

WHO IS KEMMLER'S FRIEND?

THE MYSTERY OF THE STAY NOT YET SOLVED.

MR. SHERMAN SAYS HE ACTED IN THE INTERESTS OF HUMANITY—MR. WESTINGHOUSE DENIES HAVING RETAINED HIM.

The writ of habeas corpus granted by Judge Wallace in the Kemmler case and its possible consequences, together with the identity of the clients of Roger M. Sherman, who took out the writ, were the subjects which occupied the attention of many lawyers in this city yesterday.

It seemed to be the general belief that the stay in Kemmler's case had been brought about by the Westinghouse Company, which made many efforts to prevent the proposed execution.

Paul D. Cravath, the counsel of the company, to whom Mr. Westinghouse directed the reporters for further information, maintained the same things. He said that the member of his firm who was in Auburn on Tuesday was there upon another business entirely.

When W. Bourke Cockran was told yesterday afternoon that it was said that he had retained Mr. Sherman, he looked somewhat surprised and answered: "I cannot speak upon that subject."

Mr. Sherman was retained by the Westinghouse Company, which made many efforts to prevent the proposed execution.
