Wraps and skirts reduced

WE have found that we haven't all sizes in four lots of wraps and three lots of skirts which we cannot duplicate for near so little as we paid for them, so we'll close them out at a big reduction.

You may have the privilege of our liberal credit system to help you buy them—pay for them so much a week or month.

This lot are those that were left from the immense purchase we made a short while ago and at the prices which we've been quoting for them were very big values. But now they're still further reduced.

Lot of plain Beaver and Cheviot Coats—have the newest collars and fronts—are exceedingly stylish—have been selling all season for $5 and $6—will now go for $2.98

Lot of Lamb's Wool and Astrakhan Jackets—some half silk lined; some all-silk line; some with velvet inlaid collars—sizes have been selling all season for $10—now go for $4.98

Lot of Infants' plain Cloth and Cashmere Long Coats, trimmed with angora and some with braid—such coats as you have seen elsewhere marked $5—will go at $2.98

Lot of elegant Silk Seal Plush Capes, braided and beaded, and all-silk lined; very wide ripple sweeps—such as is now selling for $15—will go for $8.98

Lot of Figured Brilliantine and Boucle Cloth Skirts—well made, bound with velveteen and lined—really worth $3.50 and more—will go for $7.69

Lot of rough Cheviot, boucle, plain serge, fancy mixed cloth and two-tone effect, Walking Skirts—the most stylish skirts of the season—which have sold oftentimes for $6 and $8—will go at $4.98

You ladies may have your choice of a lot of fancy, mixed cloth Bicycle Suits with all-silk lined jackets, divided skirts, leggins and pocket-book to match—we got $12 this fall—for $6.50

50c flannelette waists, 19c

What man is missing

This offering of $10 and $12 suits and overcoats for $6.98. We advise you not to. We haven't had the pleasure before of ever giving so much value for so little money.

You can't have the excuse of having no money for you don't need much with our liberal credit system at your service.

You don't have to have the excuse of necessity for the weather is almost as "chilly" as it will be.

We've kept on adding the better garments—brought over a lot from Baltimore, so the choice is excellent.

Boy's pants and reefer sale.

We have secured a lot of boys' all-wool separate knee pants from a maker who supplies the best retail clothiers in the country. These very same retailers are getting 75c a pair for these pants but by chance we get several hundred pairs to sell for 39c each. Take them on credit if you wish. You're saving just 36c on every pair you buy.

We put on a table tomorrow morning a lot of the best Warombo chinchilla reefers and Irish frieze ulsters that have been $5 for $3.98. Best value you were ever offered—an actual reduction of former prices. Easy payments when you want to buy.

TWO TEXAS TRAGEDIES.

One Man Shot and Other Fatally Stabbed.

Centerville, Tex., Dec. 26.—On Christmas Day an altercation occurred between Archie Stevens, son of County Clerk Stevens, and Henry C. Colburn, a wealthy farmer. During the quarrel young Stevens shot Colburn dead.

After this tragedy J. L. Shaw, son-in-law of Colburn, got into a dispute with George Coleman, a rich mulatto, and they fought with knives. Coleman's throat was cut so badly that he died. Shaw is in jail badly carved up.

Coleman was a large property owner, and at times made himself rather familiar with the whites.

Fair Was a Success.

New York, Dec. 26.—The Commercial Travelers' fair at Madison Square Garden closed this evening. About $5,000 has been cleared.

FOUGHT TWENTY ROUNDS

McPartland and Zeigler Battled to a Draw.

HOT LIGHTWEIGHT BOUT

Four Thousand Spectators Saw the Go Before the Broadway Athletic Club—Fighting Was of a High Order and Scientific From the Start.

New York, Dec. 26.—Four thousand sporting men saw Owen Zeigler of Philadelphia, and Kid McPartland of this city, lightweights, fight twenty rounds to a draw at the Broadway Athletic Club tonight. Zeigler did most of the work throughout the battle, but his swings were as a rule wide of the mark, whereas his opponent showed plenty of cleverness and impressed the spectators by making a draw, when before the men entered the ring the betting was 5 to 8 in favor of the Philadelphian.

The first bout, as slated, for ten rounds, at catch weights, was between Billy Stift of Chicago, and Frank Purcell of California.

It was a cyclone contest throughout and the referee decided the bout a draw.

There was not a vacant seat in the house when the stars, Zeigler and McPartland, came on to box twenty rounds at 133 pounds. The seconds for Zeigler were B. Kenny, Doc Williams and Frank Hart, while McPartland's handlers were Tommy West, Doc Dougherty and Bob Clark. They shook hands at 10:15 o'clock.

Fight by Rounds.

Round 2—McPartland opened with a couple of lefts on the neck, and then ducked away from a hard swing. Zeigler then rushed, but his opponent clinched. Zeigler sent a right to the neck, and also put the same hand hard on the ear. McPartland used his left straight on the nose, but he was slow in comparison to the Philadelphia man, who sent his right repeatedly to the head and body.

Round 3—McFarland drove a hard left to the mouth. They exchanged short arm body punches and clinched. McPartland punched the Quaker scarcely in the eye. Zeigler rushed and sent in both hands to the head, McPartland clinching near the ropes.

Round 4—McPartland led with a left on the head. Zeigler then rushed his man to the ropes. Zeigler ran into a straight left and got a right on the ear, at the same time driving in a hard rib-roaster which brought a clinch.

Zeigler on the Rush.

Round 5—Zeigler put a heavy right on the neck and received a cross counter on the mouth. Zeigler rushed again. McPartland ducked. The "Kid" put a straight left on the nose and Zeigler rushed for the third time, McPartland clinching.

Round 6—McPartland jabbed his left on the eye and drew first blood. Zeigler responded with a hard rush. McPartland countered on the mouth.

Round 7—McPartland rushed and jammed left and right into the face. Zeigler put a jolt on the chin. So far the fight had been even, although Zeigler had done the bulk of the work.

Round 8—Zeigler put a right on the neck and they exchanged swings, both landing. McPartland then led for the neck. Zeigler stopped the blow, and rushed the kid to the ropes in a clinch.

This a Hot One.

Round 11—Zeigler led with a left on the body and received a rapping right on the jaw. Zeigler put a left on the neck and the "Kid" responded with a couple of jabs on the mouth. Owen sent a corking left to the body, and McPartland drove a sharp one to the mouth. They exchanged straight punches and a rush by Zeigler was neatly stopped.

Round 12—Zeigler ran in lotly and was crossed with a right. McPartland put in lefts to the mouth.

Round 14—Mac shot his left to the mouth, and Zeigler sent a corking right on the jaw. Both landed hard swings on the neck and Zeigler, in a rush, caught his man on the jaw with a straight jolt, that sent Mac to the ropes. Zeigler rushed in again and Mac found his jaw with a swing that clearly staggered him. They exchanged swings as the bell rang.

The Wind-up.

Round 16—Zeigler ran into a clinch. Both landed lefts on the neck, and Zeigler sent his right across on the ear. Mac began to force matters, and worked his left well on the mouth. Zeigler then changed his tactics from swinging to straight jabs with his left, until Mac drove a couple of stiff ones on the face.

Round 17.—McPartland put left and right on the face. Owen came back with a stiff left on the mouth. Zeigler put in a left on the nose, but Mac jabbed him half a dozen times on the face before time was up.

Round 18—McPartland opened with two clean lefts on the mouth and then mixed it up, getting in a couple of rib-roasters. Zeigler rushed in with a wild drive for the head and was straightened up with a punch on the mouth.

Round 19—Zeigler rushed, and a rally at in-fighting followed. Zeigler rushed again but Mac kept away. Finally Owen got in a right upper-cut on the wind.

Round 20—Zeigler mixed it up at once, and the kid put enough steam into swings to stagger the Quaker. A heavy left made Zeigler's nose bleed, and another one caused Mac to flounder a bit. Both men were tired when the bell ended the battle. The referee, Dick Roche, declared the fight a draw.

BETRAYED BY AN ITALIAN

Large Counterfeiting Den Seized by Pueblo, Col., Police.

Pueblo, Col., Dec. 26.—At a late hour last night the police of this city unearthed one of the largest and most thoroughly equipped counterfeiters' dens ever discovered.

Chief of Police McFarren obtained information from an ignorant Italian of alleged extensive counterfeiting. Capt. McFarren's informant stated that Hector Chargilion, proprietor of a large second-hand store and the most prominent Italian in Pueblo, had offered him $10,000 in gold coin for $2,000 in good money.

Acting on the information the police visited No. 412 Mesa avenue, the house in which the unlawful work was said to be progressing. As the officers approached the house two men ran out and opened fire on them, shot for shot being returned without effect.

The men escaped, but the policemen arrested Charles Marcow and wife and Zelius Selist, whom they found occupying the house.

On making a search of the cellar a complete counterfeiting outfit was revealed, together with evidence that the work was being conducted on an extensive scale. The officers then proceeded to Chargilion's store and arrested him.

The arrest has created a sensation. Chargilion but a few weeks ago was elected president of the Italian Societies of America at their convention held in Chicago.

HIS MIND WAS UNBALANCED.

Old-Time Riverman Commits Suicide in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 26.—Capt. George Michaels, sixty years of age, an old-time riverman, died late this evening in Mercy Hospital from the effects of a bullet fired by himself into his head about 4 o'clock this afternoon with suicidal intent.

Capt. Michaels resided with his son and daughter in a flat on Wylie avenue. The shooting was done in the absence of the children. Life was not extinct when the discovery was made by his daughter, and much mystery surrounds the suicide.

Despondency over the recent death of his wife and doubtful success of several inventions doubtlessly unbalanced his mind.

Million-Dollar Failure.

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 26.—The Security Mortgage and Trust Company applied for a receiver this evening. Judge Smith of the Fourteenth judicial district court named H. A. Kohler, the company's manager, as receiver. The liabilities are $2,000,000; assets, estimated to realize about $1,000,000. English, New York, and Philadelphia investors, representing 70 per cent. of the stock, will be principal losers. The failure was caused by unprofitable real estate loans and investments.

BERLIN'S HOLIDAYS DULL

Tradesmen Complain and Social Functions Were Few.

CHARITY WAS HARD PUSHED

Kaiser and the Imperial Family Were United and Spent a Pleasant Day—Some of William's Gifts. Increased Budget for Artillery. Gun Secrets Leak Out.

Berlin, Dec. 26.—The Christmas holidays this year have been very much duller than for many years past. The tradesmen have been greatly dissatisfied at the lack of holiday business in comparison with other years, and the workingmen have been discontented at the slackness of work, and the consequent scarcity of money with which to provide their families with the bare necessities of life, to say nothing of the purchase of Christmas goods.

Added to this state of affairs, the damp, raw weather, which has prevailed for the last few days, and still endures, has had a dispiriting effect upon everybody, the absence of the old-time crisp frosts at Christmastide having deprived the period of its usual glow of festivity.

Last Christmas the tradesmen complained of bad business, but they all agree in declaring that this year it is far worse. It is not the lack of attractive inducements that retard shoppers from buying. There was never a better display in the shop windows, nor was there ever so tasteful an arrangement of holiday goods under the brilliancy of electric lights, or a more elaborate drapery of the lines.

Nevertheless, the jewelers and all other tradesmen who were relying upon reaping a harvest through their Christmas sales, are complaining bitterly of their inability to do a satisfactory, or even a moderate degree of business, and it is only the cheaper toy shops and stores dealing in fancy articles that are doing any business at all.

Poor Taken Care Of.

Though less money has been spent in the purchase of Christmas presents, a great deal more than usual has been bestowed upon the absolutely destitute classes. In addition to those already existing two night refuges were opened on Christmas Eve, while yesterday food and clothing were distributed to hundreds of distressed persons.

The numbers of bazaars in behalf of various charities have also been increased and house to house collections to aid poor children have been made. In consequence of this increase in charitable work there were general Christmas treats of dinners at the asylums, prisons, casual wards, soup kitchens, donations to hospitals, etc., to a degree of beneficence beyond precedent. The donations exceeded all previous years in respect of abundance and the charities to which they were devoted were much wider in scope.

The emperor's two eldest sons, Crown Prince William and Prince Eitel Frederick, arrived at the New Palace at Potsdam on Tuesday from Ploen College, where they are pursuing their studies, for the purpose of enjoying the holidays with their parents.

On Christmas Eve the imperial family and the servants of their household assembled in the ante-room of the apartments of the empress, where the empress and the children presented the domestics belonging to the household with gifts.

Enjoyed by Royalty.

The emperor and empress, with the whole court, and Prince and Princess of Schaumburg-Lippe then dined in the Marble Hall of the Palace. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the Christmas trees were lighted and the presents displayed in the grotto of the saloon.

Conspicuous upon the emperor's table was an immense silver goblet and a carved clock five feet high, from the Grand Duchess of Paden, the emperor's aunt.

The imperial children ran about the saloon in high glee, showing the members of the court the presents they had received. The Empress Frederick is spending the Christmas holidays with her son, Prince Henry of Prussia, and his wife, Princess Irene, at Kiel.

There is high authority for stating that the war office is undecided whether or not to present to the Reichstag a bill asking for a very largely increased credit for the augmentation of the artillery branch of the army at the present session of the legislative body.

The government is anxious to secure an enormous credit for the purpose of carrying out its plans for the addition of new artillery, but there is no certainty that the present Reichstag will grant it.

Gen. Von Gossler, minister of war, in the course of a recent address to the budget committee of the Reichstag in regard to a new gun, which he described as being superior to the new French "Canet" quick-firing gun, asked the members of the commission to observe the strictest secrecy concerning the gun.

Secret Leaked Out.

Some indiscreet members, however, disclosed the whole plan of the gun, and the budget committee has begun a searching inquiry with a view of ascertaining which of its members has shown himself unfit to be trusted with the secrets of the body.

Advices from St. Petersburg say that a sensation has been created there by the decision of the holy synod to excommunicate Count Lyof Tolstoi, the celebrated Russian author, from the orthodox church upon the ground that his works are calculated to and do undermine the church. The synod was incited to this action by M. Pobedonostzoff, the procurer general of the synod, who proposes to summon Count Tolstoi before the synod for trial, which will involve his being deprived of his civil rights.

Gen. and Mrs. Buckner Entertained.

Boston, Dec. 26.—Gen. and Mrs. Simon B. Buckner were the special guests at the annual banquet of the New England Free Trade League this evening. The event which was set apart as ladies' night was celebrated at the Hotel Brunswick, and the occasion was graced by the presence of a large number of the wives and fair companions of the members.

THREE NOW DEAD.

Another Baltimore Lad Succumbs to Hydrophobia.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 26.—Three victims of the mad St. Bernard dog which on December 1 ran amuck through the little towns of Woodberry, Hampden and Waverly, have succumbed to the dreaded hydrophobia.

Eight boys were bitten by the brute and were sent to the Pasteur institute, in New York, for treatment. Shortly after their return last week one of the little fellows, Robert Henry, eight years old, died in great agony.

Last midnight Conrad Eppers, fifteen years of age, followed him, and this afternoon Robert Perry, four years old, died.

The remaining five victims are reported by their physicians to be doing nicely. All three of the dead boys were bitten about the face or hands by the vicious animal.

MR. BRYAN'S LECTURES.

He Says But Five Have Been Arranged for So Far.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 26.—W. J. Bryan returned tonight from Atlanta, Ga., and to the United Associated Presses made the following statement in connection with his lecture engagements:

"Mr. V. E. McBeth, with my consent, transferred his contract to H. Briggs & Co. of Greenville, S. C. Only five more lectures have been arranged for up to this time, and whether I shall deliver any in addition to that number is as yet uncertain. I have some work on hand which may interfere with the delivery of any other lectures during this season."

Mr. Bryan will remain in Lincoln for an indefinite period.

Died Protecting His Son.

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 26.—A special to the Advertiser from Selma says: While protecting his son from an attack by a negro, H. C. Ringall, one of the most prominent farmers of the county, was struck on the head with a stick by Jonas Bates, colored, and his skull so crushed as to cause death in a few hours. The colored man who did the killing is in jail.
