture the head-quarters of the city, and to secure the landing of Garibaldi with 3,000 men. At the same time Lopez would have effected his landing in some part of Havana. The Judge, after having concluded the proceedings, sentenced to death four and to perpetual punishment three of the principal officers, and to ten years hard labor a sergeant of the garrison and two privates. The traitor who betrayed them was released. This sentence has been approved by the Captain General at Havana.

☞ THE MYSTERY in regard to the schooner Flirt, which was at this port last week, is explained: it seems that those who purchased her went off with the vessel without paying their debts, and this mysterious conduct about here was to avoid their creditors. A letter from New-York to a gentleman in this town thus explains the matter.
[Newport News.

☞ The tornado at St. Louis on the 17th of May, previously reported by telegraph, injured not less than one hundred buildings. The front of Mrs. Morel's millinery establishment was blown out, and a Mrs. Mawley was buried in the ruins and much injured. The fine steeple of the Baptist Church, corner of Sixth and Locust-streets, was blown down. A gentleman was knocked off his horse by a falling shutter. Roofs, chimneys and walls were blown down and much other damage done. The boats in the river did not suffer.

The Secretary of State at Utica.

UTICA, Tuesday, May 27.

Hon. Daniel Webster and suite, arrived in the cars, last evening, at 11 o'clock. They were met at the cars by a large concourse of people, and introduced, by J. A. Spencer. Mr. Webster briefly addressed the assemblage, after which a score of ladies paid their respects to him at Bragg's Hotel.

Mr. Webster left at 11 o'clock this morning, for Albany.

Later from Port-au-Prince—Boston Stock Exchange.

BOSTON, Tuesday, May 27.

Capt. Allen, of schooner Commerce, arrived to-day from Port-au-Prince, May 10, reports all quiet when he left.

Mr. Walsh, the American Consul, left on the 10th for Jackmel.

Prince Bobo was still in the mountains. There was but little Coffee in market, and prices were in consequence higher.

The Rescue of Shadrach the Fugitive Slave.

BOSTON, Tuesday, May 27.

The trial of James Scott, (colored man,) for aiding in the late Slave rescue has progressed no further than the empanelling of a Jury, after considerable argument by Counsel. The following questions were put before qualifying the Jurymen—First: Have you formed or expressed an opinion against the Constitutionality of the Fugitive Slave Law. Second: Would such doubts prevent you from finding a verdict of guilty if the Court should instruct you that the Law is constitutional. Third: Do you hold any opinion in regard to the Fugitive Law which would prevent you from finding a verdict if the facts are proved against the accused, and the Court should instruct you that the Law is Constitutional. After satisfactorily responding to the above questions, a Jury was empanelled, eight of whom are residents of Boston, two of Chelsea, and two of Charlestown. The first thirteen Counts charge the prisoner with aiding Shadrach to escape, stated in different ways. The last three of resisting an officer of the United States.
