NORTH CAROLINA.

Message of Gov. Worth to the Legislature—Its Recommendations—State Finances—A Stay Law—No Further Necessity for the Freedmen's Bureau—Revising the Code—Collection of Taxes—Admission of Representatives to Congress.

RALEIGH, N. C., Friday, Jan. 19, 1866.

Gov. Worth's Message was read before the Assembly to-day. He recommends the early appointment of magistrates, and that the acts of the Provisional Clerks and Sheriffs performed since the Provisional Governor was relieved be confirmed by the Legislature. He recommends that the Attorney-General have a fixed salary and reside at the capital, and not be required to ride the circuit.

He recommended that all laws passed during the war unsuited to their present condition or in conflict with their allegiance or with the Constitution of the State or United States be repealed. The Governor hoped the time is not far distant when the United States will perceive we are ready to perform all our obligations to the National Government.

He advises the adoption of a judicious militia code, and the reorganization of the militia of the State. He reviews the condition of the banks, and advises an amendment to the charter of banks and railroads to allow them to take stock in National Banks. The State debt, exclusive of the war debt, is nearly $14,500,000.

The Governor says when the Legislature shall have appointed justices of the peace, and the courts are restored, the machinery of the Civil Government will be about complete. He recommends a stay law for the benefit of debtors if a constitutional mode can be devised. Gov. Worth thinks there will be no necessity for continuing the Freedmen's Bureau after the jurisdiction of the courts is restored.

He advises the issue and sale of State funds to pay interest on the State debt. Taxes to meet liabilities would be more than double former taxes, and more than the people, in their impoverished condition, could pay. The Governor would not be understood as being despondent relative to State affairs. He says we must rely chiefly upon our virtue and perservering industry; says we must protect the laborer and punish vagrants.

The blacks can get justice from the courts, and all conflict of authority will be prevented. He refers the Legislature to the commission appointed by the Convention to review the code touching the blacks, makes no specific recommendation, but leaves the matter with the Assembly. He also refers to the collection of taxes by Federal officers and regrets that our Senators and Representatives have not been admitted to Congress.

He closes as follows: "I pray God a returning sense of patriotism and justice will ere long correct the prejudices of the time, and carry out the wise system so successfully begun and perfected, so far as depended on the executive authority, for the restoration of the States, of a constitutional and harmonious Union, and that He will inspire all of us with the wisdom and disposition to do right."

Feniauism—The Calling of a Convention Urged—An Address.

The Fenian Senate reassembled at No. 734 Broadway yesterday. A resolution was adopted recommending Col. Roberts to convene a Congress on the 19th of next February, the Congress to meet in Pittsburgh. Col. Roberts will, doubtless, approve of this resolution on his return from Philadelphia, where he is now stopping; and so the "Congress" will so be ordered to convene.

The Senate then adopted an Address to the Fenian Brotherhood. There have been so many "Addresses" that the public are probably becoming heartily tired of them, but they might as well be informed that the present one recites the origin of the difficulties with Col. O'Mahony, whom it accuses of having violated the Fenian Constitution by his celebrated coup.

It states that the Constitution was modeled after that of the United States, and O'Mahoney has substituted in himself, for its safeguard, the one-man power. The manner in which O'Mahony's Congress was called, and its proceedings, are also reviewed; it is also stated that it did not represent the views of the Brotherhood throughout the country. The address recommends a general reorganization of the circles as military bodies.

There was a large meeting of the Gen. Sweeney Circle on Thursday evening at the corner of First-ave. and Eleventh-st., and a special meeting of the Wolf Tone Circle will take place on Monday evening.

Obituary.

Died, at Binghamton, N. Y., on the 5th inst., CYRUS STRONG, esq., in the 89th year of his age.

The death of such an aged and worthy man is entitled to more than a simple announcement. He was born in Colchester, Conn., in 1777. His father, Jacob Strong, was a prominent business man of his day, and was extensively engaged during the Revolutionary War in the transportation of troops and military stores, and was financially ruined by the depreciation of Continental money. At the age of sixteen, his son Cyrus, without money or influence, pushed out into the world to make his own fortune. His first efforts were at the manufacture of iron in his native State and in New-York, and after seven years of success he invested his earnings in merchandise, and opened a store in 1800 at Jericho, now Bainbridge, N. Y., in which he continued until 1810, when he transferred his business to real estate and private banking. In 1826 he removed to Norwich, and became interested in the Chenango Bank, and afterward one of the principal movers in establishing the "Wayne County Bank." He sold out his interest in the latter institution in 1831, and moved to Binghamton, taking a large interest in the "Broome County Bank," which soon led him to the Presidency, which office he continued to hold to the day of his death. He was a self-made man, with rare financial ability, of the old-school stamp, and his success in the acquisition of property was the just recompense of his industry, frugality, temperance, spotless integrity, punctuality and sound judgment. All these qualities marked his conduct in the transaction of business, and in his general intercourse with his follow-men. He was exemplary in all the relations of life, a kind husband and father, a true friend, and a man of vast, though unostentatious, charity; and, after a long and well-spent life, he has gone to his final rest, "having the testimony of a good conscience, in the confidence of a certain faith, and in perfect charity with all men."

WHY IS IT?

Why do the people crowd the rooms of the Colton Dental Association? SIX REASONS. I. Because they originated the use of the gas, and ought to know how to make and administer it in the best manner. II. Because they have administered it to 9,000 patients without the first accident or failure and therefor have 9,000 advertisers. III. Because they do nothing but extract teeth, and constant experience enables them to do it in the best manner. IV. Because nearly all the best dentists in the city recommend their patients to them. V. Because they make the gas fresh every day. VI. Because they agree to make no charge if they cause any pain.

THE LAST DAYS of ex-President Martin Van Buren were made comfortable by the use of JONAS WHITCOMB'S ASTHMA REMEDY. Letters to our possession from his physician, and from Mr. Van Buren himself, express much gratification with the results of its use.

Extract from the "Life of Washington Irving," by his nephew, Pierre M. Irving, Vol. IV., page 272:

"The doctor prescribed, as an experiment—what had been suggested by Dr. (O. W.) Holmes on his late visit—Jonas Whitcomb's Remedy for Asthma, a teaspoonful in a wineglass of water, to be taken every four hours. A good night was the result."

In no case of purely Asthmatic character has it failed to give prompt relief, and in many cases a permanent cure has been effected. No danger need be apprehended from its use. An infant may take it with perfect safety. (See circular.)
